Stanfield May Bare Shipyard Policy

Chief in Vancouver

By IAN STREET
Colonist Reporter

VANCOUVER — The crisis in the West Coast shipbuilding industry is likely to be the prime topic when Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield addresses an election rally in Memorial Arena at 8:30 p.m. today.

When the Tory leader came to Vancouver Wednesday morning from Edmonton he was greeted at Kerrisdale Arena by about a dozen pickets carrying signs protesting building of ships overseas while hundreds of B.C. shipyard workers are jobless.

Youthful party workers carrying Stanfield signs jostled elbow to elbow with picketers who identified themselves as representatives of maritime and shipyard unions affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labor.

The picketers' signs called for immediate establishment of a Canadian merchant marine and protested the building in Japan recently of two lumber carriers by MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.

When Mr. Stanfield stepped from his open car after travelling from Vancouver International Airport a party official using a bull horn led mini-skirted cheerleaders in a chant of "Go, Bob, Go."

The pickets, who all claimed to be unemployed seamen and shipyard workers from the Lower Mainland, brandished their signs and shouted: "Can-

Wives, Politicians Can't Visit Quebec Yard Campers

QUEBEC (CP) — Outsiders including politicians and reporters Wednesday were refused access to the George T. Davie Co. shipyards in nearby Lauzon where 33 workers have been camping in tents since last week to protest the closing down of the shipyards.

Richard Milhomme, chairman of an emergency committee set up by the shipyard workers' union to look after the campers' welfare, said in an interview it now is impossible to get on the site.

The workers set up tents before the shipyards closed down Saturday, protesting that 1,000 men would lose their jobs because the Canadian Vickers Co. Ltd. had decided to sell the Davie Co. and discontinue its Lauzon operations.

"One camper's wife was ordered off the site by harbor police," Milhomme said, "and a CBC reporter had to conduct an interview across a fence because he was refused permission to enter the grounds."

Two candidates in the June 25 federal election—Raymond Gay, Liberal candidate in Levis and Paul Emile Dube, his Progressive Conservative opponent—were refused access to the camping grounds.

Up-Island Cities See Him First

VANCOUVER (Special) — Conservative leader Robert Stanfield will be campaigning in three up-Island centres today before flying to Victoria for an evening rally in Memorial Arena.

He is scheduled to land at Cassidy Airport at 10:45 a.m. and drive into Nanaimo where he is expected to arrive at Harbor Park shopping centre about 11:15 a.m.

The Tory leader will be greeted by Mayor Frank Ney and Conservative candidate Jeffrey Brock. After a luncheon reception at noon in the Tallyho Inn the official party will depart by air for Comox.

At 2:35 p.m. Mayor Ron Ellis and Conservative candidate Blair McLean will welcome Mr. Stanfield at the Comox Shopping Plaza. He will spend about half an hour there before driving to Courtenay. There he will be met by Mayor George Hobson of Courtenay, Mayor Bill Henderson of Cumberland and former Conservative member of Parliament Harry McQuillan.

The party is scheduled to leave Comox airport at 4:10 p.m. arriving at Patricia Bay about 5 p.m. where he will be met by George Chatterton, Conservative candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich, and Victoria candidate Eric Charman.

Mr. Stanfield and his party will stay in the Empress Hotel overnight following the 8:30 p.m. meeting in Memorial Arena. He is scheduled to leave by air early Friday for Moose Jaw.

Six of 63 Killed In Crash of Jet

NEW DELHI (AP) — A Pan American Airways Boeing 707 jetliner groping its way in for a landing in a rainstorm caught fire and burned today at Calcutta's Dum Dum airport. First reports said six of the 63 persons aboard died.

All India Radio said the rear end of the plane —inbound from Bangkok—broke out in flames about the same time as it landed.

Allies Denounce Threat to Berlin

Bonn Will Hike Aid to Enclave

LONDON (AP) — Britain, the United States and France denounced Wednesday night East Germany's new taxes and restrictions on West German travel and commerce links with West Berlin. They said they will take up the matter with the Soviet Union.

In Bonn, the West German cabinet decided to increase subsidies to the isolated city and make up any economic losses it suffers from what some Germans considered the biggest threat to the city's economy since the 11-month Berlin blockade in 1948-49.

The East German measures, apparently approved by the Soviet Union, drew protests from both leftist and conservative students in West Berlin.

Red flag-waving leftists were turned back by East Berlin border guards when they tried to deliver a note to communist officials, accusing them of replacing "socialist politics with bureaucratic stipulations."

DEEPEN DIVISION

Some 2,500 conservative students marched on the four-power Air Safety Control Centre with a resolution demanding "decisive steps for the maintenance of our freedom" from the Western Allies.

The allies called the East German measures "contrary to long standing international agreements and practice" and tending to "deepen the division of Germany and of Europe."

WILL APPROACH SOVIETS

Britain's foreign office said the three will make "any appropriate representations to the Soviet government, which shares with them the responsibility not only for unhindered Berlin access but also for an ultimate solution of the German problem." A similar statement was issued in Washington.

Earlier, Chancellor Kurt George Kiesinger of West Germany met in Bonn with the U.S., British and French ambassadors to discuss a unified political approach toward the measures, announced 24 hours before by East Germany.

The regulations require for the first time that West Germans hold passports and visas

PARIS — Thousands of French people, called out by students and trade unions, demonstrated peacefully throughout the country Wednesday night in defiance of a government ban on demonstrations.

The only report of violence came from Strasbourg where university students fought with riot police. Police tried to storm Strasbourg University but were repelled after a battle with students wielding chairs and pieces of table.

At other provincial centres demonstrations, technically illegal after the government invoked a 1936 law Wednesday, passed off without incident.

* * *

The largest took place in the large southern seaport of Marseilles where about 3,000 students marched through the streets, watched silently by police.

In Paris, several hundred students waving red communist and black anarchist flags marched around the Cite Universitaire, a suburban block of buildings which houses foreign students.

* * *

Meeting after a wild night of violence in Paris and elsewhere, the cabinet Wednesday decided on a series of tough measures in an attempt to restore order for general elections June 23 and 30.

President de Gaulle's government also ordered seven extremist student groups dissolved.

Striking employees of the state-run radio and television networks called off a proposed peaceful rally of listeners and viewers they had scheduled to support their demands for news reporting without government interference.

The wave of social unrest claimed its fifth fatality. A 49-year-old worker died from a fractured skull suffered during a pitched battle Tuesday between police and strikers at the Peugeot car works at Sochaux, 220 miles southeast of Paris.

Hippies Fear Catastrophe Heading for the Hills

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Among a few of the mystically minded flower children of the Haight-Ashbury set, the word is out: the sky is falling.

The great event takes place Friday when a jagged piece of rock, technically known as the asteroid Icarus, passes within 4,000,000 miles of earth.

* * *

Some concerned hippies, confusing their astronomy and astrology, have fled to Boulder, Colo., because they believe the high retreats to be safe from destruction Icarus will wreak. (See also Page 47.)

"Many of the kids tell us they're splitting the city," said a worker at the Haight-Ashbury medical clinic for hippies. "They want to know whether we're splitting, too, because they think the San Andreas (earthquake) fault is going to open up. We tell them we're staying right here."

* * *

The citizens of Boulder fear the influx of hippies more than they do Icarus. Vigilantes committees have been formed and there are reports that two loiterers were fired upon.

"We've come up here because this is the safest place in the world to be if it happens — here and Tibet," said one shaggy-haired native of Miami.

Chicken Little and more modern astrology students not withstanding, there is no truth, experts say, to rumors Icarus will hit the earth or pass so close that continents will sink, the lost island of Atlantis will rise and all of California will be inundated by a tidal wave.

Actually, Icarus probably won't even disturb the leaves in a gypsy teacup when it sweeps along its looping solar orbit and passes about 3,950,000 miles from earth. And it most assuredly will not change the tides, alter the weather or touch off an earthquake.

* * *

Icarus, which is about six-tenths of a mile in diameter, won't even reflect enough sunlight to be observed by the naked eye. But it will be studied with interest by astronomers as a further check on Einstein's general theory of relativity.

Nuclear Check

Treaty Wins UN Stamp

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The General Assembly gave overwhelming endorsement Wednesday to a draft treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons and heard President Johnson pledge the United States to press all efforts to end the nuclear arms race.

The vote on a resolution commending the treaty — soon to be opened for signatures — was 95 to 4 with 21 abstentions. This was an improvement over the vote in the main political committee Monday on the same resolution. On that occasion, it was approved 92 to 4, with 22 abstentions.

Little Chad switched from the abstention column to the affirmative, and Costa Rica and Cameroon, among four absentees Monday, voted in favor this time around.

The United States president, closely guarded, arrived at the UN building just after the vote. He called the non-proliferation treaty "the most important international agreement in the field of disarmament since the nuclear age began" at the end of the Second World War.

The treaty, jointly sponsored by the United States and the Soviet Union in a rare showing of East-West accord, also has the backing of Britain among the world's five nuclear-weapons powers. The other two, France and mainland China, have said they will not sign it.

France said it would adhere to the treaty in exactly the same fashion as the U.S., U.S.S.R. and Britain. France's complaint was that the Geneva discussions had not resulted in any reduction of armaments.

British Speeding Up Extradition Moves

● Anonymous young Mountie spotted Ray in passport files. Page 50.

LONDON (AP) — The British government started speedy official action Wednesday on a formal U.S. request for the extradition of James Earl Ray to stand trial for the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

But court formalities and appeals, if the 40-year-old escaped convict chooses to use them, could delay Ray's return to the U.S. up to six weeks.

He is being held under British charges of carrying a forged Canadian passport.

Within hours after receiving the U.S. petition, the foreign office certified that the request fell within the terms of the 1931

for train, road and water travel between West Germany and West Berlin.

The squeeze was seen as another move to deny West Germany its claim to sovereignty in West Berlin. Bonn says West Berlin is a yet-unincorporated state of the West German federation. The city has non-voting representatives in parliament.

Keisinger announced he will fly to West Berlin today to assure its 2,500,000 citizens of West German moral and financial backing.

To encourage Germans to live in West Berlin, Bonn already pays a host of subsidies to help the isolated city maintain a high living standard and keep taxes lower than elsewhere in West Germany.

Western sources said the new taxes and restrictions violate the May 12, 1949, four-power agreement, in which the Soviets ended the blockade of land routes in Berlin, as well as the often-broken 1945 Potsdam accord in which the four Second World War victors agreed on free access of Germans to all parts of Germany.

extradition treaty between the two countries.

It then was sent to the home office. There lawyers started a preliminary screening to ensure it established a case against Ray, as required by British law.

The home office said that if the petition was in order it should be in the hands of Frank Milton, chief metropolitan magistrate, some time today.

ABOUT WEEK

Under normal procedure Milton would study the petition and schedule a hearing about a week after receiving it.

If Milton grants extradition, Ray has 15 days to appeal to the High Court, and another 14 days to take the case to the House of Lord if his lawyers want to challenge the order on a point of law.

Ray's court-appointed British lawyer refused all comment on his case.

POLICE LEVER

So long as Ray is held here on passport charges, British police have legal authority to investigate his movements during his three weeks in London prior to his arrest. Scotland Yard is doing that.

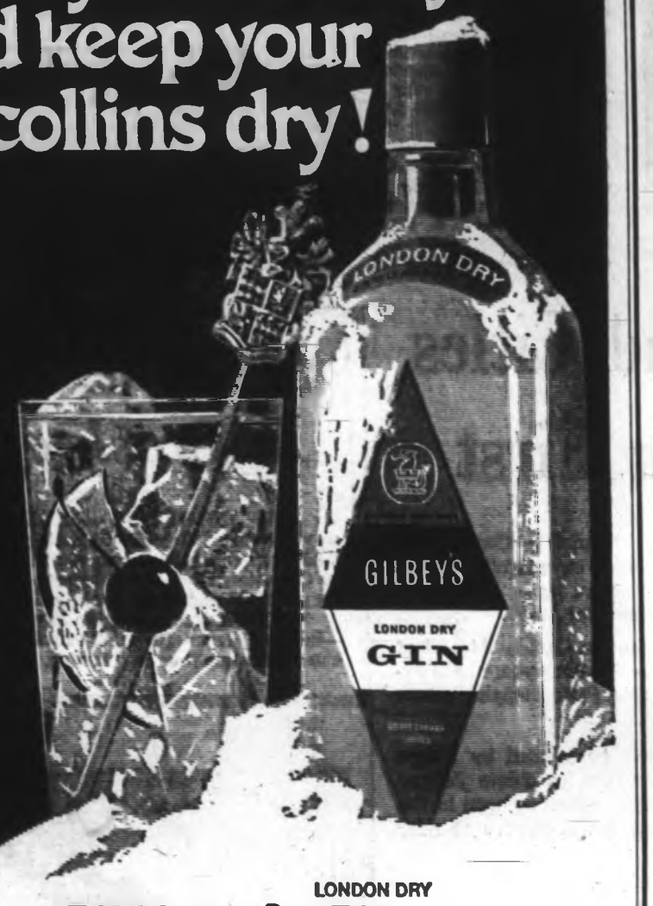

Jane Nassau, receptionist at one hotel where Ray stayed, told a reporter that the police are looking for another receptionist who checked Ray into the hotel.

ON VACATION

The other girl now is on vacation, but Miss Nassau said Scotland Yard wants to find out if someone accompanied Ray when he arrived at the hotel.

The police investigation, carried out at the request and with the co-operation of the FBI, appears directed at determining whether evidence of a conspiracy to kill King can be turned up in London.

Pay Slips Prove Bastion Costly

RETORT: The question of professionalism and theatre has prompted Bastion Theatre's Helen Simpson-Raikie to produce income tax slips for the local group.

The figures indicate that in 1967 Bastion paid out more than $43,000 in wages to actors, singers, dancers and technical people.

Still, and despite the figures, Bastion is ignored by the Canada Council when it comes time to hand out money. So much so that some of the people Bastion engaged in 1967 will be in other centres where Canada Council grants help pay the wages and not available to assist the local group.

Perhaps while all the political promises are floating around, the theatre people could get one of the candidates to promise to look into the matter if and when elected.

There is no doubt that the Robert Price company is doing a good job, but Bastion is also active in the broader areas of theatre, including school productions, theatre school and workshop.

The current Robert Price production Roar of the Greasepaint played without Dick Wood for the first shows of this week. With just a few hours rehearsal, Bill Hosie filled in. Mr. Wood is under instructions from his doctor to take it easy. The title of his big song in the show: Feeling Good.

BILL THOMAS' NOTEBOOK
Thursday

BACK HOME: Singer Barry Nicolls is back in town after a two-week stint playing the Inn of the North at Prince George.

He is booked to appear this week at the Old Forge, where he will act as warm-up man for the New Vaudeville Band.

Wednesday was also a busy one for Bill Kenny. Mr. Inkspot celebrated his 50th birthday with a cake at the Oak Bay Marina.

He has drawn record crowds during his three-week run which ends Saturday.

□

DROP IN: Art buffs travelling over the Malahat to Duncan might like to drop in at the Silver Bridge Inn. Starting Saturday three artists will show their work.

Julie Porter will exhibit paintings, Peggy Muenter will show sculpture and her husband Klaus will display photographs.

□

YOU CAN'T WIN: There must be a definite plot on the part of a well organized group to see that Victoria is not recognized. Wednesday it was discovered that the University of Victoria did not exist, as far as Toronto magazine publishers are concerned. Now the blow has struck closer to home.

A list of all Conservative candidates in British Columbia published in Vancouver has a long list of runners, but omits Eric Charman who is running in Victoria. Is this happening to the Liberals?

□

ELECTION NOTE: A supporter of George Chatterton claims he was Canada's youngest voter. A. V. Hobbing talked his way into the army in 1914 and went overseas with the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles.

After a tour in France, he was back in England for the Canadian election at age 16. Because he was a serviceman serving overseas, he was allowed to vote. He recalls supporting a Mr. Haywood of Duncan.

Mr. Hodding has the pleasure of voting for, and seeing elected, a lance corporal from his old unit. He supported Major-Gen. George Pearkes, who had seen action with the Canadian Mounted Rifles as an NCO.

Advice from Eye Specialist Best Bet for Color-Blind

Your Good Health

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: We have just found out that our nine-year-old son is color-blind. The school nurse said he is in the red-green category and the doctor said the green category, just a bit. What is the difference?

I understand it is hereditary. Is this so? Two uncles on my mother's side are color-blind. Will it get worse? How does it start? Can it be cured? Why is it worse in boys than girls? Can I help my son in any way?— Mrs. D. H. C.

Color-blindness is hereditary, and present in 10 times as many boys as girls, but the cause is unknown. Nobody knows how it started.

While it is incurable, there is no reason to expect it to become worse in your son's case — and color sense can be developed to some extent, to make the best use of the ability he has in this regard.

Color-blindness amounts to the inability to recognize red, green, or blue — or some combination of these colors. It is unusual for a person to lack perception of all three (although this may occur in older persons having atrophy of the optic nerve.)

More usually, the color-blind person lacks the perception, in varying degrees, of one color or two colors. Further tests can determine whether your son cannot distinguish green, or cannot distinguish either red or green. The red-green combination does occur.

What can you do to help the boy? Follow the advice of your opthalmologist (eye specialist).

The boy will have to be trained in a career which does not involve dependence on perfect color vision, but that still leaves him a wide field to chose from. He may need some help in the choice of clothes — neckties — for example — to avoid color combinations that do not blend well, but that's not a very important problem.

Color-blind people readily learn how to recognize traffic signals. The red (stop) light is uniformly the top light and green at the bottom, with the yellow warning signal in between. He will be able to see by the brightness of the light which is on, and tell the color by its position.

Dear Dr. Molner: What can I use to keep from sunburning, especially near the water? I have used (a certain brand of) suntan lotion but it did no good — R. B. G.

Some suntan lotions contain special materials to screen out ultra-violet rays and thus protect against burning. Other lotions are intended mostly to let you "cook" to an even tan. Therefore check the labels of various brands to find those which have this screening effect.

UN on Africa

Control Motion Passes

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A resolution reiterating an earlier demand that South Africa give up control over South-West Africa and recommending that the Security Council "take all appropriate steps" to ensure that it does was given overwhelming approval in the General Assembly Wednesday.

The 96 affirmative votes were cast by the Afro-Asian, Communist, Caribbean and Latin-American member of the 124-nation assembly, plus Ireland.

FIVE MEMBERS

South Africa and Portugal cast negative votes and there were 18 abstentions, including five of the 15 Security Council members—Britain, France, the United States, Canada and Denmark.

The abstainers, many of them heavy traders with South Africa, consisted of Western countries plus Cuba and Malawi.

The resolution condemns "the actions of those states which by their continued political, military and economic collaboration with South Africa" encourage that country to defy UN efforts to obtain independence for South-West Africa, which the resolution declares shall be known henceforth as "Nambia," its African name.

It calls upon all states to stop dealing with South Africa, which has ignored a 1966 General Assembly resolution terminating its League of Nations mandate over the former German colony.

'UNREALISTIC'

A Canadian spokesman said Canada abstained Wednesday because its views, expressed May 15 by Ambassador George Ignatieff, remain unchanged. Ignatieff proposed then that every diplomatic avenue be exhausted before such a resolution was passed.

Lord Caradon of Britain, Has Thalberg of Austria and D. G. E. Middelburg of The Netherlands said their countries abstained because the resolution was unrealistic.

Caradon said the assembly had embarked "on a course beyond the capacities of the UN and one which raised hopes it could not fulfill."

Hate Literature

PURVEYORS of hate literature have never been too successful in selling their wares in Canada. It the main, this is due to the simple fact that most Canadians — for all their mixed racial and political backgrounds — are a conservative people possessed of much common sense and a strong liking for fair play in all their daily dealings.

The vast majority of Canadians prefer most matters with which they are personally concerned to be dealt with openly and above board and have little patience with under-the-table or back-door intrigue.

This, of course, is not to say that hatemongering organizations or individuals no longer exist in Canada. They do — and they still practise their calling today as actively as they have in the past.

Their range of victims apparently knows no bounds. They have most frequently attacked the Jews, who still remain their favorite target, but they have also attacked with equal fervor the Arabs and other Canadian minority groups. From time to time they have attacked big business, trade unions and the New Democratic Party, tagging all and sundry with the Communist label.

Occasionally they single out an individual for special attention.

In recent weeks they have been concentrating their venom on Prime Minister Trudeau, whom they accuse of many things. Throughout the country hundreds of private citizens, politicians of every party — including Conservative leader Robert Stanfield — daily newspapers and other news media have been inundated with letters and documents designed to cast serious doubts upon the integrity of the Liberal leader.

The steady stream of such literature poses a special problem to news media. If a newspaper chooses to ignore what is going on without attempting to inform or warn the public it could be accused of neglecting its duty. On the other hand if it attempts to expose what these people are saying about the man who holds the highest elected office in Canada, it could be playing into their hands.

The easiest solution would be for the prime minister — who is well-informed on the situation — to bring the whole thing out into the open by denouncing these people for what they are through publicly answering their heinous charges.

Waterfront Renewal

AS WAS EXPECTED, the report presented by the Vancouver firm of Acres Western Ltd. after seven months of study has assured Victoria that renewal in a 52-acre tract beside the Inner Harbor would not only be feasible but economically advantageous. The findings leave no reasonable doubt that the city will be in order in going on to the next stages of a renewal plan, as promptly as possible.

The report, recommending the development of combined uses of the area — high-rise and other apartments to give it a residential core, a waterfront hotel and convention centre, tourist-attracting shops and amenities — is encouraging even when its projections for costs and tax-benefits in the renewal tract alone are considered. It estimates that the city's share of the costs would be about $1,200,000, plus interest charges over the term of the necessary borrowing, a total of perhaps $2,416,000. On the other hand it predicts that the renewal would, by the time private enterprise had poured $26,500,000 into building and rehabilitation to complete the renewal, be returning an extra $488,000 a year in tax and trade-licence revenues to the city.

But even were this assessment unduly optimistic, there is the effect on the rest of the downtown business district to be considered. A new "population" both of residents and of visitors in the area could not be otherwise than beneficial to the entire commercial heart of the community, thus raising or sustaining tax-bearing property values beyond the confines of the blocks to be refurbished or rebuilt.

Having accepted the report in principle and decided to move forward into the next phase of a renewal plan, the city council still has a long road to travel before a revitalized harborfront can take the place of deterioration and decay.

An actual plan must be prepared, and in this respect Mr. Richard Street of the survey firm has urged that the city should consider well before deciding on specifics. But considering well should mean considering actively. The timetable recommended by the company gives until the middle of next year for completion of the renewal scheme, anticipates public-money projects in 1970 and 1971 and private enterprise participation thereafter until full fruition in 1981. It will be a busy year ahead at city hall if the first of these targets is to be met.

Good Value

THE NEWLY-ANNOUNCED fee of $1 a night which will be imposed in 50 of the 94 provincial campgrounds this summer will, if things work out as intended by the recreation and conservation department, be considered money well spent by most of the thousands of British Columbians and visitors from elsewhere who use the parks.

Not many families will be financially bothered by a cost of $14 for the maximum two-week summer stay in any of the campgrounds, though there has been some resentment of the $2-a-night fee which has been charged after the first three nights in the ten most popular parks and which will be retained. But the benefits accruing from the $1 fee if the department's plans work out will be most welcome.

One of these will be an expanded program of providing washrooms with flush toilets and showers and change rooms where there is swimming in the busier parks, and Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan notes that the estimated revenues amount to only a third of present campsite maintenance costs.

But the other and more important benefit is that the new fees will be used to hire 40 or 50 full-time supervisors to help eliminate the vandals and the rowdies from the parks, the small element which can make camping miserable.

In conjunction with the late-night closing of gates at parks near major population centres to keep out noisy vehicular visitations, the additional supervision should do much to preserve camping from undue annoyances.

"All I know is that Chatterton and Charman were in here late last night..."

Status of a Monument

Contrasts of Resurrection City

By COLIN McGLASHAN from Washington

THIS is Resurrection City, a frontier town, which is why it is not on the map: a point at the end of a wagon-trail, full of youth and hopes and hardship, with no history, an uncertain population, rough-and-ready law enforcement and no red tape.

But this modern version of Dodge City is mainly Negro, it bans liquor and firearms, and it has sprouted in weeks from the once-trim lawns at the heart of official and tourist Washington.

And inside, all comparisons fade. In the dining hall, an immaculate Roman Catholic priest carrying a shiny leather briefcase queues for food, pressed hard against a black nationalist with shaven head, goatee beard, beads and one earring. Outside City Hall, a white girl with lank tangerine hair to her shoulder-blades and orange velvet jeans squelches barefoot through two inches of ochre mud, clutching at the hands of a Negro girl wearing a home-made poncho of polythene and stockings like string shopping bags.

Loudspeakers boom across a sea of mud sprinkled with tent-shaped plywood and plastic shanties.

"Brothers and sisters, citizens of Resurrection City . . . We are going to be non-violent. We are going to be orderly. But we are going to be heard. Soul Power! Soul Power! Soul Power!" This is the voice of what used to be the Civil Rights Movement and is now the Poor People's Campaign—multi-racial poverty dramatized by around 3,000 people from across the country living in an instant shanty town, issuing forth daily to march, protest and lobby Congress for food, jobs, housing, welfare programs and a guaranteed minimum wage.

* * *

The idea was Martin Luther King's, and it has been taken up by his successor as leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy. Mr. Abernathy is also the city's mayor, elected by acclamation: a somewhat rudimentary democracy, but still superior to that of Washington, whose citizens cannot vote and whose mayor was picked by the president.

Resurrection City may have only two water taps, one just outside its boundaries, but it can boast excellent free medical and dental care for all its citizens. (For some of those from America's poverty states, it is the first medical attention they have ever had.) Even though it is unpaved, serves a lot of its food in the open, and does not have a regular dustbin service, Resurrection City has no rats: two-thirds of Washington is infested with them. And while the capital is plagued with one of America's highest crime rates per head of population, its new shanty town has little or none.

* * *

It has its own police force: members of the three tough teen-age gangs from the ghetto streets, including the biggest and best organized, Chicago's Blackstone Rangers. Most of them are exceptionally polite, if over-keen. But none of them has yet called me "Honky": the Washington force was recently warned against the use of racial epithets, an extensive list of which was attached for their guidance. Washington's police have promised not to enter Resurrection City unless by invitation.

It also has a barber shop, a day nursery, a recreation room and non-violent training centre. ("Tear gas!" yelled the instructor, hurling his jacket into the centre of the room: 100 students dived to the floor. But only four civil rights veterans ended up in the correct foetal crouch that protects against possible kicks to follow.) It has telephones, a postal box number and has been promised its own newspaper. And it has "passports"—plastic wrist tags, and identity cards complete with blood group.

The comparisons with Washington can be made seriously: it is no small thing that an imitation ghetto created hurriedly in a sea of mud, highly inflammable, with no locks on its doors and tenanted by a nation-wide sample of militant black youth plus a sizeable handful of whites, should avoid the problems that plague American cities. Resurrection City's leaders would argue this proves that areas with a black majority get along fine when the majority runs them.

It has been like watching the arrival of a second wave of American settlers, who have travelled eastward in Greyhound buses instead of westward in covered wagons. Dr. King's widow, Mrs. Coretta King, told the inhabitants, "You are going to build a new community and a new society."

And much of this city is yet another permutation of the American Dream. It has one split-level shack, another with a fridge and television, several with outdoor barbecues. Its favorite prayer—a daily litany of loudspeakers—is straight out of Dale Carnegie: "I am . . . Somebody. I am . . . God's child. I may be Puerto Rican, black, Spanish-American, but I am . . . Somebody. I may have no education, you may not respect me, but I am still . . . Somebody."

Even its name is familiar American-Utopian. But like all Utopias, Resurrection City is starting to face the problems of growth and age and compromise: the amiable anarchy of decision-making is unlikely to survive.

It has acquired the status of a monument: at weekend, sightseers throng its railings, block nearby Independence Avenue three-deep with cruising cars. And it is very, very In. "You mean you actually LIVE there? Oh, you MUST come to dinner."

Washington Calling

Limited Choices for the Democrats

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE political void left by the death of Robert F. Kennedy is nothing like as wide and deep as the personal and emotional void. Yet the alternatives for his divided and troubled party are far more prescribed than they were.

Kennedy had been the passionate activist. He had supplied the yeast, the ferment, the challenge to an administration in power for eight years. That was the principal reason why he was so resented by the White House and the phalanx of party regulars convinced that he could not make it on his own and that, therefore, the end result would be to hurt the chances of any other candidate.

* * *

The question now is to what degree Sen. Eugene McCarthy can as challenger fill the void. He has stubbornly insisted on his claim to No. 1 priority in that role. His resentment of Kennedy for belatedly entering the presidential race, after McCarthy's success in New Hampshire, was hardly less than that of the Johnson administration regulars.

What McCarthy is saying in private today is what he has been saying all along. Why should I make the sacrifices? That is his response to those suggesting that now in the aftermath of a fearful tragedy is the time to try to unite the party and, if possible, unify the country.

The logic of this argument is that Vice-President Hubert Humphrey is bound in any event to be the party's nominee. He was well on the way to the nomination before the assassination in Los Angeles. While McCarthy won an upset victory in the Oregon primary, he lost both in California and South Dakota, the latter his neighboring prairie state where he should have done better than Kennedy.

* * *

The McCarthy view of the outcome in these states is that California was virtually a tie, with Kennedy winning over McCarthy by fewer than five percentage points. In South Dakota McCarthy and Humphrey (with Johnson as his stand-in) split roughly 50 per cent of the vote as Kennedy drew the other 50 per cent.

But the essence of the McCarthy position today is concerned not so much with the primaries and the delegate count as with the contention that he stands for issues which cannot be blurred over. The basic issue is still the war in Vietnam and its enlargement, despite the talks going on in Paris. And what does Hubert stand for? Six months ago he was as strong as Lyndon Johnson for prosecuting the war to victory. Even Kennedy, in this view, had in the televised "debate" shifted his position on Vietnam to one that was more of a compromise with the administration position than that of his opponent, McCarthy.

The last two or three weeks of their encounter in the primaries generated a private rancor. It went back to the resentment over Kennedy's initial entry and the McCarthy concept of the contest prior to that intervention. He had envisaged a relatively restrained campaign against President Johnson for six months through the California primary.

* * *

After Indiana, in the McCarthy interpretation, despite Kennedy's narrow victory it was clear he could not make it. Then came Oregon, and he should at that point have thrown his strength to his rival who had been first in the field. Instead his far-out agents, led by Jesse Unruh, encouraged Kennedy to go into Watts and arouse the intense feelings of minority groups. McCarthy, too, went into Watts at the urging of his people. And part of the tragedy toward the end of their confrontation was that the private rancor had begun to surface in public ill will.

So the issue is still there and the thousands of young people who gave McCarthy their devotion and their unstinting, unceasing effort would never forgive him for uniting with Humphrey. If that is the McCarthy perspective those who consider themselves realists in the Humphrey camp have quite another view.

* * *

McCarthy is an Adlai Stevenson — the Stevenson not of 1952 but of 1960 — who confuses power with issues and ideas. He represents not so much the "new politics" as, in this jaundiced view, the politics of the new rich who are so wedded to ideology that political realities escape them. McCarthy will go on not only to a final showdown at the Chicago convention but quite possibly beyond that to a third-party challenge in November. For organization Democrats that is a fearsome prospect.

I Beg to Differ . . .

Dropout from Home Ownership

By FRANK LOWE

WHILE I feel no shame at all in admitting that I very seldom understand women, it comes as something of a shock to admit that there are also some men I do not understand.

There is, for instance, my old friend Bill. Bill recently sold his nice home and moved into a posh apartment. As soon as he had moved in, and enough time had elapsed to assure me that all that heavy and tedious unpacking had been done, I went around to console him.

"It's a nice apartment," I told him, "but you'll miss the excitement of owning your own home, the excitement and pride of knowing something is your very own."

"Yeah," said Bill. "Like the excitement and pride I felt that evening my own dining room ceiling fell. All over the roast beef. Let me tell you, that was a thrill."

"Look on the bright side," I said. "Remember, one big portion of plaster fell on your brother-in-law's head. You can't expect to be that lucky in an expensive apartment like this."

However, Bill didn't seem to react as a man should just after he has resigned as a home owner. I mentioned that he would probably have to tip the doorman and the superintendent each Christmas and he said:

"Just read the announcement about the new tax rates in your area. Kind of stiff, eh, fellow?"

The conversation wasn't exactly going the way it should. Every red-blooded Canadian male knows that his main duty in life is to own a mortgage and pay taxes. Who was this guy to pull a cop out—and let on he was enjoying it?

So I tried the old nostalgia bit.

"Remember," I asked him, "remember at this time of year, when you were respectable and owned a home, the fun we would have?

"I'd bring my new spade, we'd go out to your compost heap and after digging around a little we'd just stand there and listen to R rot. Boy, that was living."

"Yea," said Bill.

"But what are you going to do for fun now?" I asked. "When you had your home there was never a dull moment. If you weren't putting new boards in the upstairs porch you were papering the hall.

"Fun—why think of the laughs we had that time you were painting the ceiling just above the stair well and the ladder tilted. You set a record for time spent hanging from a chandelier, let me tell you."

Bill merely looked at me and shuddered.

Somehow the message was getting through to me. My friend was determined to enjoy his posh apartment. He had become a home-owning dropout.

Mind you, I would have stayed longer to try to convince him of what he was missing. But just at that moment my wife telephoned to tell me to get home at once—the topsoil for the lawn had just arrived and had been dumped right in front of the garage drive and she had to get the car out. So I left Bill, still failing to understand why a man would live in an apartment when he could just as easily have all the joy of owning his own home.

The Shrinking Dollar

AMID all the talk of tight money and high interest rates, as a growing problem for borrowers, a problem which applies as much to the individual as to governments, there is a tendency to under-rate the cause which lies to a great extent in a shrinking dollar.

The dollar, as a result of continuous deficit-budgeting techniques is now shrinking at a rate close to 5 per cent per year, while rising taxes extract a steadily increasing element of any income from it. The net result is that it now requires a return of some 6 per cent on any loan to merely keep the capital intact. While 9 per cent on the face of it may look like an exorbitant return, it is in fact yielding the lender about three. As long as we continue to subscribe to the inflationary theory of economics as the road to "affluence" both the borrower and the lender will continue to be trapped in the same spiral.

The cure lies primarily in the hands of governments in whose care the value of the currency rests. Exhortations to either the business community or to labor are merely a request to the patient to cure his own symptoms, while the government's own fiscal policies are in fact the disease.

Enchanting Victoria

There is such enchantment in your city; such variety. The rush and bustle of the downtown area; the historic dignity of your parliamentary and civic buildings; the beauty and serenity of your parks and gardens.

As a visitor from Oxford, England, my standards are high. In my home town we too have history, architecture and world famous college gardens and lawns. Oxford is a must for most visitors to England. But Victoria offers an undoubted challenge. It is certainly a must for visitors to Canada.

I shall take home with me delightful memories of my visit. Of hours spent walking, or sitting, in the sun. Your climate is wonderful; or it has been during my visit — and I can't think you laid it on specially for me.

I'll remember my tours to your beauty spots; the comfortable transport facilities available by land and sea. The politeness and helpfulness of drivers, clerks at ticket wickets and other officials.

The girls who serve me coffee and small eats in the snack bars will have a special place in my memories. I cannot disguise my nationality (in truth, I wouldn't wish to). Englishwoman seems to be plainly stamped all over me. Most people know that means I could bring only £50 sterling ($130) out of England.

So I am not — cannot be — a lavish tipper. But I still get first rate service and friendly smiles with my meals.

No doubt about it. Victoria has everything. I shall hate to leave it!

Combination of Hurdles

Remarks made at the Saanich council meeting seem to infer that the only snake in the grass for prospective home builders is the high cost or scarcity of a building lot.

It is, of course, quite true that the cost of land today is alarming, but that is by no means the only deterrent, inasmuch that the same sad state of affairs also relates to the present cost of building, almost 10 per cent mortgage interest rates and annual property taxes that could easily gross $500.

There is no single scapegoat, but a combination of these hurdles which baffle and usually defeat the people who are striving so hard to acquire their own home and, if controls are not effected nationally, then everyone knows that increased wages merely precede increased costs until it will be beyond the ability of the average man to plan anything of consequence.

Home Tangles First

May I heartily endorse the letter, on Page 4 of your issue of June 9 written by "Skeptical," and headed Another Race. The writer points to the colossal ignorance, shown by many people in Canada of the racial classification of the inhabitants of other countries. He (or she) does well to suggest that the Canadian racial tangle should first be loosened before we interfere in the racial conflicts of other countries. As was nicely put, a few years ago, over the question of apartheid in South Africa, "The Americans should cast the Little Rock out of their own eye before attempting to remove the beam from South Africa's eye."

Local Driving Licence

I should like to call your attention to issuing drivers' licences. We live in the Saanich Peninsula, a favored and beautiful district. We have adequate shopping in Sidney and Brentwood, with no need to enter Victoria, with all its stop and go signs, and lights and rush traffic; also we have the ferries up-Island and to the mainland without entering the city.

We have no desire to drive through Victoria but our tests (like our neighbors') must be taken at the Parliament Buildings.

The government is making a special effort to reduce traffic accidents, but it is a question if it is refusing licences to the over-70s who have driven for many years without accidents and issuing them to under-18s, some of them who ignore speed limits and other regulations. What is the answer?

The motor vehicle office is well handled but no consideration is given to the motorist who never enters the city, but requires a car to do business in the country.

In a few words speaking personally, in a long career driving in Europe, I have never had an accident, only one in Canada locally on black ice, and two other cars had the misfortune to skid at the same location within an hour.

It is essential for me to drive, my husband is a veteran of two wars, and his injuries have kept him from driving owing to complications for the last six months.

I have had four examinations, two reasonable, the other two made up of irritations. Lessons from a good driving school brought out few errors.

We have no taxi short of Sidney, which is expensive. I asked for a local driving licence but was told this was no longer given. Our nearest shopping centre is over two miles away.

With a perfect driving record what is the answer? I think the attorney-general should take time out to study this question.

OPINION

Concern Over Wheat, Medicare, Housing Favors 'Solid' Stanfield Over Trudeauism

Saskatchewan Still Toryland

By PETER REGENSTREIF, from Regina

A decade of John Diefenbaker has left its mark on Saskatchewan. In the four elections since 1958, this province has only twice — in Assiniboia in 1958 and 1962 — failed to return a complete slate of Conservatives from the 17 constituencies allocated to it under the old redistribution.

In 1965, the Tories captured 48 per cent of the total vote here while the NDP polled 26, the Liberals 24 and Social Credit 2.

Today, my own personal interviews reveal that while John Diefenbaker is no longer the Conservative leader voters here can readily fall back on what by now has become customary affiliation if they have no other reason for casting a Tory ballot on June 25.

★ ★ ★

But there are still many policy arguments voters can give for supporting Conservatives. On the farm, the electorate is concerned about wheat sales. In the cities, it's medicare and housing.

Everywhere, high taxes and concern over the cost of living are reinforcing dispositions to stand-pat with the Conservatives and to oppose Liberalism.

The record of the federal Liberals — to say nothing about the provincial government led by Liberal premier, Ross Thatcher — is not seen in an especially charitable light.

The Regenstreif Survey

The 700,000 bushel wheat carry-over from last year offers the prime rationale for voting against the Liberals. The problem is mentioned both on the farm and in the cities.

A 33-year-old farmer near the village of Clavet growled: "The big issue is selling our wheat so a guy can live. I don't think there's a lot of difference between parties. But the Tories were doing a good job before they got kicked out. If we had some way of beating the Liberals down east, we'd be alright."

★ ★ ★

In Saskatoon, a furniture dealer pointed out: "Around here everyone is talking about wheat. I know Saskatchewan is changing — cities, potash and all that — but we still make our living from the farmer. We're waiting for someone who will come on with a solid policy on wheat. We've got that heavy carry-over you know."

While the problems of the cost of living and high taxes are not laid at the Liberal doorstep, they are clearly no inducement to vote for the government.

On top of it all, Premier Thatcher has recently imposed a $1.50 deterrent fee to be paid at every visit to the doctor in addition to the usual medicare permium. This has focussed attention on medicare, an issue that provoked intense partisan bitterness and a doctors' strike here in 1962.

A Regina mechanic who is staying Conservative said: "Medicare is something too. This deterrent fee. If they'd have done it differently, I would have liked it better."

★ ★ ★

In campaigning so vigorously against the provincial NDP since he himself left the party to lead the Liberals, Premier Thatcher has contributed to a situation that exists nowhere else in Canada. In attempting to mobilize as much of the anti-socialist vote as possible under his banner, the premier has made it nearly impossible for people who voted NDP provincially to cast a Liberal ballot federally.

This cuts off about 35 per cent of the vote from the Liberals and with the Conservatives still running strongly, effectively limits Liberal gains.

A farmer's wife near the village of McTaggart in the riding of Assiniboia is typical. She voted Conservative in 1965 and NDP in last year's provincial election. She now tends Conservative again.

She explained: "First of all, there's Thatcher. I can't stand him as a man and I don't think they've done anything. I don't like the Liberal party and I don't feel the NDP is strong enough so the next best is Conservative."

★ ★ ★

So this is the environment confronting the Liberals as they try to ride Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's coattails to a couple of victories. But another surprise: everywhere else in the country, Trudeau is the ladies' man while males are less likely to lose their cool. In Saskatchewan, it's precisely the reverse.

Here, many men admire Trudeau's forthrightness and his one-Canada stand. In contrast, their women are not looking to make swingers out of their men-folk and are leery of the new prime minister. Consevative leader Robert Stanfield is their hero.

The 42-year-old wife of an auctioneer in Weyburn commented: "I'm not for Trudeau. I'm kind of scared of him. I just don't know. It's just that he's an unknown man that went to the top so fast. Now Stanfield — he just seems like a good, honest man. He's mature in every way. Good, solid-thinking."

The 30-year-old wife of an oil crew foreman in the constituency of Regina East mused: "Well, I've been debating. Trudeau is not a man for someone who's a thinker. He's on a gay life now. For people who are stable — he frightens them. I know he scares me. All those hippy girls kissing him. Stanfied is solid. He's stable. This kissing bit will fade away and then what'll we have left?"

The 46-year-old wife of a tenant farmer near the village of Cedoux laid it on the line: "We don't need any upstarts, that's for sure. We just want our leaders stable. After all, we can get the girls running after all our men any time we like, young or old."

Trudeau is supported — and sometimes this means a switch from a 1965 Conservative vote — because, as a 68-year-old Regina plumber put it: "He means business and he has a newer outlook. And he's a man that just might be able to do it. I'll vote for whoever the Liberals have here to represent Trudeau."

★ ★ ★

As for NDP leader Tommy Douglas, he still receives some personal support in what used to be his home territory because of his "experience and because he seems to be more for the poorer class of people" which was the way a Saskatoon clerk put it.

There are 13 seats in Saskatchewan by the new redistribution and the Conservatives carry solid pluralities from 1965 into every one of them. If they lose any it will be far more the result of their candidate having failed to do his homework than because the Liberals or the NDP have mounted a province-wide onslaught.

The national urban-rural pattern applies here to some extent. The Conservatives are slightly vulnerable in the cities but close to impregnable on the farm.

But redistribution has split the major cities of Saskatoon and Regina so that half of each is combined with a sizeable rural bloc, making it that much more difficult to defeat the Conservatives.

★ ★ ★

A possible Conservative loss is the constituency of Regina-Lake Centre. Former Conservative MP Ken More has a 7,200 edge from 1965 over the Liberal, Tom Ackerman, an early Trudeau supporter for the Liberal leadership and a 6,100 one over NDPer Les Benjamin, the party's provincial secretary.

Many 1965 Conservatives who like Stanfield are unhappy with More's performance in the House of Commons and are considering shifting their allegiances. The riding has to be rated a toss-up.

★ ★ ★

The adjoining one of Regina East has former Conservative agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton as a candidate and he is likely to be able to withstand any losses generated by Stanfield's stand on the Quebec issue and the mild appeal of Trudeau.

The relatively urban constituency of Saskatoon-Humboldt would be a likely Liberal gain if outgoing Conservative MP, Dr. Lewis Brand, were not so personally popular. The Liberals have Otto Lang, Dean of the University of Saskatchewan law school, here while the NDP has lawyer and Saskatoon City-councillor George Taylor. Brand has over 7,000 votes on both Lang and Taylor from 1965.

★ ★ ★

An exception to the urban-rural rule could be the riding of Assiniboia. Lawrence Watson who sat for it last time has less than 2,000 votes from 1965 as a cushion against Liberal A. B. Douglas. However, Douglas has been unable to campaign so far because of illness.

Seeding is just now completed. A healthy rain — they call it "a million dollar rain" here — has just fallen. The campaign has therefore only begun.

The prime minister is scheduled for a swing through the major centres in about 10 days and could conceivably shake a riding or so loose with his style.

But it could easily be that the only losses the Conservatives will suffer here will result from redistribution which, as already noted, lopped four seats from the province's representation.

Greeks Want Peace More Than Freedom

BACKGROUND

By NICHOLAS TOMALIN
From Athens

Should you take a motoring holiday in sunny, cultured Athens this summer, keep an eye on your rearview mirror. If the licence numbers 109581 (a beige Ford Falcon) or 84318 (a turquoise Ford Falcon) appear, you are being followed by Inspector Lambrou's very unsunny, uncultured secret police.

Watch out also for small clumps of jowly men standing on street corners, staring pointedly into space. They are apt to turn your Acropolis stroll into an annoyance.

★ ★ ★

I can't say that Inspector Lambrou ruined my Athenian holiday; he merely made it more complicated. The hotel bar was so full of heavies that it was difficult to get a drink; every time I went for a drive there would be a screech of bar stools as they leapt for their Ford Falcons.

The Patriotic Front, largely Communist but with considerable left and liberal membership, is probably still the most militant of the seven rival resistance movements working in Greece to overthrow the colonels' junta.

The Patriotic Front has been having a difficult time. The police have hit them hard in Athens, in Salonika, and in Crete, timing their arrests with almost casual brilliance for the day before a planned demonstration or incident.

Is there a resistance movement likely to be strong enough to overthrow the present regime? The answer is: No. It will be five years, at least, before any armed underground could organize itself to attempt any kind of violent revolution. In five years anything could happen.

★ ★ ★

There are four main reasons for the junta's surprising powers of survival. The first is that the regime's main achievement is self-preservation.

They are no good at making Greece economically prosperous, or popular. Last year's economic growth rate — four per cent — is only half the rate of previous years. The exchange deficit, now estimated at $50,000,000, is disastrous.

But they are very good indeed at quashing opposition. Economic bribes to key sections of the electorate (an old Greek political tradition, admittedly), ruthless sacking of disloyal officers, teachers and civil servants, keep the Greeks, if not happy, unwilling to take concerted action against their unhappiness.

As one Athenian put it: "Our problem is we now have a prime minister whose only talent is as a spy. That's what he was trained for, and he does it very well."

The second reason is that an effective underground resistance movement requires, above all, unity and secrecy. The Greeks are good at neither. The Patriotic Front movement is split between old-line, Moscow-dominated Communists and younger Marxists and leftists who want a nationalist movement.

★ ★ ★

The Centre Party opposition is in splinters, with its leader, Andreas Papandreou, playing ambitious personal politics in Paris, and the centre resistance movement — known as Democratic Defence — largely estranged from him and totally inactive while it prepares an alternative set of leaders.

The King commands very little enthusiasm, and both the right and left activists are so unwilling to co-operate that they sometimes actually say that they prefer the colonels' a-political repression to the obscenity of either a Communist, or a monarchist takeover.

The third reason that the junta is secure is that Papadopoulis, the prime minister, still firmly controls the loyalty of the tank corps. No counter coup — not even from amongst right-wing officers— has a chance of success while the tanks are his.

Papadopoulis

No rival in the junta can unseat him. No preassure from abroad can be ultimately effective.

And the final reason, perhaps most important, is that Greeks want peace more than they want freedom or justice. Unlike the more comfortable and developed European countries, Greece has no hunger for anarchy revolution. The bitter civil war ended only 20 years ago. All but the very young know too much about the apparent glamor of violence.

★ ★ ★

This, of course, is the real tragedy of Greece. It is the one country in Europe where violent revolution would not only liberate the spirit, but would also boost the country's economy. But it is also the country least likely to enjoy such a revolution.

Anti-Skid Road Surface Cuts Accident Rate Spectacularly

LST, from London

A spectacular decrease in car accidents by the use of a new anti-skid road surface has been achieved by scientists and engineers of the Greater London Council.

Accidents last winter were 65.4 per cent down on five junctions which had been given the new surface of specially-treated rough bauxite chippings. There is an all-over 13 per cent improvement in London's accident statistics for the winter period, but the success of the anti-skid treated junctions is outstanding. The new preparation has been notably more successful and has saved more lives than any of its predecessors.

Britain has for some years led the world in the production of anti-skid surfaces. Developments made by Britain's Road Research Laboratory have been incorporated in the past 18 months into the inter-state highway system in the United States.

B.C. Steel Firm in Buying Mood

By HARRY YOUNG

The acquisition of a company which would broaden its markets is being negotiated by A. I. Steel and Iron Foundry of Vancouver.

John P. Stark, president, said in the annual report for the year ended Feb. 29, 1968, he could not name the company as a final agreement had not yet been reached, but it would be a satisfactory deal for the shareholders.

A. I. Steel net earnings for the fiscal year were down sharply from the previous year at $58,840, compared with $178,399, and the earnings were not sufficient to cover the dividends paid of $93,750.

This resulted in a decrease in retained earnings to $230,854 from $265,764 a year earlier.

While earnings were down sales rose to $2,629,523 from $2,478,533 in the previous year.

The loss of earnings was caused, according to Stark, by a seven-week strike affecting five men that closed down the operation and put 175 employees out of work.

A better profit picture is expected this year, although the report notes this will depend upon the logging, pulp and paper, mining and shipbuilding industries, which are A. I. Steel's main customers.

Acquisition and development plans for Great West Saddlery of Winnipeg will be announced Friday, according to an official of the company, whose shares were suspended from trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange Monday.

The company also announced it intends to sell 150,000 treasury shares at $4 to two investment funds.

When trading resumed Wednesday, Great West Saddlery rose $3 to $7.

An interest in Great West was acquired recently by Everest Investments, a Bronfman family trust.

Roynat Ltd., the industrial financing corporation owned by two Canadian chartered banks and three trust companies, has acquired assets of more than $100,000,000 in its first six years.

It also increased its net profit for the year ended April 30 to $680,645, up 32 per cent over a year ago.

RoyNat provides term financing in amounts over $25,000 for commercial firms seeking initial or expansion capital. Owners of RoyNat are Royal Bank of Canada, Canadienne Nationale Bank, Montreal Trust, the Canadian Trust and Trust General du Canada.

U.S. Farmers Bag Top Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year's U.S. winter wheat crop is estimated by the agriculture department at a record 1,230,356,000 bushels, three per cent above the May estimate and 27 per cent above the five-year average.

Trial Due For Ex-Lion

VANCOUVER (CP) — Edward David (Ted) Duncan, 34, former British Columbia Lions football player, was committed Wednesday for trial on charges he defrauded Prosper Oils and Mines Ltd. of $217,000.

The crown alleges he unlawfully pledged company funds for loans. He is also charged with theft of securities.

Duncan, a Calgary lawyer, had bail continued at $7,500 by Magistrate James Bartman.

The case of Vancouver lawyer Frederic C. Foy, 42, jointly charged with Duncan, was adjourned to June 17.

Deauville Investments, a company in which the two accused are shareholders, owes the Royal Bank of Canada $217,000, Arthur Dauphinee, credit officer at the bank's Vancouver branch told the preliminary hearing in Vancouver magistrate's court Wednesday.

Biggest Lake Trout Enters Contest

A 15-pound rainbow trout from Sproat Lake has placed J. Danny Lee of 3663 Hillside in Nanaimo in the lake trout division lead of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest.

The fish is the heaviest lake trout ever weighed into the King Fisherman Contest. Previous record was an 11-pounder caught Jupe 24 last year by Stan Bugden of Port Alberni in Great Central Lake.

SPROAT LAKE

Mr. Lee, 27, was fishing with worm off the dropoffs in Taylor Arm of Sproat Lake when he landed his big one. It was one of four lunkers he caught that day, the others weighing 7.12 pounds, five pounds and four pounds.

He takes this year's lead from Vic Dawson who had weighed in an 8.2-pounder from Nahmint Lake.

Mr. Lee weighed his fish into the contest at Richardson's Marina in Nanaimo. A male fish, it was just starting to show the pink stripes down its sides.

POSSIBLE PRIZES

As a Colonist subscriber he is in line for all the prizes and trophies — the King Fisherman trophy, a three-man trail-pack tent courtesy of Jeune Bros., the gold Lake Trout Prince Button for June, the June hidden weight prizes and the big contest-long hidden weight prize which include a Canadian Pacific Airlines trip for two to Honolulu.

Mr. Lee works with MacMillan Bloedel at Chemainus.

Stanfield: Shipyard Policy

ada for Canadians. Put Canada First."

"Go, Bob, get the heck out of here," shouted a picketer. One irate bystander wearing a Stanfield sticker on his lapel shouted: "Why don't you go to Russia? There is plenty of work in Siberia."

"Yes, sir," the picketer replied. "But at least I would be contributing to that country's economy. Right now I'm unemployed."

Later, inside Kerrisdale Arena Mr. Stanfield addressed a crowd estimated at more than 3,000 and for most of his speech one of the pickets stood beside the stage holding aloft a placard which read: "Stop $120,000,000 annual handout to foreign shipbuilders. Build our own ships."

More Today

He put down the sign only when a party official explained that all the Stanfield signs had been lowered as well to allow those behind to get a view of the stage.

A spokesman for the picketers said later Victoria members of their unions would stage a similar demonstration today when Mr. Stanfield visits the capital city.

The Tory leader made no reference to the shipbuilding crisis here but a briefing sheet distributed to reporters by B.C. Progressive Conservatives indicated it will be a major topic when Mr. Stanfield makes what they describe as a major policy speech in Victoria tonight.

The sheet quoted Victoria Conservative candidate Eric Charman as charging that under the Liberal government, employment in local shipyards has dropped from 2,000 to 400 men. The candidate seeks a system of regional contract awards, development of a small Canadian merchant marine and new federal subsidies.

Big, Small

Mr. Stanfield drew a small crowd for his airport reception, a larger than expected audience at his luncheon stop in Kerrisdale, another small one at city hall in New Westminster, and for his final public appearance of the day about 750 at an open air gathering near English Bay.

His audiences were generally friendly and he seemed to establish a rapport which, however, never became warm or intimate.

After watching a group of young Stanfield girls, all wearing matching minidresses made of paper fabric covered with campaign stickers, who greeted the Tory leader on arrival and followed him through the day, one observer remarked: "Well, he looks good on paper, anyway."

Wrong Advice

Party officials, who claimed Mr. Stanfield would be well briefed on local issues, apparently failed to advise him on the topic of his late afternoon appearance in Vancouver's West End. There, to an audience composed largely of hippies and retired people, he spoke mainly of the need to reduce the cost of housing in Canada.

At an airport press conference Mr. Stanfield attacked Prime Minister Trudeau for, he claimed, misrepresenting the Tory stand on the issue of a guaranteed annual wage for all Canadians.

"Mr. Trudeau is playing the oldest game in politics — misrepresenting my position and setting up a man of straw," he said.

Decent Level

Mr. Stanfield said his party's policy was to provide a decent level of subsistence for the handicapped, which would be improved as the economy justified, and helping other jobless people to get off the welfare rolls.

He indicated a Tory government, if elected June 25, would consider establishing "a negative income tax" now under serious study in the U.S., which would allow persons on welfare to earn a greater proportion on their own without loss of benefits. This, he added, would encourage initiative and give welfare recipients an incentive to go back to work.

The party had not arrived at cost estimates for implementation of such a plan, Mr. Stanfield said. He added: "The provinces are involved here, too. As leader of a federal party, I can't lay down the law. But I'm saying most earnestly that we would sit down with the provinces and work out a new and constructive approach to welfare in Canada."

B.C. Problem

In his luncheon address, Mr. Stanfield said pollution is a real and growing problem in British Columbia. It is a "real issue" in this election, he said, because Northern Development Minister Arthur Laing, seeking re-election in Vancouver South, "refuses to recognize such a problem exists."

A Tory government in Ottawa, he promised, would set up a network of regional advisory commissions to deal with the question of pollution abatement and co-operate with provincial governments in seeking a solution to this problem.

The members of the Mr. Stanfield's family, his wife, 25-year-old daughter, Sarah, and son Max, 21, were introduced at the Kerrisdale rally.

Bachelor Dig

Presenting Mrs. Stanfield, Conservative candidate in Vancouver Quadra, John Pearkes, son of the lieutenant-governor, made an oblique reference to Mr. Trudeau's bachelor status which passed over the heads of most of the audience.

Mr. Pearkes said: "Beside every — or almost every — public figure is a lady." There was a ripple of laughter in the crowd. But one of the picketers, who noticed Mrs. Stanfield was holding a banana with a campaign sticker on it, shouted: "We want jobs, not bananas."

Party officials announced following the rally that 3,000 hotdogs were given away free, 3,000 sandwiches, 2,500 soft drinks, and 1,200 bananas.

World In Brief

TREMENICO, Italy (AP) — Rescue squads have found the last of three miners killed in a feldspar mine. Mine officials said the three were blasting out some waste material in a water runoff tunnel when one of the explosions opened a pocket of deadly gas.

□

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Two persons have been killed, 19 injured and about 100 arrested in communal rioting in Aurangabad, 175 miles east of Bombay.

Shops were looted and Moslem mosques, a movie theatre and some houses were burned down. Police and soldiers, using tear gas and guns, were needed to bring the disturbances under control.

□

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A dozen military officers have been detained and their troops confined to barracks after the breakup of a plot against the government of President Rene Barrientos by military men aligned with the National Revolutionary Movement.

Danny the Red May Seek British Asylum

LONDON (CP) — Militant student leader Daniel (Danny the Red) Cohn-Bendit threatened Wednesday night to direct his campaign against the French government from Britain.

* * *

Cohn-Bendit, fresh from student barricades in Paris, was given a 24-hour permit on arrival here Tuesday night, but authorities relented Wednesday, allowing him to stay 14 days.

Then he told cheering students at the London School of Economics that he may seek political asylum in Britain.

The 23-year-old Cohn-Bendit, a French-born West German, said that while here, he hopes to lay the foundations for a resistance campaign similar to President de Gaulle's London-based Free French Movement in 1940.

* * *

The government bowed to Con-Bendit's demands for a 14-day visitor's permit when he warned that otherwise he wouldn't participate in a BBC Students in Revolt taped television program.

Friends also warned that if he didn't get his request, they would whisk him to some hideaway so that he couldn't be deported.

About two hours before his time was up, the fiery French leader, whose organization is among those banned in France, got home office agreement that he could stay for two weeks and visit friends and relatives A home office official explained that the friends could include discontented students on university campuses.

Cohn-Bendit told elate supporters that he and two companions may seek political asylum here.

* * *

The home office official said such a request would be considered at the time it is presented. At the moment he is a visitor, but if he tries tostir up violence, he would be liable to prosecution, the official said. He added that Cohn-Bendit had only asked for 14 ays—nothing more.

Cohn-Bendits presence angered a number of Conservative members of Parliament. And The Times reported it had received a telephone call threatening to kill him. Scotland Yard was reported to be investigating other threats against the student leader.

Cohn-Bendit assailed the French administration as "pro-fascist" after he heard his March 22 movement and six other radical groups had been banned in France along with all public demonstrations.

* * *

He said he would repeat de Gaulle's June 18, 1940, plea from London calling on French military and civilians to join a resistance movement against the Nazis.

He said conditions in France now are the same as then—the country was in the hands of fascists.

Cong Shells Answer U.S. Words

From UPI, AP

While U.S. was warning North Vietnamese the shelling of Saigon might seriously jeopardize the Paris peace talks, Viet Cong lobbed more mortars into the South Vietnamese capital this morning.

U.S. negotiators told the Hanoi delegation the shelling could have "the most serious consequences" for the talks in Paris, and that "the prospects for progress" now are largely in the hands of Hanoi.

In a give-and-take session Wednesday, the eighth in this first month of the talks, the United States demanded that North Vietnam "recognize the realities of the situation" and be prepared to make some gesture toward peace.

NO PROGRESS

There was no visible progress at the session, which lasted three hours and 50 minutes. For the second time, a week-long recess was agreed, at the insistence of the North Vietnamese.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator, bore down on the shelling issue.

Once again, both Harriman and the chief Hanoi delegate, Xuan Thuy, made public lengthy statements at the close of session. A North Vietnam spokesman said. They accused Harriman of distorting facts to confuse the public.

ONE CONCESSION

But Thuy did agree to "take under advisement" a U.S. proposal to halt the propaganda aspects of the post-session statements and to give a reply to an "appropriate moment."

The North Vietnamese, Harriman said, responded to U.S. restraint in limiting the bombing of the North since March 31 by intensifying their own "military, subversive and terrorist efforts in the South."

Once again the Hanoi delegation chief demanded to know when the Americans would cease all bombing and acts of war against North Vietnam.

The Cong rockets hammered the outskirts of Saigon again this morning, but for the first time in 13 days the city was spared its nightly barrage of shells.

A government spokesman said Viet Cong sent 20 rounds of 82-millimetre mortar fire into a South Vietnamese military facility about 3½ miles north of downtown Saigon.

The Viet Cong, meanwhile, have passed the word by leaflets the shelling — almost daily taking a rising toll of lives — will be intensified within a week.

SOME PUZZLED

There was no way of telling whether the threat will be carried out or whether this is part of a Communist psychological campaign to keep this capital of 3,000,000 on edge.

Hanoi radio said the central committee of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front—the Viet Cong's political arm—called on its forces to launch "continual attacks and generalized uprisings to win total victory."

Ten rounds of rockets struck the Tan Son Uhut air base area early Wednesday, killing four children and wounding 26 persons, including two Americans.

Rockets have hit Saigon on 24 days since the Communists launched their "peace talks" offensive May 5.

More South Vietnamese troops have been brought into the Saigon area and planes and helicopters are ready to pounce on rocket sites.

PRESS INDIGNANT

There were angry outbursts in the press. The English-language Saigon Daily News noted that some South Vietnamese senators have urged the government to ask U.S. President Johnson to resume bombing of Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital in retaliation for the shellings.

In another development, Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky resigned as head of South Vietnam's self-defence committee, set up to arm and give some military training to village groups.

Ky sent his letter of resignation to President Nguyen Van Thieu, who has been gaining in the power struggle between the two by replacing high officials loyal to the vice-president.

How Will We Vote?

Countdown Days Show Little Is Certain

By JOHN MATTERS

Twelve days before election day, Victorians appear to be an unsettled political crowd whose votes to a large degree will respond to the persuasive powers of the string of national leaders who will be here before June 25.

As a result, it is impossible to forecast the results in Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich with any degree of accuracy.

One or two groups have been making refined studies of attitudes, mainly in the city, but the results have not been the unexpected: an NDP stronghold in James Bay, a Liberal and Conservative patchwork elsewhere with an uncommitted Social Credit vote which, in the past, has been interpreted only as a protest voice on the federal scene.

★ ★ ★

A complicating factor this week has been the announcement of a provincial by-election in Oak Bay July 15.

Election and party officials report a large number of telephone calls confusing the byelection with the general election. If many go to the polls June 25 under the impression that it is a provincial contest, on B.C. issues, the outcome could be bizarre.

The Oak Bay provincial constituency straddles both federal ridings, only one of which, Esquimalt-Saanich, has a Social Credit candidate.

And by the time the date of the byelection rolls around, voters may be just a little fatigued by politics. It is hard to say how they will feel when they will have to go to the polls later this year to vote in a hospital referendum and, in December, the municipal elections.

However, in the next few days, if anything will catch their ears it will be the national leaders — Robert Stanfield, Pierre Trudeau or T. C. Douglas, who are coming to Victoria in that order.

Mr. Stanfield's rally is tonight at Memorial Arena while Mr. Trudeau will meet the people at Beacon Hill Park and at stops on his way to the airport Monday night.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Douglas, whom the polls show has catapulted into national interest by last Sunday's TV "debate," will be here June 23, only two days before the election.

In Victoria, Conservative Eric Charman appears to be the most vigorous campaigner, handing out his cards and shaking hands since that night in late April when the election was announced.

★ ★ ★

His campaign style, however, is a contrast to that of David Groos, who is seeking re-election. He has a campaign crew of Liberal strategists who have been through many elections and, this time, are involving a lot of young people.

The two NDP candidates in this area — Dr. Harvey Richardson in Victoria and Donald Johannessen in Esquimalt-Saanich — have been exploiting the personal, door-to-door approach possibly more than any of their rivals.

★ ★ ★

George Burnham, the independent, has been turning up at every possible public platform. Last week, he was at an "open house" at Mr. Groos' headquarters and on Tuesday night was handing out his literature after the Social Credit nominating convention in Oak Bay.

The needle of the balance keeps swinging from one side to the other in Esquimalt-Saanich, which one national analyst says is the safest Conservative seat in B.C.

George Chatterton, the former reeve of Saanich with seven years experience in Ottawa, has been doing a lot of spadework and probably knows more constituents by their first names than any other politician in this area.

However, the social characteristics of Saanich Peninsula have changed considerably in the past two or three years — there has been an influx of young and professional people who may tend to respond to Liberal David Anderson.

The Chatterton campaign may be overlooking the fact that Mr. Anderson was born and raised here and knows many of those newcomers to the peninsula.

★ ★ ★

Roy Overton, the Social Credit candidate, has admitted that he's running for the sake of having the party on the ballot paper. He will get the diehards and those who think it's a provincial election.

Report's Value:

Invitation To Invest

Principal value of the Wharf Street waterfront report, submitted Tuesday to city council, is that it points the way for the introduction of $26,000,000 in private money into a blighted area, according to Mayor Hugh Stephen.

Most aldermen who could be reached Wednesday concurred with the mayor, and the management of one major downtown business thought the 90-page document could herald complete revitalization of the city's business core.

Reginald W. Hind, manager of the Victoria branch of Eaton's of Canada, welcomed the proposals in the report as an imaginative step forward and said that his company would like to confirm its faith in the downtown area and its determination to remain in its present location.

Ald. Percy Frampton was the only member of city council who voiced reservations about the report.

"I can't say that I am overly enthusiastic," Ald. Frampton said Wednesday. "It seems to me that a good deal of the information it contained we already had, and that it is not a definite document. Rather it is an indicator that we will have to do a lot more study and research before we can come up with any positive answers, and this is going to cost the city a lot more money.

"We all knew we were going to have to do something about this area and this, it seems to me, is just about what the report states," Ald. Frampton said.

Purpose Achieved

Mayor Stephen said he felt that if the report did nothing but provide a broad outline of what needed to be done and some well-thought-out cost estimates, it would have achieved its purpose.

The mayor stressed that the feasibility report did not cost the city $70,000, as stated, but rather about half that amount.

He pointed out that a good deal of the initiative for development of the depressed area would not lie in the hands of the city, and he expected that work would start at once on the preparation of plans for action.

The waterfront survey, prepared by the Vancouver firm, Acres Western Ltd., over a period of seven months, envisaged a high-density apartment, marine, hotel area in the 52 acres under study, with pedestrian walkways, malls and an improved traffic arterial system.

It saw the developed area as a good site for a municipal convention centre.

Ald. Ian Stewart agreed with an observation made earlier by Mayor Stephen that expert opinion, no matter what it cost, was cheap for a municipality.

Two More Partners

The mayor added that it was particularly important in an urban renewal project such as that projected, because there were two other partners, the federal and provincial governments, and it was vital that the city, which was the chief beneficiary, present an unbiased picture.

Ald. Robert Baird said he also believed the survey to be a good one. It was evident, he said, that the district would develop as a high-density area of the city, and while there would be a certain risk involved in implementing such development, it was minimized by the use of a report such as that prepared by Acres Western.

The whole development, the alderman added, hinged on the city's ability to attract private money, and if it took a municipal expenditure of $1,000,000 or more to do this, it was well worth it.

The report saw the city spending an initial $1,200,000 to get the plan in motion, and this amount would increase to $2,000,000 or more with interest charges.

However, it was expected that this expenditure would draw about $26,000,000 in private capital into the district by 1981, and this would in turn, bring more than $500,000 a year to the city in tax revenue.

Chamber Searching For Citizen of Year

The Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce is seeking nominations for its annual award to the Man or Woman of the Year.

Nominations should be sent to the chamber as soon as possible, president William Armstrong said.

The award is presented annually to an outstanding Victorian who has made a definite contribution to the city's betterment.

'We Shall Return' To Closing College

"We shall return," St. Louis College principal Kevin Molloy pledged Wednesday in an emotional graduation ceremony marking closure of the 104-year-old school for boys.

Brother Molloy, voice husky with emotion, raised the hope of resurrecting the school before nearly 500 students, parents, alumni and friends.

★ ★ ★

So did Bishop Remi de Roo, spiritual head of all Island Catholics, as he praised the work of the school's teaching staff, the Christian Brothers of Ireland.

"... I look forward to the day when we can welcome them back to Victoria," said the bishop.

Final graduation exercise was held in the lofty First United Church Fellowship Hall.

Brother Molloy, soon to take up a new post in Newfoundland, recalled the founding of the school in 1864 by the Oblate Fathers. It is the second-oldest in B.C.

★ ★ ★

"My correspondence over the past several weeks from people of all faiths and from different parts of the world certainly proves the respect the school enjoyed and only sharpens the pain of its needless demise," he said.

(Failure of a fund drive for renovation and expansion was blamed for the decision.)

Brother Molloy recalled the words of the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur when he was forced to evacuate The Philippines during the Second World War.

★ ★ ★

"Please God, conditions in Victoria will, in God's providence, hold true to my MacArthurian promise: 'We shall return'," said the principal.

Bishop de Roo told the audience that Catholic education remained in crisis.

"I don't know if you realize how profound it (the crisis) is," he said. "It continues to menace our elementary schools as well."

★ ★ ★

"It is part of the wide spread upheaval affecting society throughout North America and around the world."

Bishop de Roo added:

"The crisis we are in surpasses our present understanding and our control. It is a total upheaval of society which will go on for some time."

After 104 years of service — an empty stage.

A special guest was George Burnes, 86, the school's oldest alumnus, son of the builder of Burnes House, recently renovated in Bastion Square. Mr. Burnes, now living at 919 Vancouver, started school in 1892.

Top student award in the graduating class went to Patrick Griffin, son of ex-city alderman Michael Griffin. He took the Brother John E. Ryan Memorial Scholarship, and also spoke as valedictorian.

In addition, Patrick won the class English award.

Other award winners: Denis Flynn, the O'Connel Award; Michael Percy, the Christian Brothers' Bursary; Richard Philion, the Bausch and Lomb Award, and second place in the Christian Brothers' Bursary; Ronald Gaudet, the French Award.

San Juan Ferry Service Soon Three-per-Day

The summer service schedule of three sailings a day from Sidney to the San Juan Islands and Anacortes will go into effect Sunday and last until Sept. 3, Washington State Ferries announced Wednesday.

Daily departure times from Sidney will be 11 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 4:45 p.m.

Tories Charge Word-Twisting

By BILL STAVDAL

Liberal and Conservative candidates crossed swords Wednesday on the question of who has promised what, and where.

Grit and Tory hopefuls in the June 25 federal election accused each other of making concessions to Quebec, of making different promises in different parts of the country, and of twisting each other's words.

The exchange came at the Silver Threads Centre in Centennial Square, where about 150 people gathered to hear all candidates in both Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich ridings. All but Esquimalt-Saanich Socred Roy Overton showed up.

UN FOR QUEBEC

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal David Anderson set the stage with the charge that Conservative promises had encouraged Quebec separatist Marcel Faribault to foresee seating in the UN for Quebec as a sovereign state.

"One thing is being said in the east, and another thing out here," declared Mr. Anderson.

He said he had checked employment figures in Vancouver Island shipyards and discovered there are 2,903 persons employed.

SAME THING

"We have said the same thing in all parts of the country," he said. "I ask you: have our opponents done the same?"

A few minutes later, Victoria Conservative Eric Charman retorted that with HMC Dockyard excluded, the actual employment figure had dropped from 2,500 to 500 in the past five years.

A Conservative government in Ottawa would reintroduce regional considerations in shipbuilding, he said.

TORY POLICY

"We're going to revert back to the Conservative policy that ships for the West Coast will be built on the West Coast," said Mr. Charman.

Mr. Chatterton, Esquimalt-Saanich's incumbent Conservative MP at dissolution, also attacked Mr. Anderson.

"He's twisting the words of Mr. Stanfield," he charged.

Mr. Chatterton also charged that Prime Minister Trudeau has promised a $17,000,000 ferry for the Bay of Fundy, despite his announced intention of making no election promises involving money.

SPECIAL STATUS

In the question period, Mr. Anderson said the Conservative Party accepted the principle of special status for Quebec when it chose a new leader last winter.

"Their own record, at the convention, of accepting special status . . . will lead to the seating of Quebec in the UN as a sovereign nation," said Mr. Anderson.

That brought Mr. Charman to his feet. He said former prime minister Pearson invited special status for Quebec last winter when he called for "a great new act of accommodation."

GROOS HESITANT

David Groos, Victoria's incumbent Liberal in the last Parliament took no part in the exchange. He said a Liberal government would "improve the quality of life in Canada," and called Prime Minister Trudeau "the Sir Wilfred Laurier of his age."

Donald Johannessen, New Democrat seeking the Esquimalt-Saanich seat, said the guaranteed annual income was part of the NDP program.

It could be done by a "negative income tax," he said, which would involve no new bureaucracy. Persons earning less than a certain minimum income would apply for a refund bringing them up to the set level.

Dr. Harvey Richardson, Victoria NDP choice, said some pensioners were living on old and inadequate pensions which are cut if the pensioner accepts the $30 federal supplement.

SOCIAL JUSTICE

"It has been our party which has consistently stood up for social justice," he said.

Victoria's independent, George Burnham, spoke only on the Red Ensign, which he wants to put back on Canadian flagpoles.

Mr. Burnham waved a Bible and cited chapter and verse of the Book of Isaiah in support of his stand.

Chapter 11, verse 12, says: "And he shall set up an ensign for the nations, and shall assemble the outcasts of Israel, and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth."

BIBLE AND HISTORY

Mr. Burnham also said that chapter 32 of Isaiah tells "the history of our Parliament for the past five years."

Verse 5 says: "The vile person shall be no more called liberal, nor the churl said to be bountiful."

Weather Check Calms Liberals

The Liberals have been quite concerned about the possibility of rain Monday, when Prime Minister Trudeau calls in on Victorians. However, David Groos felt better after he had gone over the weather statistics for June 17. "It's like All-Sooke Day—it never rains," he said. Groos addresses the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club at 6:15 p.m. today at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Socred Candidate Signs Tory Pitch

A letter signed by G. P. A. Pollen soliciting money on behalf of the Victoria Conservative Association arrived at the offices of several doctors this week.

Mr. Pollen, a member of the local Conservative executive, was nominated by Social Crediters Tuesday night to contest the July 15 provincial byelection in Oak Bay.

Mr. Pollen's letter says medicare, the Canada Pension Plan, Company of Young Canadians, increased old-age assistance and other welfare measures were paid for in unbalanced budgets, runaway inflation and the loss of faith in Canadian bonds.

"And yet, amidst all this legislation, this debasing of our dollar, this stifling of the individual, this overwhelming obsession for the distribution of the wealth of the country, there has not been a single piece of legislation to encourage individual enterprise or productivity," he adds.

He said he was sure "it must be as obvious to you, as a physician, as it is to me that the country needs a new direction and the elimination of images and personality cults."

Mr. Pollen suggests a strengthened Conservative party would bring about this change—"a strengthening that is possible only through your personal support and financial backing."

Maple Leaf Brain Trust Seething

MONTREAL (CP) — There was dissension in the ranks of Toronto Maple Leafs' brain trust just before the National Hockey League's annual intra-league draft got under way Wednesday.

An argument occurred shortly after Joe Crozier, general manager and coach of Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League, learned that the NHL board of governors had passed a resolution early Wednesday concerning player transfer.

The resolution came from Leafs president Stafford Smythe. Leafs have a working agreement with the Americans which terminates this year.

The rule change so upset Toronto general manager Punch Imlach and Crozier that both stepped away from their positions at the draft table to cool off.

The Smythe motion, carried unanimously by the board, said:

"Any player who, during the restricted period, would have been available for claim in the reverse draft, shall be available in the reverse draft notwithstanding any other intervening transaction unless he is included on the protected lists for the purposes of the reverse draft."

DRAFT FROM NHL

The intent of the reverse draft is that the two minor leagues—the AHL and the Western Hockey League—draft from the NHL rather than from teams within their own leagues.

Leafs have three Rochester players on their list so they could not be claimed in Tuesday's inter-league draft, in which the NHL teams draft from the minor league clubs.

The Toronto club intended to transfer some of these players back to the Rochester list before today's reverse draft so that Rochester's opponents could not draft them for the going price of $15,000 each. Smythe's resolution now prevents this.

The AHL and WHL owners hope to reach an agreement with the NHL that these players will not be subject to the reverse draft.

Several general managers polled after the resolution was passed were not clear on its meaning and were awaiting further clarification from league president Clarence Campbell.

However NHL president Campbell, Jack Butterfield of the AHL and Al Leader of the WHL later held a joint meeting at which the problem concerning Rochester players was said to have been resolved in such a way that they will not be subject to the reverse draft.

Detroit Pads Lead

Rain put a damper on most of the American League baseball schedule Wednesday but nothing appears to be ready to slow down the leading Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers increased their lead to five games by downing the visiting Minnesota Twins, 2-1, behind an eighth-inning home run by Dick McAuliffe and the five-hit pitching of Mickey Lolich.

Detroit, which placed veteran infielder Eddie Mathews on the disabled list for the first time in his career Wednesday because of a herniated disc, has now won three games in a row and eight out of the last nine games.

FIRST HOME RUN

In the only other American Leagues game played, John "Blue Moon" Odom pitched a seven-hit shutout and hit his first major league home run to lead Oakland Athletics to a 7-0 victory over Cleveland Indians.

Single games between Chicago and New York, and Baltimore and Washington and a doubleheader between California and Boston were rained out.

A game between Houston and Philadelphia was rained out in the National League but all other games were played as scheduled.

San Francisco Giants moved to within three games of leading St. Louis by defeating Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, while Atlanta Braves were battering the Cardinals, 7-1, behind a 13-hit attack and the three-hit pitching of Pat Jarvis.

Ron Santo's 10th home run helped Ferguson Jenkins end a long losing streak as the Chicago Cubs downed Cincinnati Reds, 4-1, while run-scoring singles by J. C. Martin and Jerry Grote in the ninth inning gave New York Mets a 2-1 victory over Don Drysdale and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Next game: Tonight — Victoria at New Westminster.

By JIM TANG

Speed is the key for Victoria Shamrocks, and when they aren't running they make the mistake that eventually bring defeat.

They turned it on only in the third period last night at Memorial Arena, but it came too late to compensate for early errors and New Westminster Salmonbellies took a 13-10 decision and a share of the lead in the Western Division of the National Lacrosse Association.

Salmonbellies are tied with Shamrocks and Vancouver Carlings, who have two games in hand, with Portland Adanacs only two points in arrears despite the committee-room decision which cost them two victories.

Now 5-5, Shamrocks haven't really been as good as their record. Last night's was a typical performance of fits-and-starts lacrosse which has thrown an extra-heavy load on goalkeeper Barry Forbes because there have been more seizures than spurts.

COULD HAVE USED HELP

Forbes was only an average goalkeeper in the two periods he played last night, but he was good enough to have been a winner had his teammates given him one period as good as the last, when Doug Thompson took over between the piping.

It was a frustrating evening for the losers. Getting the worst of the inconsistent officiating probably cost them two goals in the first period, Ranjit Dillon hit the post with the nets wide open when a goal could have turned it around and Don Wallis balked them three times with great stops when it really mattered.

DIDN'T MERIT POINTS

But the fact remained that the Islanders didn't play well enough to merit the points and their mistakes helped make it easy for the Salmonbellies, who led, 5-2, after the first period and had a 9-3 margin for the final 20 minutes.

Set back at the start when Forbes fanned on a long shot by Dave Tory and Wayne Shuttleworth wasn't called on what seemed an obvious crease infraction as he pulled down a rebound for the 2-0 goal, Shamrocks suddenly spurted to tie on fine efforts by Jim McNeill and Bill Gray.

HURT BY PENALTY

Then they were set back again by a cheap penalty called against Vern Black for high-sticking, Larry Henry scoring after Salmonbellies had been awarded the ball when Shamrocks were called on the 45-second rule.

But the Shamrocks dug their hole deeper by allowing Ian Bull to split two defenders for a scoring shot and Paul Parnell to score on a bouncer with Salmonbellies shorthanded.

The pattern was the same in the second period, which opened with officials calling eight penalties in the first nine minutes.

DILLON HIT POST

Shamrocks started with Ranjit Dillon hitting a post with Wallis far out of his nets on a power play but they lost a chance just after stalling off a penalty by being caught with no less than seven attackers on the floor when a delayed penalty was called against Bull.

Then Ranjit Dillon jarred the ball away from the wandering Wallis with Shamrocks two men short and set up McNeill for 3-5 at 7:37. But McNeill was balked by Wallis on a clean break and the Shamrocks followed that play with one of their longer seizures.

Ken Henry scored on a long shot, Shuttleworth completed a two-on-one break with a drive through Forbes' legs, Larry Henry was allowed to break loose on the left side and John Shmyr came up with a pretty goal as Salmonbellies took a six-goal bulge.

Shamrocks gave it a real try in the third period with Doug Thompson playing well in goal and drawing two assists, but they short-circuited their rally with some loose checking and failure to come up with loose balls.

Steady Ed Kowalyk and Ted Liebich scored in the first two minutes but Wayne Goss sandwiched a goal between those two scoring efforts and Larry Henry and Wayne Shuttleworth got away for scoring shots as Salmonbellies moved out to a 12-7 lead, more than enough to take care of the late Shamrock rush.

Royal Colwood Leads After Near Sweep

Royal Colwood missed a sweep by one match against Uplands Wednesday on their home course as they rocketed to the top of the standings after two rounds of the Inter-Club Golf League.

Colwood, with Gorge Vale rated as the top teams this year, bounced back from its 3-6 loss at Victoria Golf Club last week with an 8-1 victory to take a half-a-point lead over Gorge Vale.

AVERTS SWEEP

The defending champion Gorge squad was only a little less spectacular, crushing visiting Uplands, 7½-1½.

Bob Hunt was all that stood in the way of Colwood's sweep, edging newcomer Max Buckley, 1-up, as scores were generally high at the par 70 layout.

John Morgan, who posted the largest winning margin for his team with a 5 and 4 victory over Ken Knott, had the low medal round with a 73.

Don Billsborough made an unsuccessful closing rush aginst Colwood pro Earl Davies. Three down at one point, Billsborough drew even on the 16th but lost the match on the 18th hole.

McCOLL WINS

Bill McColl, subbing for Dr. George Bigelow, who was competing in the Pacific Northwest seniors championships, was the only Victoria player to get a win, downing recently crowned city amateur champion Al MacLeod, 1 up.

Possibly the best match of the day was between Dave Mick of Gorge and Jay Wilson with Mick, who shot a par 73, winning 1-up. Wilson had a 74.

Lex Sutcliffe of Gorge had to scramble for his halve with Carl Schwantje after being three down after 12 holes. Schwantje was one of three players to record eagles Wednesday, getting his on the seventh hole. Mick and Dick Flanagan of Victoria had eagles on the ninth.

Laurie Carroll, who defeated Flanagan, 3 and 2, also had a par while city junior champion Cee Ferguson was one-over in his 4 and 3 win over Doug Munro.

Two Share Lead In Seniors Golf

Dr. George Bigelow of Victoria Golf Club and Warren Dawson of Palm Springs, Calif., took the first round lead Wednesday in the fourth annual Pacific Northwest Seniors Golf Association championships.

Dr. Bigelow, the B.C. and Canadian seniors champion, and Dawson shot 75s on the par 70 Royal Colwood course.

One stroke back were George Beechler of Prinville, Ore., a two-time champion, and Dr. Max Hunter of Olympia, while George Cadwell of Seattle had a 77.

George Weiss of Portland and Kermit Rosen Sr., of Seattle, were at 78 while Steve Dunford of Salt Lake City, Millard Rosenblatt of Portland and Elmer Button of Port Angeles had 79s.

George Skarich of Seattle and Ron Kershaw of Yakima were at 80.

Dawson and Cadwell won the best-ball competition with 63, one stroke ahead of Skarich and Rosen.

Red Grange 65 Today

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Harold (Red) Grange's number comes up today — his social security number, that is. The Galloping Ghost of Illinois football immortality is 65 years old.

"I knew it was coming," Grange said, "but I was sort of putting it off. I was hoping the whole thing would go away."

Actually, the one-time scourge of the gridiron has been retired for a couple of years, except for a bit of promotional work for a brewing company.

He has been transformed, by easy stages, into the squire of Indian Lake Estates in central Florida.

His spacious, airy home, wide open to the breezes that drift across flat cattle country, has a screen-enclosed swimming pool, planted bright with tropical flowers and plenty of chaises into which Old 77 can plop down and relax when the urge hits him.

MOWS HIS LAWN

Grange mows his lawn and contents himself with gravitating between the golf course a half-mile away, his two boats docked in a channel leading to a lake and his television set where he watches football and baseball games.

He isn't an avid golfer like most of his neighbors.

"I play for fun and exercise," he said, "but the game lacks something. It would be better if once in a while someone came up from behind and tackled you just as you were hitting the ball."

IN GREAT SHAPE

Forty-four years after he electrified the sports world by running 92, 70, 57 and 42 yards for touchdowns in the first quarter of a Big Ten championship game with Michigan, Grange still is in great shape.

He is close to his old playing weight of 170 pounds and his hair is still red except around the edges. He looks 10 years younger than his age.

In 13 years of high school, college and professional football, Grange carried the ball 4,013 times for an average of 8.1 yards and 531 touchdowns.

But times have changed.

"I don't like crowds anymore," he said. "That's why this appeals to me."

He waved an arm towards the open spaces. His home is a long punt from that of his nearest neighbor.

Grange flew to Chicago three times last season to see his old team, the Bears, play football. Except for that, the only football he sees is on television. Big cities have no attraction for him.

St. Louis Blues Get Jacques Plante In Major Development of NHL Draft

Plante

MONTREAL — Jacques Plante, retired for three years, was the centre of the most startling development during the National Hockey League's intra-league draft Wednesday.

Winner of both the Vezina (six times) and Hart (once) trophies in a 12-season NHL career, the 39-year-old goaltender was drafted from New York Rangers by St. Louis Blues.

Plante, who has indicated that he is ready to try for a comeback, is expected to join Glen Hall as the two-man goal keeping crew for the Blues next season. Seth Martin, who turned professional to play with the expansion club last season after starring for Trail Smoke Eaters and Canada's national team, has expressed a desire to retire after his one professional season.

HAPPY TO HAVE HIM

"We're happy to have him on our team," said St. Louis coach Scotty Bowman. "He has indicated he wants to return and he has stayed in shape by playing for the Quebec oldtimers."

Plante played most of his NHL career with Montreal Canadiens, was traded to New York Rangers on June 4, 1963, along with Phil Goyette and Don Marshall in exchange for Dave Balon, Leon Rochefort and Len Ronson.

Both Balon and Ronson figured in deals during the NHL meetings, Balon returning to the Rangers Wednesday in a trade and the Canadiens regaining Ronson Tuesday in the inter-league draft.

HARDEST HIT

Outside of the claim for Plante, the intra-league draft provided little that was unexpected. Rangers were the hardest hit, losing three players, and Toronto Maple Leafs were the most active with three claims.

Under the complicated rules of the draft, each club was permitted to protect 14 players and two goalkeepers. When a player is drafted, the drafting club must remove a player from its protected list and the club losing the player is allowed to fill its protected list and, if it wishes, to purchase the player removed from the drafting club's protected list for $30,000.

MINIMIZED LOSS

Pre-draft trades and juggling minimized the loss of stars with the best-known draftee after Plante being Toronto-forward Brian Conacher, who went to the Detroit Red Wings, who had second choice.

Oakland Seals, last-place club in the expansion division, had first choice. As had been expected, they took defenceman Carol Vadnais from Canadiens, who were able, for the second year in a row, to put Claude Provost back on their protected list.

Provost was the only established player Canadiens were unable to protect after a series of pre-draft deals.

Only 11 players were taken in the four rounds it took to complete the draft. Every club passed on the fifth round. Five clubs—Los Angeles Kings, Chicago Black Hawks, Boston Bruins, Canadiens and Rangers—failed to make a choice.

The complete draft in order of selection:

1. Oakland claimed Carol Vadnais from Montreal and dropped Larry Cahan. Montreal filled with Claude Provost and purchased Cahan.
2. Detroit claimed Brian Conacher from Toronto and dropped Gary Marsh. Toronto filled with George Armstrong and purchased Marsh.
3. Pittsburgh claimed Charlie Burns from Oakland and dropped George Konik. Oakland filled with Brian Perry and purchased Konik.
4. Toronto claimed Larry Mickey from New York and dropped Larry Hillman. New York filled Larry Jeffrey and purchased Hillman.
5. Minnesota claimed Larry Hillman from New York and dropped Bill Plager. New York filled with Camille Henry and purchased Plager.
6. St. Louis claimed Jacques Plante from New York and dropped Seth Martin. New York filled with Robert Jones, did not exercise the option to purchase Martin.
7. Philadelphia claimed Rom Buchanan from Boston and dropped Jean Gauthier. Boston filled with Ted Hodgson and purchased Gauthier.
8. Minnesota claimed Fern Rivard from Philadelphia and dropped Chuck Goddard. Philadelphia filled with Don Blackburn, did not exercise the option to purchase Goddard.
9. St. Louis claimed Myron Stankiewicz from Los Angeles and dropped Rejean Richer. Los Angeles filled with Dave Amadio, did not exercise the option to purchase Richer.
10. Philadelphia claimed Larry Bale from Minnesota and dropped Bill Sutherland. Minnesota filled with Bill Collins and purchased Sutherland.
11. Toronto claimed Sutherland from Minnesota and dropped Duane Rupp. Minnesota filled with Parker MacDonald and purchased Rupp.

Minnesota continued its roster rearranging by making a one-for-one deal with the Rangers immediately after the draft.

The North Stars sent forward Dave Balon to New York and got defenseman Wayne Hillman and rookies Joe Johnson and Dan Sequin, who played for the Kitchener juniors last season.

The deal gave the North Stars a possible brother combination on defence with Larry Hillman picked up in the intra-league draft.

Another post-draft development saw St. Louis complete the three-club trade announced on Tuesday by sending forward Gerry Melnyk and defenceman Darryl Edestrand to Philadelphia.

On Tuesday, the Flyers sent Lou Angotti to Pittsburgh Penguins, who then sent forward Ab McDonald to St. Louis Blues.

Junior Rocks Play Tonight

Victoria Junior Shamrocks play their first home game of the Inter-City Junior Lacrosse League tonight at Esquimalt Sports Centre starting at 8 p.m.

Upsets Mark Tennis Tournaments

Roger Skillings and Nancy Hill upset defending champions Ted Smythe and Sally Wood, 6-4, 8-6, Wednesday to reach the finals of the mixed doubles at the Victoria Racquet Club tournament. They will meet John Fraser and Theo Booker Saturday in the finial.

Results were formful in Wednesday's play in the Oak Bay tournament, but on Tuesday, top-seeded Ivor Goodmanson was eliminated from the men's singles by Warren Cameron, 6-3, 6-1.

Today's draws and starting times:

U.S. Open Starts Today . . .

. . . at Rochester, N.Y.

Plot is Similar, Only the Cast is Different

This is a drawing of the layout of Oak Hill Country Club in Rochester, N.Y. where the 68th United States Open Golf championship gets underway today.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — A national open is like a revival of a well-loved play. The lines, the scenery, the costumes are the same. Only the cast is different.

Accordingly, here are the program notes for the 1968 revival of this theatrical classic:

Act 1, Scene 1 — Thursday, June 13 — The club house hard by the 19th hole: 110 pros are seen cursing bitterly about the course as "unfair! a mockery of golf! Harry Vardon and Bobby Jones couldn't break 80 on this thing on their best ball! Joe Dey should be made to break a hundred on it or resign as head of the USGA!" Then, one-third of the field will go out and break par, and one pro from Horseshoe, Texas, will shoot a 63.

Act 1, Scene 2 — Same day — Deane Beman will announce that the course favors the long hitter unfairly. Jack Nicklaus will announce it is gimmicked for the advantage of the short hitter who can place his shots. They will tie for second place in the opening round with 67 apiece, and will use the same clubs on all but two of the holes.

Act 1, Scene 3 — Same day — Arnold Palmer will announce his hip feels "just fine." Arnold Palmer will shoot 76. Arnold will announce his hip is bothering him. His playing partners will suggest that it is his putter which is bothering him.

Act II, Scene 1 — The following day — 15,000 spectators will watch scores soar and gravely assure themselves that it's to bad Hogan isn't in this because from tee-to-green he's still the best there is. They will say that "Casper's putter is keeping him in there" while the IBM machines show Casper as hitting more greens in regulation than any player in the field and ranks no worse than fifth in hitting fairways in regulation. Palmer will make a comeback to a 67, and the gallery will say "Arnold is hitting it a ton," but IBM will show he ranks third in putting for the day with only 21 putts for the round.

Act II, Scene 2 — Same day — The pro from Horseshoe, Texas, will shoot an 86 and miss the cut and announce "I can't understand it. I'm hitting the ball just as well as I did yesterday." Someone will suggest sympathetically that maybe it's just the direction that's not as good.

ACT III, SCENE 1 — Same day, — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus will be paired together and the press will hail "The Dream Match of the Century." Whereupon, each of them will spend the day in the rough, making penalty drops, asking for rulings, and only phenomenal putts will keep them from finishing the round in Syracuse after dark.

ACT III, SCENE 2 — Same day — Someone will rush in the press tent announcing breathlessly that Rod Funseth has just birdied 7 holes in a row, which will cause great consternation among guys making Palmer their overnight lead until it is discovered this makes Funseth only 4-over for the day.

ACT IV, SCENE 1 — The last day — Approximately 2,340,450 words will be written about the "horrendous" finishing holes at Oak Hill, and IBM will then show the average score per round on each of them is 3.1.

ACT IV, SCENE 2 — Same day — 20,000 people will follow Nicklaus and Palmer, but Dan Sikes Jr., playing before 150 spectators, including 12 in-laws and the guy who got him in the office pool, will win, withstanding a late charge by a guy from Aberdeen, S.D., and Roberto de Vicenzo, whose card will be sent to a certified public accountant and dusted for Tommy Aaron's fingerprints before it is decided he finished one shot behind.

Montreal Official . . . . . . Says Study Needed

No Commitment for Dome

MONTREAL (CP) — The city did not commit itself to building a covered stadium for a future National League baseball club, says Lucien Saulnier, Montreal's executive committee chairman.

Gerry Snyder, vice-chairman of the executive committee, took the city's case to a Chicago meeting of the National League and was reported at the time to have promised a domed stadium for the club.

"The city made no commitment regarding the stadium project and cannot make one until certain economic feasibility studies are completed," Saulnier said in an interview Wednesday.

He said that the idea of a major league baseball team was good and that he was not implying any city administration opposition to the domed stadium project.

Asked whether commitments of any kind had been made by the city's representatives in Chicago, he said that he did not know—"I wasn't in Chicago."

Snyder said after the Chicago National League meeting that the franchise plans called for the new team to play at Expo 67's Autostade, a 25,000-seat oval built for the world exhibition last year.

The city would add 12,500 seats for the first two years of operation.

Snyder said then that the city would build a 55,000-seat domed stadium in Montreal's east end. Preliminary estimates placed the cost of the stadium at $35,000,000.

Charge Soccer Death Sequel

COLCHESTER, England (CP) — A soccer player has been accused of killing a member of the opposing team during a match.

Edward Southby, a young lathe operator, is charged with manslaughter in the death of Malcolm Macey, following a Sunday match between two amateur teams in this Essex market town some 50 miles northeast of London.

★ ★ ★

Police Inspector Peter Crust told the magistrate's court Tuesday the last such case was in 1878 when the man accused was acquitted.

Prosecutor Peter Abbott said that left-winger Macey had the ball, got rid of it, and suddenly Southby, a right-back from the opposing team, ran towards Macey with clenched fist and struck him on the side of the face. Macey died almost immediately of a brain hemorrhage.

★ ★ ★

The inspector said Southby had told him antagonism between the two men began with the start of the match.

"We were niggling each other," Southby was quoted as having said. "He (Macey) kept kicking me. I told him to stop. I was in a bit of a temper. I ran up and hit him."

Flower Show Popular

About 800 entries and 2,000 to 3,000 visitors are expected at the Victoria Horticultural Society's summer flower show in the Curling Club Friday and Saturday.

The show, conducted in affiliation with the Royal Horticultural Society, will be highlighted by a Government House gardeners' centre display and a special exhibit of ferns.

Competition, open to all, will be from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Saturday. Exhibits will be auctioned after trophies are presented at 8 p.m. Saturday. The show opens at 2 p.m. Friday.

CUNNINGHAMS AT CUNNINGHAMS WE CARE

Our Principals

Well-Rounded Pupil 'Must'

Development of well-rounded students is the target of Laurie Simpson, principal of Sooke elementary school, and he strives for his goal by encouraging participation in many phases of school activities.

Mr. Simpson was born in Rouleau, Sask., moved to Lashburn in the same province when very young, and was educated through Grade 12 in that community.

★ ★ ★

Because he was fortunate in his teachers, and because he hoped to pass on to others some of the help they gave him, he decided on a teaching career and took his year of training at Saskatoon normal school.

Mr. Simpson's first posting landed him in what he recalls as a "happy family"—a one-room schol at Burke, Sask., with about 12 youngsters in all grades from 1 to 8. He enjoyed three years there.

★ ★ ★

A little confusion was added in his next position: two years at Lloydminster elementary, on the Saskatchewan-Alberta border teaching Grade 6. Confusion lay in the fact that, in a border town, registers had to be kept for each province.

By this time Mr. Simpson's parents had moved to the Coast, and he came to Victoria. He thought he might try social work but decided to stick to teaching and worked first at Muir Creek logging camp. Here again was a great experience, teaching about 18 children in grades 1 to 6.

Simpson

The move to Sooke elementary came in 1954 when he came there on staff. He was appointed principal in 1958 and has continued in that position.

It is because he feels the importance of finding each youngster's particular interest, and building on that an interest in other subjects, that he encourages his students to take part in activities aside from straight studies: band, singing, physical education.

He agrees that a student finding unexpected ability in one field is led to do better in others.

An unsettled student, for example, will be intrigued into trying his hand with a band instrument, and discover a natural knack that very soon makes him a regular member of the band. Next he wants to be a "regular member" in other fields, and finds that a little application makes this possible.

★ ★ ★

A rarity among principals, Mr. Simpson is a bachelor. He lives "down the road" in Saseenos, a base for his principal hobbies of oil painting, gardening and travel. His journeyings have taken him to Europe and to Hawaii twice each, and the slides he has taken have been helpful in his teaching.

Teaching occupies half his days, subjects including math, science, languages and art.—E. M. S.

VICTORIA DAILY NEWSPAPERS

Trudeau Bolts Before Teenage Crowd

From UPI, CP

Prime Minister Trudeau was visibly shaken Wednesday night by a crowd of 1,500 teenagers when he arrived from Toronto to bring his election campaign to Summerside, P.E.I.

A local Liberal source said high school students at a "youth rally" were supposed to stand beside the road and cheer the prime minister as his automobile covered the four miles between the airport and the town.

Instead, they massed in a human barricade across the darkened highway, jostling and yelling their approval of the 48-year-old bachelor.

HASTY RETREAT

When Trudeau got out to address them over a bull horn, the teenagers pressed forward to pluck at his clothing. Concerned police began wading into the screaming crowd, pushing the teenagers back and shouting "Break it up."

Trudeau, the bullhorn forgotten, beat a hasty retreat to the security of his limousine where he hurriedly wound up the window and waited to be driven off.

FULL DAY

Even then, police had a hard time controlling the crowd enough to let the motorcade go through.

Trudeau flew here after a morning meeting with his cabinet in Ottawa and an afternoon television taping session in Toronto.

Warmed by enthusiastic receptions in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario earlier in the week, the fledgling prime minister — sworn in only April 23 — hoped to make inroads in the tiny island province where the opposition Conservatives hold all four seats.

JOINED BY PREMIER

Premier Alex Campbell will travel with the prime minister when he tours the constituencies today and will appear on platforms with him across the island.

Campbell's brother, Mel, is a Liberal candidate in Egmont riding, where incumbent Conservative David MacDonald is widely considered to be unbeatable.

NOVA SCOTIA NEXT

Three rallies, including a big one in Charlottetown, the capital city, were planned before the prime minister again boarded his chartered DC-9 jet for Nova Scotia — home of Opposition leader Robert Stanfield.

The prime minister was not expected to change his campaign style in the Maritimes: no promises and a strong stand against granting any more powers to French-speaking Quebec.

The Canadian economy is again on the upswing after a "needed pause," Trudeau said Tuesday night in London, Ont.

For the first time in history, he told a rally, the economy has undergone a necessary adjustment from a boom period without recession.

The period of transition is coming to an end, he said.

"The stage is set for a renewal of expansion and our economy is on the upswing."

Barring international developments, Canadians could look forward to a good year.

Federal Campaign in Victoria

Full House for Stanfield

Conservative leader Robert Stanfield is expected to have a full house of 8,000 when he speaks at a campaign rally here tonight.

Mr. Stanfield, who will be spending most of this afternoon up-Island, will be on the platform of Memorial Arena when the meeting begins at 8:30 p.m.

□

Dark skies that threatened to unleash a downpour Wednesday night did not deter about 60 young supporters of Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal David Anderson. They called on about 1,500 homes in the Gordon Head and Ten Mile Point areas with campaign literature. There will be a Liberal blitz almost every evening from now until the end of the campaign.

□

All of the times given out by election officials and printed on election material are expressed in standard time. That means if the forms say polls are open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., they are open 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. daylight time, which is what applies in B.C. today.

□

People in jail, including those awaiting trial, won't have a vote on election day. This means that even those not yet found guilty of the offence with which they are charged can't vote.

However, people on the waiting lists at hospitals, who expect to be under treatment on June 25, should cast ballots at an advance poll.

Advance polls will take place Saturday and Monday at the locations printed on polling division lists that have been mailed to eligible voters.

□

David Wilson, returning officer in Victoria riding, promised Wednesday night that anyone unable to negotiate stairs at polling stations election day will not lose the vote.

Earlier, there were complaints from some citizens about stairs at private homes where balloting will be done. Some said elderly persons in wheelchairs would not be able to get inside.

"I have checked all the places about which there have been complaints," said Mr. Wilson. "It would be impossible to change those polling stations now. Anyone who cannot get up the stairs should phone me and I will see they have an opportunity to vote."

His telephone number is 386-6384.

Cast Vote for NDP Not Sinking Grits

VANCOUVER (CP) — Conservative leader Stanfield assured a news conference Wednesday that his candidates are campaigning for their own party in the federal election.

He made the statement in reply to a question about an appeal by David Kilgour, Conservative Candidate in Vancouver Centre, to voters to back the New Democratic Party if they don't vote Conservative June 25.

"We're campaigning for support for ourselves," Mr. Stanfield said. "Anybody who can't support us" would vote for some other party of his own choice.

Mr. Kilgour appeared with Mr. Stanfield at an open-air rally in Alexandra Park on English Bay, where about 350 persons responded to an invitation to "communicate with Stanfield."

Mr. Stanfield urged them to support Mr. Kilgour. The Conservative party needed men like him in Ottawa to build a better Canada — "no Utopia, no perfect Canada, but a place that's our own and like no other on earth."

On the eve of Mr. Stanfield's arrival here, Mr. Kilgour said "the Liberals are a sinking ship and they deserve to be sinking." Speaking at a meeting of all candidates in his riding, he urged voters to vote for NDP candidate Bill Deverell if they don't vote for him.

West Coast Tour Due Sunday

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau Sunday starts his last scheduled visit to British Columbia before the June 25 federal election.

Trudeau will campaign in Vancouver Centre, Vancouver Quadra, Burnaby - Seymour, Fraser Valley West and Victoria before jetting to Calgary Monday night.

Following a press conference Monday the prime minister will attend three outdoor public meetings before appearing on an early evening television show.

Another outdoor public meeting is scheduled for 8:10 p.m. at Victoria's Beacon Hill Park.

Trudeau leaves Victoria airport at 9:45 p.m. for Calgary.

Campaign Sidelights

Hockey Star Considers Political-Arena Offer

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP) — Hockey star Bobby Hull says he has been asked by Liberal officials to campaign for the party in eastern Ontario ridings.

The explosive left winger with Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League said Tuesday he has made no decision on the invitation extended by Napanee Liberals and Senator Richard Stanbury, party president. He said he's too busy on his farm near Belleville to think of anything else.

□

VANCOUVER (CP)—Conservative Leader Stanfield said Wednesday he would be "very happy" to see former prime minister John Diefenbaker join him at a Conservative election rally in the Saskatoon civic auditorium Friday night. Mr. Stanfield told a reporter he does not know, however, whether Diefenbaker will be there.

Hull

But Saskatoon Tories insisted the two would meet there—the first time the pair will have come together during the current election campaign.

□

REGINA, Sask. (UPI)—Canada is in no hurry to restore its severed diplomatic relations with the African state of Gabon, but neither is it opposed to such a move, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Wednesday.

□

EDMONTON (CP)—Transport Minister Paul Hellyer told an election campaign crowd Wednesday there has not been enough concentration on Canada's housing situation but there would be following the June 25 election, if he's re-elected.

Douglas Urges Funds for Housing

SASKATOON (CP) — Canada needs a federal investment board to channel savings into housing development where it is desperately needed, New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas said Wednesday.

The board could set social priorities for investment, Douglas told a news conference. If money was needed to meet the housing shortage, the board could ensure that cash was made available for this purpose rather than less important functions.

★ ★ ★

People tended to "scream that you're interfering with private companies" whenever this topic is mentioned, Douglas said.

But they should remember that banks, trust and insurance companies are only handling money that belongs to the people.

It was right that the people should tell these companies "we would prefer you to develop Canadian industry" rather than investing in a railway in Patagonia, Douglas said.

The federal board, in effect, would work out agreed ratios of investment for banks and insurance companies, requiring that they make a certain share of their funds available for the things Canadian people felt have priority.

This would have the effect of bringing interest rates down on housing, Douglas said.

The reason rates were so high was that there were too many other things competing with housing for investor attention. Any speculator would sooner put money out at 12 per cent for a new shopping plaza than provide it at 10 per cent for family housing.

An investment board would ensure that family housing got a fair share of the money available to the building market.

Douglas held the news conference just after his arrival here, his base of operations for the next two days in the campaign for the June 25 federal election.

He tours Saskatoon area ridings today before moving to Alberta Friday. During the weekend, he will be keeping an eye on political fences around his home riding of Burnaby-Seymour near Vancouver.

★ ★ ★

In Winnipeg, Prime Minister Trudeau's charge that the New Democratic Party is guilty of double-talk on the subject of national unity was bounced back to him by Douglas.

"Every party is for national unity," said Douglas before reporters began asking questions. "The only people I know who are against national unity are the separatists and the Quebec Liberals."

"It is Mr. Trudeau who is talking out of both sides of his mouth," he said in obvious reference to the Windsor, Ont., speech in which Trudeau said the NDP has waffled on national unity and spread confusion with double-talk in the June 25 election.

★ ★ ★

He complained Trudeau is "beating the drum" for national unity without saying what he proposes to do that will make Canada strong and united.

Disunity is promoted by regional disparity which makes one region feel it is the "poor step-child" of Canada, but the greatest obstacle to a strong nation is Canada's obsolete constitution.

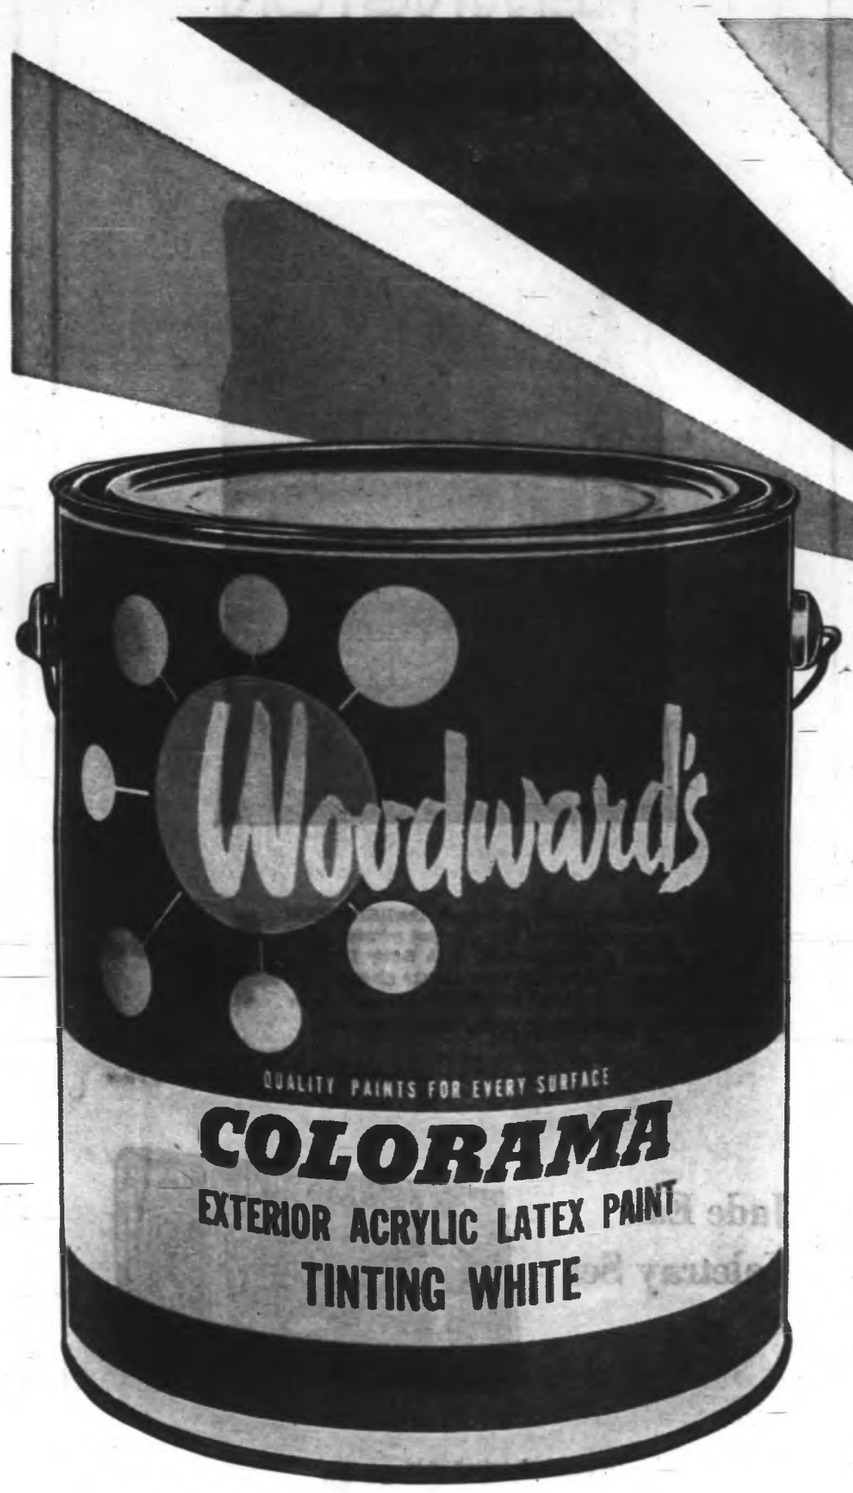

Creamettes MACARONI

Three Indian MPs Backed by Douglas

WINNIPEG (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national New Democratic Party leader, said Wednesday he favors a proposal that would provide Indian representation in the House of Commons.

He was commenting on a proposal to give Indians three guaranteed seats in Parliament. He told a news conference that Canadian Indians are so scattered they have little chance of electing one of their own people.

The NDP has always taken the position that the Indian Act should be overhauled, he said. A crown agency in which Indians would have representation should replace the federal government department.

Czech Cases Reviewed

Five Rehabilitated

PRAGUE (AP) — A Prague court Wednesday rehabilitated five Czechoslovaks sentenced in 1952 as alleged spies and accomplices of Associated Press correspondent William N. Oatis who was imprisoned in Czechoslovakia from 1951 to 1953 on espionage charges.

In reviewing the complicity charges, the court ruled that the five had not betrayed any state secrets and that their testimonies in court had been "distorted" through illegal investigation methods.

The announcement published by the news agency CTK gave no indication whether the case of Oatis and scores of other Czechoslovak co-defendants tried after him would be reviewed.

NORMAL QUERIES

Oatis was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment in July, 1951 as an "American spy," although his trial records showed that as The Associated Press bureau chief in Prague he sought only information which in any Western country would be legitimate for a reporter to obtain and report. He served two years of the sentence before he was released in May, 1953. He now is an Associated Press correspondent at the United Nations in New York.

The Oatis trial came at the height of Stalinist terror in Czechoslovakia, marked by show trials against Communists and non-Communists whose cases are currently under re-investigation as part of the new regime's liberalization drive.

The group rehabilitated included Jiri Mucha, a writer; Jindrich Kratochvil; Karel Loula, a lawyer; Mrs. Vlasta Pankova, a former editor, and Jan Stransky, a former translator.

Sheep's Heart Tried But Transplant Fails

HOUSTON, Tex. (Reuters)—Surgeons at St. Luke's Episcopal hospital Wednesday night grafted a sheep's heart into a man's body, but the patient died soon afterward.

Hospital administrator Newell Paris said the sheep graft was intended to keep the 47-year-old patient alive until a human heart was available for transplanting.

Humanists

Doctors Given Journal

The Victoria Humanist Fellowship has mailed to each of the 230 doctors in this area an issue of a journal which discusses the Chinese mission of Dr. Norman Bethune, the Canadian atheist.

Dr. Bethune, who died in November, 1939, is called one of Mao Tse-tung's philosophical models.

While most of the earlier contributors to the Humanist in Canada were from the Victoria area, the latest issue includes material from as far afield as Montreal — Dr. Henry Morgentaler's tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King.

"It is well to remember that not all atheists are Dr. Bethunes any more than all Christians are Dr. Kings," says the introduction to the articles.

W. A. Scott, Victoria's "lighthouse philosopher," who recently returned from a visit to China has written an analysis of an article by Dr. Bethune.

"Mao understood through practical experience the outpouring of Dr. Bethune's soul, as the doctor practised selfless humanism on desperately wounded Chinese and Japanese soldiers," writes Mr. Scott, who lived in China for 22 years.

"This humanism so inspired Mao that he made Dr. Bethune into a national hero in the eyes of 700,000,000 Chinese."

A spokesman for the Humanists said the issue of the journal was being sent to doctors because they had long regarded members of the medical profession as outstanding, practical humanists.

Recipe of the Week

Barbecued Beef Short Ribs

4 large beef short ribs
1 tablesp. bottled sauce for gravy
2 tablesp. salad oil
1 minced garlic clove
½ cup minced onions
½ cup minced celery
2 tablesp. cornstarch
1—8-oz. can tomato sauce
½ cup water
1 teasp. salt
⅛ teasp. pepper
⅛ teasp. allspice
1 tablesp. prepared mustard
1 tablesp. vinegar
2 teasp. sugar
1—8-oz. pkt. medium noodles

Rub ribs well with bottled sauce for gravy. In hot fat in Dutch oven, brown ribs well—15 to 20 minutes. Add garlic, onions, celery. Stir in cornstarch, tomato sauce, water, salt, pepper, allspice, mustard, vinegar and sugar. Simmer, covered, turning occasionally, 1½ to 2 hours, or until ribs are tender. Cook noodles as label directs; drain. Serve ribs, sliced on noodles. Serve gravy separately.

Old Recipes Brought Alive

By TRUDY KEMP

When she was just a little girl Helen Hunt, chef at Bud French's Indian Potlatch on Chatham Street, learned to smoke and barbecue salmon the way her ancestors did for centuries past.

Helen, who is the wife of Henry Hunt, chief carver at Thunderbird Park, and the adopted daughter of the late Chief Mungo Martin, famed totem carver, brings a wealth of original ideas to restaurant's menu featuring native Indian dishes.

★ ★ ★

Her recipe for her delectable clam chowder is a trade secret but she did describe briefly how she makes her tasty clam fritters using minced clams, onions, flour and baking powder.

"Later, when we are more organized here I am going to try and make squaw bread, (bannock)," she said.

"It is a flat bread which is now usually cooked on a large flat pan or in smaller portions in a frying pan and without cooking fat."

★ ★ ★

She explained that Indian women of days gone by used to cook this favorite food on a large flat stone which was put on a slant facing an open fire. The bread was cooked on one side and then turned to finish cooking the other side.

Another specialty at the popular new restaurant is clam sticks.

Helen pointed out that these are not the same as what her people refer to as clam sticks.

She explained that their way was to braid the bodies of the clams on three cedar sticks and when the sticks are filled up with the braided clams they are barbecued over an open fire until they are "nice and brown."

The chef said she would like to do some this way for the Potlatch but it would be necessary to have all large clams first.

Helen recalls that when she was young, and even when her own children were little, chewing gum was not allowed.

Instead the children used to chew the little button-like muscles from the clams which were prepared for clam sticks. The muscles were dried and stored in cedar baskets thus retaining their flavor throughout the winter.

"This was our chewing gum," she said.

Dried seaweed used to be counted as one of the main course dishes among Indian families. Now it is used more as a garnish on such foods as barbecued salmon or in clam chowder.

Helen pointed out that her people use oolican grease when preparing a seaweed dish and also dip barbecued salmon in this grease.

★ ★ ★

"Seaweed has to be picked at a certain time and when cooking it must never be boiled as this makes it hard," she said.

Although Helen Hunt had never cooked in a restaurant before joining the staff of the Indian Potlatch when it opened last August she was well versed in cooking for large gatherings.

During the years she has worked with other Indian women preparing food for some of their big feast days and celebrations. She also helped smoke and barbecue salmon at church organizations' affairs at Alert Bay.

Her first experience at smoking salmon goes back to when she was quite a young child, Mungo Martin and his wife used to go regularly to Port Hardy and stay near the river for a month or six weeks and smoke salmon.

Helen said she will never forget the first time she had to barbecue salmon on her own. It was shortly after her marriage. Husband Henry had caught quite a number of salmon one day and his young bride was determined to barbecue them all at once.

★ ★ ★

That was the day her father decided to pay a surprise visit.

"I had about 15 salmon set up around the big open fire when Mungo arrived. He stood there looking first at my work and then at me and all the time with a big grin on his face," she recalled.

"When I asked him what was wrong, he said, 'Oh, nothing, only you have them all upside down!"

She laughingly remembers that Mungo still enjoyed the feast of "upside down" barbecued salmon when he was their dinner guest next day.

The proprietor's wife, Inge French, helps Helen prepare the daily menus at the Potlatch. Her specialty is salad making.

★ ★ ★

The unique feature of the restaurant, which is believed to be the only one of its kind in Canada specializing in Indian dishes, is its architecture. The exterior is the shell of an old lumber shed but on the inside is a realistic replica of a traditional long house.

On the cedar board walls are large Indian designs done by Helen's son, Tony Hunt who learned his skill in Indian craft at an early age from his famed grandfather.

Women Hit Hard

MONTREAL (CP)—A feminist blacklash struck the royal commission inquiring into the status of women Tuesday, and the mostly female audience applauded agreement as they were told they were lazy, uneducated, fearful of criticism and had an archaic concept of themselves.

★ ★ ★

Helen Gougeon Schull, a food editor for a Canadian weekly magazine and wife of playwright Joseph Schull, told the commission the grandchildren of the feminist pioneers "chose to ignore the open doors and to retreat instead to her cave which she proceeded to line with wall-to-wall children."

★ ★ ★

"Swaddled in mink, she complains of discrimination," Mrs. Schull said. "A sheltered lifetime as society's spoiled darling has not prepared her for the rigors of the world."

Mrs. Schull, dressed in a green tweed outfit, brought wry smiles to the faces of the commissioners when she complained that "women themselves are a stumbling block to their own equality."

★ ★ ★

"They have been and still are inhibited by laziness, lack of education, fear of community criticism and an archaic concept of the female role."

"The hand that rocks the cradle must also rock the boat," she advised mothers who allow their children to see only their own narrow horizons.

DESIGNERS MESSAGE: The wig stylists get so many complaints about falling hair from hair pieces they've asked us to report that most of the problem is from the heavy washing manner. Since wigs and wiglets do not collect the natural head oils, they need only a gentle washing . . . best to just soak them in water and shampoo for more than an hour and then "stroke" them down from the base, continue this for several minutes (always in the same direction) then rinse and set. This will do much for the life of your wig or wiglet. Paris, London '68.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: May I respond to "Single And Glad Of It"? She wrote as follows: "Show me a man, either single or married; sick, well or dying, who would turn down sex and I will happily eat the Sunday edition of her newspaper."

●

I would like to say, "Start nibbling, dear heart." I married a man who has the sex drive of a dead battery. My sisters drew the same kind.

You suggest that these "disinterested" males go to a doctor and find out what is wrong. A fine suggestion, but what if they won't go? Furthermore I am 99 per cent certain that the problem is not physical but mental. My "dead battery" is healthy as a horse. I can't recall the last time he had a headache.

What about this, Ann Landers? Am I right or wrong?—BABY IT'S COLD IN THE HOUSE

Dear Baby: You are probably right. The vast majority of "disinterested" men have no organic problem. But it's always advisable to go to a physician and make sure.

When no organic problem is present a husband should accept the fact that he has an emotional problem. He owes it to his wife as well as to himself to see a therapist and get rid of the hornet in his helmet.

Big Problem

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-age girl with a problem as big as the world.

My mother told me when I was a little girl that she had been married for a short time (when she was very young) to a man who didn't treat her right. She divorced him and married my father.

Yesterday I was going through my father's desk drawers to find an insurance policy he asked my to get for him. I ran across TWO sets of divorce papers. It seems that my father was also divorced. His first wife's name was one I had never heard of before. This divorce took place the same week my mother got her divorce.

I want to ask my mother about it but I don't know how. Do you feel I have a right to know or should I just keep quiet and hope one day she will tell me?—CONFUSED AND BITTER

Dear Confused: Children are entitled to know about the previous marriages of their parents. Don't ask your mother — ask your father.

I've said it before and I think it bears repeating. Skeletons, when they fall out of a closet, make some rather embarrassing sounds. Are you listening, folks?

Always Dirty

Dear Ann Landers: I'll come right to the point. I am dating a very interesting girl. Susan is brainy, witty and we have a terrific time together — just talking. Her conversation crackles and snaps and pops. But there is a problem. Her neck is always dirty. This is not a gag. I'm dead serious. What's your advice?—BIG ERN

Dear Ern: Silence can be effective. On Calvin Coolidge it looked good. But in a situation such as this, it's dumb to keep quiet. Tell Susan her jewelry appears to be discoloring her neck and you hope she'll scrib a little harder. If she's as bright as you say, she'll clean herself up.

Consumer Described as Lazy

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian consumer has been described as lazy, a lover of the good life with a need for variety and the opportunity to take a chance.

Mrs. H. H. Lancaster, president of the Niagara district of the Consumers Association of Canada, told the annual meeting of the Retail Council of Canada that advertising does little to inform of new and improved products and services.

★ ★ ★

In many ways, she said, the consumer is not prepared for the many innovations in today's marketplace.

"Consumers are looking for more informative advertising, for they themselves are becoming more informed."

"Full-page advertisements of glamorous guys and dolls in the latest line of fashion indicate little about the fibre content of the garments or how they will stand up to wear and cleaning.

"This sort of thing really appeals to the pleasures of life, but does little to inform."

The retailers sat silently as Mrs. Lancaster attacked what she described as superlatives in the advertising field which have produced a breed of skeptics.

Statements such as:

● Buy now and save: "How can you spend and save?"

● Better performance: "Better than what?"

● Unconditionally guaranteed: "Guaranteed against what misfortunes?"

● Easy terms: "No terms are easy."

Prof. R. E. Olley of the University of Saskatchewan and the research director of the Prairie Provinces Cost Study Commission described the retailer as "a fancied-up warehouseman without any critical evaluation of the product he sells or of his customers' needs."

★ ★ ★

He based his claim on thousands of consumer complaints he had heard or read.

Until retailers realize they are selling service, not products, they are unlikely to meet the consumer's needs effectively, said Prof. Olley.

In reply, John Nestor, manager of research for Dominion Stores Ltd., said the average supermarket stocks 8,000 different items and it would be difficult to train each employee in each store about each product.

★ ★ ★

"Forty years ago, when a food store carried 500 items, this kind of personal confrontation with the customer was possible."

Doctor Withdraws Delinquent Cover

TORONTO (CP) — Delinquents and people who withdraw from society know what they are doing and why, says Dr. William Glasser, a Los Angeles psychiatrist.

He says they should be responsible for their own behavior and not be encouraged to hide behind such terms as mental illness and emotional disturbance.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Glasser believes most anti-social behavior is the result of a desperate need for identity, for love and a feeling of being worthwhile.

He says delinquents will admit their behavior is the result of their own bad choices of possible acts and adds that they can be encouraged to make their own improved choice of goals and, with effort, reach them.

He described his system of reality-therapy for 600 social workers at a day-long seminar.

It was sponsored by the Catholic Children's Aid Society of Metropolitan Toronto and the provincial child welfare branch.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Glasser said for the system to work, social workers must get rid of their fear of getting involved with clients and prove to the clients that someone really cares.

They must allow no excuses for poor behavior, deal with present problems rather than the past, and threaten no punishment.

Dr. Glasser said the schools can no longer shirk their responsibility for adding to the problems of their students.

Even children from poor family and social backgrounds enter school eager to learn and the school system kills that eagerness by the time they are in second grade, he said.

Moon in U.S. Sights

By MARVIN MILES
Los Angeles Times

America's stretch run for the moon, starting in September with the first manned Apollo flight, conceivably could seere the long-awaited astronaut landing before mid-1969, space agency officials indicate.

Although they feel such early success is unlikely because of the massive job ahead, they still say the first landing possibility could be either the second or third Apollo mission next year.

Should the plan to launch manned Apollo flights every 10 weeks hold to schedule, then the historic moon mission could be flown a year from now, in the spring of 1969, if:

Each mission, starting with the September flight, accomplishes its objectives without serious problems.

And if the National Aeronautics and Space Adminstration is confident the build-up flights have proved that astronauts and their equipment can accomplish the epic feat.

Considering the myriad complexities of the program, the many vital systems that must be qualified, the problems still to be solved and the unforeseen problems that could develop, the chance for an unbroken string of complete orbital successes seems remote, however.

LUNAR HOPES

Thus, while the lunar landing could come on the second flight next year — following two manned missions late this year — most NASA officials feel it will not be attempted until the third or fourth flight in 1969.

And it may not be scheduled until after an Apollo crew has flown around the moon and back on a non-stop circumlunar mission. This is a possibility early next year, NASA reports, but only as a contingency if the flight is required technologically.

Under a new plan, Apollo missions now are designated by letter from A to G, the latter being the projected lunar landing.

TWO COMPLETED

Missions A and B, both unmanned tests, have been completed. Mission A marked the first flight of the Saturn 5 launch rocket (with Apollo) last November and Mission B designates the first orbital test of the lunar module last January.

The second Saturn 5 test in April has no designation, being listed as a failure because of engine malfunctions, although it was adjudged sufficiently successful to qualify Saturn 5 for astronaut flight without a third unmanned test of the big booster.

The first Apollo manned flights, missions C and D, are scheduled late this year.

MERCURY VET

Mission C, hopefully in September, will be flown by Mercury and Gemini veteran Walter Schirra, 45, commander, with space newcomers Walter Cunningham, 36, and Donn Eisele, 37.

A 10-day mission launched by a Saturn 1B rocket, this will be basically a shakedown flight to evaluate Apollo's systems — a test that was to have been flown early last year until a launch-pad fire took the lives of the first assigned Apollo crew.

Astronauts Virgil (Gus) Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee died in the disaster that staggered the U.S. space program.

SAFETY FACTOR

Since the tragedy, the spacecraft has been modified extensively to increase its safety.

In addition to the extensive checkout of Apollo systems planned for the September flight, the crew will manoevre the spacecraft about 150 miles away from the top stage of their Saturn 1B booster rocket, then rendezvous with it on the second day of the mission.

This will exercise Apollo's propulsion system and permit simulation of an emergency rendezvous that might be necessary on a flight if a two-man landing craft fails to fly high enough to leave the moon to link up with the orbiting Apollo command ship.

Mission D, expected late in November if the first manned Apollo flight is on time and successful, will be flown by astronauts James McDivitt, 38; David Scott, 36, and Russell Schweickart, 32. McDivitt and Scott are Gemini veterans. Schweickart is a rookie.

They will be the first Apollo crewmen launched by the massive Saturn 5 moon rocket and their 10-day mission will be far more complicated than the September test, involving the Lunar Landing Module and the first space walk since the last Gemini (12) flight in November, 1966

If the first two manned Apollo flights are successful and there are no major delays, Mission E should fly in February, the first operation next year, with astronauts Frank Borman, 40; Michael Collins, 37, and William Anders, 34.

Rockefeller Blitzes Nixon

McCarthy Begins Overtures

From UPI, AP

Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Governor Nelson Rockefeller made significant moves Wednesday in the U.S. presidential campaign.

McCarthy, in his first political appearance since the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy, said he has begun overtures to Democratic Kennedy supporters.

McCarthy said he didn't think Vice-President Hubert Humphrey had the nomination in the bag.

The Minnesota Democrat said in Washington he'll resume his campaign in New York today.

Despite Kennedy's death, "the issues remain essentially the same," McCarthy said. "We must now persuade the party office holders to respond."

Rockefeller began his blitz-Nixon campaign in earnest, placing full-page advertisements in 40 daily newspapers in 35 cities across the U.S. He said they were just the first of a series

The candidate for the Republican nomination said if he became president he would call a summit meeting of Western heads to create "a true Atlantic partnership."

Rockefeller, currently trailing Nixon in delegate support, called for closer U.S. co-operation with Western Europe, including giving the supreme command of NATO to a European instead of an American. He also proposed more trade and scientific and cultural exchanges with the Soviet Union.

Drug-Case Trap Set

A 21-year-old woman testified in Central Magistrate's Court Wednesday she set a trap to catch Paul Durrell, who now faces a charge of trafficking in marijuana.

Durrell, 21, of 959 Maddison, has pleaded not guilty to the charge of trafficking in the drug May 1.

Mrs. Joan Livesey testified she met Durell in front of the Metropolitan store May 1 and asked him if he knew where there was any marijuana.

IN THAT DAY

"He said yes, that four 'lits' had come in from Vancouver that day," she said.

Mrs. Livesey said she asked if she could have one "lit" and Durrell agreed, saying it would cost her $15.

"He took me aside and asked me if there was anything else I wanted in the way of drugs, and suggested LSD," she said.

'MAKE IT TWO'

"He said one tab would be enough to make me high. I said go ahead and get me one. Then I said he better make it two."

She said that, about an hour later, Durrell came to the hotel where she was working and told her "the stuff was going fast and that there wasn't any weed in town.

"He said it was going to cost me $20 for a lit," Mrs. Livesey said.

MONEY GIVEN

She said she phoned Constable Gerald O'Neil of the RCMP and he gave her the $20. This she gave to Durrell that afternoon inside the Metropolitan and arranged to meet him that night at the Golden Kitchen on Fisgard.

She said she went to the restaurant and saw police approach a car and thought she saw Durrell run past the window.

To defence counsel Robert Price, Mrs. Livesey said: "I never liked him (Durrell). I don't like people who use drugs . . . I told lies for the purpose of trapping Durell."

NEVER USED IT

She said she had never used marijuana, but added she had told people she had taken it.

Constable O'Neil said he approached Durrell near the Golden Kitchen, identified himself and told him he wanted to search him. Durrell took several steps and then broke away.

Constable O'Neil chased him on Fisgard and, while crossing a parking lot, saw Durrell drop a package. He lost Durrell on Herald but located the package, which contained a green plant-like material.

Evidence was given that this was analyzed and found to be marijuana.

Mr. Price moved that the charge be dismissed because it was made void by duplicity, and Magistrate William Ostler reserved decision until June 24.

Douglas Carlson, 774 Market, was fined $50 for doing repair work on a house on Linden without obtaining a permit. He pleaded guilty.

Reds Aim Again At West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — East Germany, in a new move against West Berlin, has announced drastic new restrictions on travel of individuals and shipment of supplies by land and water to this isolated city.

The East Germans announced that henceforth West Berliners and West Germans would need visas for travel between Berlin and the West. They also said new taxes would be imposed on trucks and barges carrying supplies to West Berlin across East Germany.

Long House Short Life

VANCOUVER (CP) — A long house on the Capilano Indian Reserve, built as a British Columbia Centennial project in 1958, has been destroyed by fire. The authentic 100 by 50-foot building was erected by the Capilano Indian Club. It was used for Indian gatherings and community dances.

Arthur Newman of Seattle was remanded to today for sentence when he pleaded guilty to obtaining food by fraud. He was unable to pay for a $1.85 meal at Paul's, 1900 Douglas, early Wednesday morning.

□

Fined for careless driving: Barry Bojarski, 3686 McIvor, $50, licence suspended; Gunter Horyna, Youbou, $40; Russell Marshall, 2815 Shoreline, $35.

Koerner Grants

Annual grants from the Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation at UBC have been announced.

The grants, totalling $68,100, are awarded to promote activities which would not be possible without special assistance.

Vancouver Island grants received include the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, $300; Nanaimo and District Museum Society, $1,000; Pandora's Box Newsmagazine, $300, and Vancouver Island Regional Library, $150.

Marysville Festival

Canadian Chases U.S. Chess Ace

MARYSVILLE, Wash. (Special) — A U.S. grandmaster has a clear lead in the giant Strawberry open chess festival but a Canadian has worked his way up among the contenders.

With six rounds played in the nine-step tourney, grandmaster Larry Evans of Santa Monica, Calif., has an unblemished 6-0 score.

Canadian colors are carried by Toronto expert Bruce Amos, second with a 5-1 record. Tied with him are Arthur Spiller of Santa Monica; Clark Harmon and Rick Ganong, Portland; Dennis Fritzinger, San Francisco, and Jude Acers, Baton Rouge, La.

The tournament, which concludes this weekend, has 95 entries and is the largest ever held in the Pacific Northwest. The first prize is $600.

Halloween Reprieve For Rifle Pointer

A man who pointed a loaded rifle at a city constable was given a suspended sentence Tuesday in County Court by Judge Montague Tyrwitt-Drake.

★ ★ ★

Lloyd Grant of 779 Market was found guilty at a trial last week of possession of an offensive weapon. He was forbidden to handle any firearm until Oct. 31.

The charge arose from an incident where a city constable attended at Grant's home Feb. 24 and found Grant pointing a loaded semi-automatic rifle at him. Grant eventually dropped the rifle.

Days Grow Short For Scarred Liberian Tanker

The days may be numbered for the scarred and crippled oil tanker Mandoil II, as they were for 11 ill-fated members of her crew.

There were strong indications Wednesday that the Mandoil II will be junked, most likely in Japan.

She has remained under close watch in Vancouver Island's Nootka Sound since shortly after a collision and fire Feb. 28 that spelled death for 11 of the 43-member crew.

SHIP OWNERS

The ship's owners have announced in New York that the 25,300-ton vessel has been abandoned to the insurance underwriters.

Still burning and severely battered by storms, the Mandoil II was towed to Nootka March 9 by an Island Tug and Barge Ltd. vessel.

The 700-foot Liberian-registered tanker had collided with a Japanese freighter 250 miles off the Oregon coast.

WATCH KEPT

An Island Tug vessel has kept a continuous watch on the deserted ship since.

The tanker lost 500,000 of the 10,000,000 gallons of thin naphtha-base oil she was carrying. The complete oil cargo had been valued at $1,000,000.

The remaining oil was removed by May 8 and taken to Tacoma, in small tankers.

INSPECTION FIRST

While the ship is almost certain to be scrapped, an inspection will be made before a final decision is reached, according to the Vancouver office of Salvage Association of London.

IN JAPAN

If the ship is to be scrapped, the job will likely be done in Japan because scrap metal is in greater demand there, local shipyard officials said.

Two Admit Drug Charge

Daniel V. Headdy and Rolland L. Lock, both of Vancouver and both 20 years old, pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of possessing marijuana for purposes of trafficking.

In a hearing at the Victoria Law Courts, Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake reserved sentence until June 19 pending a pre-sentence report on the young men.

Constable D. H. Creally, who told the court he did much of the drug charge investigating for the Victoria branch of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said the men were picked up by uniformed Saanich officers at the White Spot drive-in.

The police officer said Headdy had in his possession 3½ ounces of green, plant-like substance which was later certified as marijuana.

Both admitted that they had recently bought a kilogram (about two pounds) of the drug in Seattle and were selling it here for $15 an ounce, the policeman testified.

He said Headdy was carrying $388 when apprehended and that the money belonged to both of them.

College Defeats Vernon Attempt

Purchasing Agents Elect Island Slate

The new officers of the Vancouver Island branch of the B.C. district of the Canadian Association of Purchasing Agents were installed Wednesday. They are Gerald Emery, president; William O'Brian, vice-president, and Stanley Wiseman, secretary-treasurer.

Hostages Released

FBI Arrests Convict's Girl

ATLANTA (UPI) — Four convicts ended a 27-hour siege at Atlanta's federal penitentiary Wednesday by freeing 20 hostages and tossing their weapons from a window after a local newspaper published their grievances.

Less than three hours after the convicts surrendered, FBI agents arrested the girlfriend of one of the convicts and charged her with smuggling weapons into the maximum security prison.

Arlene Granito, 25, of Newark, N.J., was accused of sneaking the two pistols, 50 rounds of ammunition for each of them, and four hacksaw blades into the prison Sunday, two days before the attempted break.

While waiting out the tense drama outside the prison, Miss Granito had identified herself to reporters as the "girlfriend" of Ralph Lepiscopo, 25, serving 20 years for bank robbery.

The other three who took part in the uprising were Ivan Daniel Neighbors, 25, serving 120 years for kidnapping and murder; Robert Gorman, serving 30 years for bank robbery, and Frederick Freeman Leister, 34, serving 15 years for bank robbery.

The five women and 16 men who had been held captive since an escape attempt failed at 8:30 a.m., Tuesday were released unharmed.

Prison authorities said the four convicts had been placed in "segregation," but refused to say whether this meant solitary confinement.

"Any crimes for which they can be indicted will be prosecuted," officials said.

Before dropping their weapons — a knife, two pistols and ammunition — into the prison yard, the convicts insisted on seeing a copy of the Atlanta Journal, which carried a list of their grievances under a copyright and the dual byline of David Nordan and William Williams. The convicts demanded to see Williams, a veteran reporter who specializes in prison stories, shortly after they took their hostages.

The grievances covered such items as the method of selecting parole officers, the "age old gripe" about food, the lack of news coverage behind the 50-foot walls of the bleak, massive prison, and charges that a "goon squad" beat troublesome prisoners.

Blackwell agreed to look into the food situation, and most of the other complaints, but he vehemently denied during the news conference that he had any knowledge of a "goon" squad."

Reporter Admits Fear Before Prison Mission

ATLANTA (UPI) — A veteran reporter who specializes in prison stories played a key role in bringing about the safe release Wednesday of 21 hostages held by four dangerous convicts at Atlanta's federal penitentiary.

"I'm scared," Atlanta Journal reporter William Williams, 38, admitted when he was ushered into the prison Tuesday to talk with the convicts, "but I have no choice."

BREAK OUT

The convicts, Frederick Leister, Ralph Lepiscopo, Ivan Neighbors and Robert Gorman attempted to break out of the penitentiary Tuesday after being smuggled two pistols. When their escape effort was foiled they seized hostages and holed up in an office in the administration building.

One of their first demands was that they be permitted to talk with Williams. Williams and another Journal reporter, David Nordan went to the prison and conferred with the convicts over an intercom system.

Williams described the Atlanta federal penitentiary as the place of confinement "for the toughest in the country. It took the place of Alcatraz."

KNEW ONE

Williams was personally acquainted with one of the convicts, Fred Leister, who was serving 15 years for bank robbery. He described Leister, as "very nice, a pleasant person."

Williams met Leister in 1967 when he covered a suit in federal court brought by Leister and other prisoners. The suite was aimed at gaining for prisoners the right to help each other in legal matters.

Williams said the prisoners probably asked for him "because I always aired their grievances."

In a copyright story in Wednesday's Journal, Williams and Nordan reported nine grievances submitted by the convicts, who released their hostages and surrendered when their demands were published.

SOCIAL WORKERS

The convicts demanded social workers for the penitentiary, better food and sanitary conditions in the prison dining room, news media tours of the penitentiary, assurances that they would not be prosecuted for seizing the hostages, no retaliation against other prisoners, publication of their grievances, transfer and visiting privileges for two of the convicts, and investigation of the case of another prisoner.

Priority Goal: Food

Poor Issue Basic List

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Poor People's marchers issued their first list of specific demands Wednesday and then started a round-the-clock vigil in the courtyard of the agriculture department to gain their top priority goal: food for hungry Americans.

The detailed outline of what the marchers hope to achieve was the first to be issued in the six weeks they have been in Washington. They said they wanted their demands met before they start thinking of quitting the capital.

About 350 marchers gathered in the courtyard of the agriculture department in support of their demand for a "truly adequate food program" in America's 1,000 neediest counties.

Demonstration leader Hosea Williams said 50 to 100 persons would be kept in the courtyard at all times until they achieve their goal.

★ ★ ★

Perspiring under a hot sun, Rev. Ralph Abernathy, leader of the campaign, read a statement to Joseph Robertson, assistant secretary of agriculture, after shaking hands all around.

"We know and the secretary of agriculture knows that the present food programs operated by the department are failing to reach thousands upon thousands of poor Americans," he said.

He said the department had the power "to close the gap between the starving and undernourished rural and urban poor and those American citizens who have no idea of what it is to see the swolen bellies and wasted limbs of children who go to bed hungry night after night."

★ ★ ★

Members of Congress, many of them sympathetic to the antipoverty goals of the marchers, had repeatedly sought an outline from march leaders of what they hoped to achieve from Congress and the government.

March leaders put priority in their seven-page statement on the establishment of food distribution programs in the country's 1,000 poorest counties on the basis of need rather than income.

They urged the declaration of a food emergency and direct distribution food centres in 256 counties designated as "hunger counties" in a recent report by an independent citizens' study group.

In effect acknowledging that the march had been squandering its energies, Mr. Abernathy said at a news briefing that hereafter the thrust of the campaign will be "to bring a great deal of system into the demonstrations."

More, Better Teachers Aim of Trustee Probe

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia School Trustees' Association has commissioned a $25,900 research study aimed at producing more and better teachers for the province.

The Educational Research Institute of B.C. Wednesday announced a grant of $20,900 to the project to be headed by Dr. Walter Hartrick, chairman of B.C.'s centre for study of administration in education.

BCSTA officials said the 14-month study by university investigators could trigger momentous changes in teacher recruiting, training and use in B.C.

Injury Big Time-Loser

Time lost through industrial accidents in British Columbia last year was more than three times that lost through strikes and lockouts.

* * *

The annual report of the Workmen's Compensation Board shows a loss through accidents of approximately 1,100,000 working days, down slightly from the previous year.

Injuries reported during the year totalled 93,659. Claim costs almost reached $31,500,000.

The time loss figure does not include workmen disabled for less than four days.

The forest products industry accounted for 26.3 per cent of the time lost. Next in line was construction at 21.6 per cent.

The 211 fatalities were five fewer than 1966.

Supply Firm Workers Nearing Strike Vote

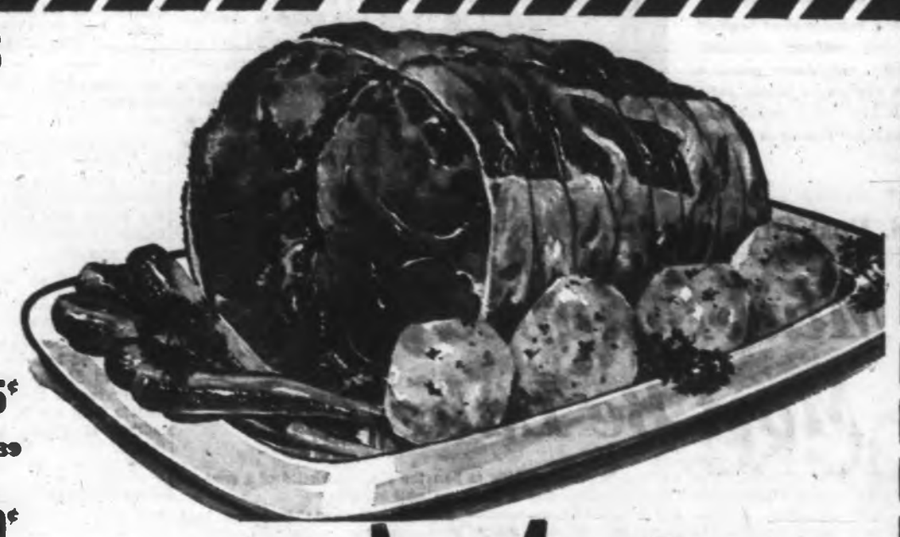

A union spokesman said Wednesday that a strike vote is expected within the next few days for 30 employees at Canadian Linen Supply Co., 841 View.

The employees, members of Local 580 of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union, made an official request May 28, for a government-supervised vote.

In addition to non-cost improvements, the employees are seeking pay hikes of 50 cents to $1.25 an hour. The union says the current wage rate is $1.37½ to $2.14.

New York Mayor Guarded

Lindsay

NEW YORK (AP) — Police anti-sniper teams armed with rifles are reported to have guraded Mayor John Lindsay during two recent outdoor ceremonies at city hall.

Police declined comment.

A few minutes after Lindsay left one outdoor ceremony Tuesday, patrolmen seized a youth carrying a paring knife in his belt. They quoted him as saying: "I want to see the mayor."

Who's Got the Lawyer?

Sirhan Reads, Others Argue

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sirhan Sirhan, awaiting trial on charges he assassinated Sen. Robert Kennedy, Wednesday pored over books on occultism in his heavily-guarded jail cell while outside controversy swirled over who would represent him in court.

Sirhan was reported to be spending much of his time reading books on occultism, the theory of mysterious powers which can be subject to human control.

The 24-year-old native of Jordan was scheduled to enter a plea June 28 in the courtroom of Superior Judge Arthur Alarcon to charges he killed Kennedy and tried to kill five other persons.

★ ★ ★

Sirhan told A. L. Wirin, attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, that he wanted two "big name" lawyers to defend him rather than public defender Wilbur Littlefield, whom the court appointed.

★ ★ ★

Wirin told newsmen Tuesday that "a number of attorneys" had agreed to serve without fee, but declined to name them. He also said Sirhan did not want the services of famed attorneys, Melvin Belli and F. Lee Bailey, neither of whom had volunteered.

★ ★ ★

The bearded ACLU attorney said Sirhan agreed to let the Los Angeles County Bar Association select his attorney, but the bar association said it had not agreed to do so and indicated it would not do so unless requested by the court.

★ ★ ★

Wirin also said Sirhan had asked him to serve as his lawyer. But the attorney said the ACLU's interest in the case was only to see that Sirhan's constitutional right to counsel was upheld.

U.S. Post Office Order:

Mail-Shipped Guns Must Be Labelled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. post office Wednesday ruled that all guns shipped parcel post must be labelled "firearms" and that they would not be delivered until the addressee's police chief was notified.

Postmaster-General Marvin Watson issued the directive as the Senate received bills to ban all mail order sales of shotguns and rifles and to register all guns and license every gun owner in the United States.

Harold Glassen, president of the 1,000,000-member National Rifle Association, said that as a lawyer he considered Watson's order unconstitutional.

He also said the bills to register guns and license owners corroborated the NRA's long-held belief that proponents of tight gun controls seek to ultimately confiscate all privately owned firearms.

PRESS CLUB

Watson, speaking to the national press club, said effective immediately "firearms shipped through the mails must be clearly labelled with the word: 'Firearms.' If the shipment is not so labelled, it will not be accepted in the mails."

A post office department spokesman pointed out, however, the government had no enforcement powers and if a mailer did not label the package there was nothing the department could do about it.

POLICE CHIEF

Watson also "ordered that all postmasters shall not make delivery of any firearm without first notifying the chief law enforcement official of the community that delivery of a firearm is to be made."

Present law prohibits pistols and revolvers from being shipped through the mails — they must be shipped via express — and a bill now awaiting the president's signature would prevent all mail order hand guns sales.

OTHER GUNS

Watson also ruled "sawed-off rifles and shotguns" as non-rifles and shotguns" as non-mailable. He said a long gun must be at least 26 inches in over-all length to be accepted by parcel post, and also ruled out any weapon "that retains the characteristics of a concealable weapon."

Glassen said that "no such authority exists" permitting Watson to withhold delivery until police were notified. He said most states have no laws regarding sales of rifles and shotguns, and would thus be powerless to act even if they considered the recipient unqualified for gun ownership.

By the end of the day, the administration's bill to ban mail order sales of long guns had 27 co-sponsors in the Senate, including several who voted against such controls last month.

Wallace Scorns Gun Bill

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace, criticizing the U.S. Supreme Court and proposed gun control legislation, said Wednesday crime should be stopped "by putting people in jail."

The former Alabama governor said he opposes new gun controls on grounds there are already ample laws in this area and that persons who will violate the laws would not obey new statutes.

"I'll tell you what's brought on more crime than guns—it's the Supreme Court of the United States," Wallace said.

PUBLIC OPINION

The blame, he said, lies with "those in high places" who have not taken a tough approach to crime.

Wallace said the Supreme Court has been subject to public opinion and has tied the hands of law enforcement agencies with decisions in recent years.

One step he would take if elected president in November, he said, would be to seek U.S. congressional action nullifying some of the court decisions restricting police functions.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
Barbara Brent

MONTREAL, June 13th — This year, we're thinking big in our holiday planning. Instead of the same old nearby places, we're thinking of Europe or the Far East. Why don't you do the same? With help from THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA, you can make those faraway dreams a reality right now. Just ask for a low-cost, life-insured Scotia Plan Loan. (If you're dependable, with a steady income, it's yours.) Then arrange payments to suit your budget — taking three years to repay if necessary. Why not talk to the friendly people at The Bank of Nova Scotia — now?

WHEN IS SALT MORE THAN SALT? When it's a household cleaner, an ironing aid, a gargle . . . in short, when it's WINDSOR SALT, the crystal-pure salt with so many uses around the home! I use it to clean my deep flower vases, and to keep sink drains free of grease. Mixed with salad oil, it does a great job of removing rings from furniture. Used dry, it frees my iron of rough spots in a flash! And, of course, everyone knows what a great mouth-wash-gargle it makes. Why not keep a good supply of Windsor Salt around your house? P.S. Lest we forget — it does great things for your cooking, too.

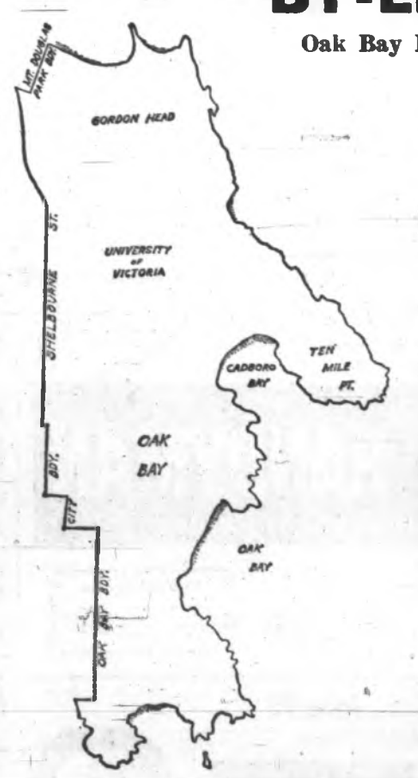

EVERY WOMAN KNOWS that beauty is more than skin deep. It's a matter of confidence — a priceless feeling of poise. And every woman can discover the beginning of this deep and lasting beauty with DEMURE — a mint-fresh liquid douche, gently medicated to relieve irritation and help destroy odour-causing bacteria. And most important, Demure is dainty, feminine. You'll love it! Another thing you'll be pleased about — the Demure people have just published an informative little booklet called "Feminine Hygiene", with answers to all your questions on douching. It's yours — free — when you purchase Demure at your favourite drugstore.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS ACT

BY-ELECTION

Oak Bay Electoral District

NOTICE TO ELECTORS

A WRIT for a By-election has been issued to elect a Member to fill a vacancy in the Legislative Assembly for the Oak Bay Electoral District.

Polling Day will be Monday, July 15, 1968.

THE VOTERS LIST WILL CLOSE ON TUESDAY, June 18, 1968.

Only those persons may vote who are registered as Provincial voters in, and are residents of, the Oak Bay Electoral District as of Polling Day, July 15, 1968.

For the convenience of those eligible persons who were not on the Oak Bay Voters List, a door-to-door enumeration has been carried out in the past two weeks. If your registration was confirmed by the enumerator at that time or a new application taken, your name will be included on the Oak Bay Voters List. If you were missed in this canvass you may apply for registration at the address below: This must be done before closing day, June 18, 1968.

Qualifications for registration are:

1. Nineteen years of age or older on or before July 15, 1968.
2. Canadian citizen or British subject by birth or naturalization.
3. Resident of Canada for past 12 months.
4. Resident of British Columbia for past 6 months.

The area concerned with these proceedings is as shown on the map published with this notice, being: all of Oak Bay Municipality and those parts of Saanich Municipality to the east of Shelbourne St. and south of Mt. Douglas Park. This includes Gordon Head, Ten Mile Point and Cadboro Bay.

Nuclear Test Foiled By Lowly Yak

TORONTO (CP) — Forensic radiation specialists have met their match in the Asian yak.

The tale of how the yak beat the experts was told Wednesday by Dr. S. S. Krishnan of the Ontario government's centre of Forensic Sciences, the world's first institution to apply nuclear radiation analysis to crime detection.

Dr. Krishnan, 30, said the laboratory was called in by a department store-chain which suspected it was being sold women's wigs labelled as human hair that were really yak hair.

"We couldn't find any appreciable differences between the human and yak hair," Dr. Krishnan reported.

"I don't know why any man would complain," he added. "They look the same and yak-hair wigs are cheaper."

Dr. Krishnan was among several speakers reporting to the Canadian Nuclear Association and the American Nuclear Society on the 10-year-old science of forensic activation analysis.

By taking minute samples of materials from the scene of a crime radioactive in a nuclear reactor, the forensic activation analysts can determine the basic elements in them by the amount of gamma radiation they give off. Each element gives off different amounts of gamma rays and at different rates.

The kind of crime this system helps solve was illustrated by Dr. Krishnan who told of a Vancouver poisoning case in which a woman ill in hospital died with symptoms of arsenic poisoning.

Visits, Trace Linked

Her previously-estranged husband had visited her periodically in hospital, bringing cake with him.

Radiation analysis showed that arsenic traces deposited in her hair as it grew coincided with the weekly visits of her husband—who was convicted of killing her with arsenic-impregnated cakes.

About 5,000 cases from all over the world are referred yearly to the centre here.

There have been 31 cases in the last two years in which the technique has been used in Canadian crime investigations. Six times the experts have gone into court to testify and had their evidence accepted without question.

Dr. Vincent P. Guinn, manager of Gulf General Atomic Inc., the major U.S. lab for crime detection by radiation, said the technique has an attractive potential in the field of pollution detection.

"We feel a lot of people die because of chronic lead poisoning who are never diagnosed as chronic lead poisoning deaths at all," he said in an interview.

Chronic lead poisoning symptoms are common-headaches, dizziness and general weakness.

"When you consider that in the States we dump 200,000 tons of lead into the air every year from auto exhausts alone and that the lead remains suspended in the air and is breathed into the lungs, we think it would be a good idea to examine this pollution problem."

He said examination of lung, liver and kidney tissue by radiation activation analysis may give some clues to the extent of lead deposit in these vital organs and its effect on death rates.

Douglas to University

McKenzie Extension Goal

A $530,000 program for McKenzie Avenue which will see a good quality, two-lane road from Douglas Street to the University campus in 1969 will be recommended to Saanich council by the municipal public works committee.

The road will include a four-lane section on Ruby road, municipal engineer Neville Life told the committee Tuesday night.

He said that to ensure completion of McKenzie Avenue within the planned five-year period, the program for 1969 should include:

- Ruby Road widening and reconstruction of Gordon Head Road intersection on local improvement initiation at a cost of $275,000.
- Construction of 24-foot pavement between Douglas and the B.C. Telephone building, to cost $240,000.
- Construction of a link from Ruby Road at Finnerty to Sinclair, at a cost of $25,000.

It was estimated that the provincial government could be asked to pay $200,000 to $250,000 of the total.

Mayor Hugh Curtis is to be asked to negotiate with Oak Bay on reconstruction of Gordon Head Road between Ruby and Cedar Hill Cross Road, which forms the boundary between the two municipalities.

Ald. Foster Isherwood warned that in his opinion, the mood of Oak Bay council was to dump all construction of the boundary road upon Saanich.

It was also decided to recommend that the entire stretch of road from Douglas to the university should be named McKenzie Avenue.

The committee will recommend road widening on Ardersier to improve the industrial zone south of Boleskine.

Mr. Life told the committee that the lands and planning committee would be asked to consider extending the industrial zone to Whittier, with provision for a 30-foot landscaping zone fronting on Whittier, for screening.

There will be road improvemets on Shelbourne and North Dairy to tie in with the new Simpsons-Sears store in the area, the committee was told.

★ ★ ★

The company will pay for turning lanes on Shelbourne and widening of North Dairy.

The committee decided to recommend widening of Lansdowne Road at the city boundary.

Mail Talks Await Chairman's Name

OTTAWA (CP) — Mediation efforts to avert a nationwide summer postal strike continued Wednesday but the expected appointment of a chairman to head a conciliation board in the dispute did not occur.

Negotiators for the 24,000-member Council of Postal Unions, who are authorized to call a strike if a satisfactory contract is not forthcoming, and representatives of the treasury board spent the day in talks with Judge Rene Lippe.

The Quebec Provincial Court Judge was appointed May 24 as a mediator in the dispute by Jacob Finkelman, chairman of the public service staff relations board.

Finkelman was expected to announce appointment of a conciliation board chairman Wednesday, but sources close to the situation said the appointment was delayed. They said it remains imminent.

Earlier, the council nominated Ben Coffey of the Civil Service Association of Ontario as its representative on the conciliation board, and the treasury board nominated CPR Vice-President Keith Campbell.

Passmore Challenges Claim by Frampton

Acting Saanich mayor Leslie Passmore has challenged Victoria Ald. Percy Frampton's statement that he "can't recall Saanich ever giving anything away."

Ald. Passmore said, "We are investing ratepayers' money in park property for the benefit of all, including the city."

He mentioned specifically the McRae estate, which adjoins the city boundary and cost Saanich $1,250,000.

He also pointed out Saanich has agreed to spend at least $35,000 a year for 10 years on maintenance work at the regionally-owned Elk-Beaver Lake Park.

Ald. Frampton made his statement in objecting to the city handing over property to the capital region district board.

Talent Show Final Snack On Buccaneer Day Menu

An evening variety show featuring local talent will be the highlight of a tightly scheduled Buccaneer Day in Esquimalt Saturday.

The day's events will begin with a 7 a.m. pancake breakfast at the sports centre.

An hour-long parade will leave Dominion Road at Esquimalt Road at 10:30 a.m. It will proceed along Esquimalt to Admirals, then down Lyall, dispersing at Bullen Park.

There will be a Child Buccaneer contest at noon on the sports centre stage, and prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

Trophies for parade winners will be presented after the costume judging.

At 1:30 p.m. races for all ages will begin in Bullen Park. Events range from a crawling contest for three- and four-year-olds to a shoe kick open.

For the older participants, the Silver Threads Association will be sponsoring an Old Buccaneers' Tea in Jubilee Hall at 2 p.m.

A minor lacrosse tournament involving 14 teams will take place in the sports centre between 3 and 7 p.m.

Between 4 and 7 p.m. there will be a salmon barbecue in Bullen Park.

The Wagon Wheel Roundup variety show will take place on the sports centre stage between 7 and 8:45 p.m.

At 9 p.m., Rainbow Sea Cadets will present a sunset ceremony.

The day's events will end with two dances at 9:15 p.m. There will be a teen dance at Jubilee Hall and an adult dance at the curling rink.

Esquimalt police have requested that cars not be parked along the route of the parade from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Roads affected are Dominion from Esquimalt to Wilson, Old Esquimalt from Dominion to Head, Viewfield from Dominion to Alderberry, and Esquimalt from Dominion to Admirals.

ABOU TV

with Bruce Lowther

CBS president Frank Stanton announced this week that the network has begun "individual conferences with producers and writers to discuss specific measures to de-emphasize violence in programs now in production."

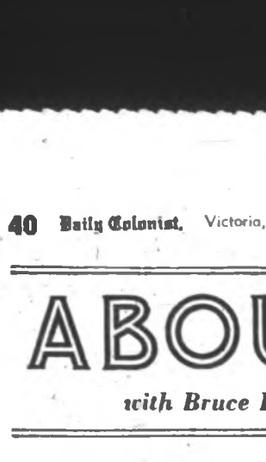

He said "the integrity of the creative process will be fully respected" and warned a long time will be needed to determine if there really is a link between fictional violence and such things as the Kennedy assassination.

NBC says it will continue its policy against violence for its own sake. The producers of Get Smart are removing all scenes of violence from next season's scripts. KING Seattle substituted the fine movie Member of the Wedding for a western last Sunday. CBS has changed its movie tonight to a Peter Sellers comedy from a violent war film.

All this follows not only Kennedy's death but also the establishment of President Johnson's commission to probe U.S. violence. One of the questions he suggested for its one-year study was, in effect, "Are the seeds of violence nurtured by the mass media?"

Anyone want to bet against non-violent reruns on any of the networks? Against a western on KING next week? And as for Get Smart, what "violence" does it have? My money is on no change.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Wednesday's wry answer—Modern-day composers who wrote movie music include Leonard Bernstein, On the Town and On the Waterfront; Aaron Copland, Our Town and Red Pony; William Walton, Henry V, Hamlet and Richard III, and Ralph Vaughan Williams, Scott of the Antarctic. And then there's Henry Mancini.

Today's question—More classical music, except this time it's turned into pop songs. What music became Stranger in Paradise, Tonight We Love, The Lamp Is Low, Moon Love, Full Moon and Empty Arms, and I'm Always Chasing Rainbows. Answers Friday.

Thursday Highlights

PROGRAM CHANGES of a minor nature include the return of Anthology at 4:30 p.m. on Channel 8, the return of Mr. Roberts at 6:30 on 6 and a new time for Western Canada Sports Roundup at 11:40 on 6 and 8.

★ C-7:30 a.m.—Today devotes most of its time to a tribute to Duke Ellington. His band plays—5.

★ 6:00 p.m.—KCTS repeats Black Journal, the first U.S. network series of and for Negroes. The range is from Harlem graduates to Black Panthers to satire—9.

7:00—Folk songs by Jesse Fuller—9.

★ C-9:00—It's only a CBC filler, but the jazz of Cannon ball Adderley's sextet is great—2, 6.

Thursday Movies

NOTE: No titles from KTVW again. Big deal! The times are 2, 4, 7 and 11 p.m. and 1:30 a.m.—13.

★ 8:45 a.m.—Time Limit (1957 post-Korea drama), Richard Basehart, Richard Widmark, first-rate support—4.

12:00 noon—The Lady in Question (1940 forget-it), one of those Glenn Ford-Rita Hayworth nothings—11.

12:45—Golden Hawk (truly rotten 1952 pirates), Sterling Hayden, Rhonda Fleming—6, 8.

3:00 p.m.—Blondie Meets the Boss (1939 mistake)—7.

★ 7:00—Gunga Din (1939 great fun), Cary Grant, Victor McLaglen, Sam Jaffe, Fairbanks Jr.—7.

8:30—The Rack (fair 1956 post-Korea drama), Paul Newman, Walter Pidgeon, Lee Marvin, Edmond O'Brien—12.

C-9:00—World of Henry Orient (good 1964 comedy), Peter Sellers, Tippy Walker, Merrie Snaeth—7.

11:30—Stranger on the Prowl (1953 Italian drama), Paul Muni. May be good—7.

11:30—Brimstone (1949 western), Walter Brennan—12.

11:45—Hell Is Sold Out (1952 mystery), Richard Attenborough, Mai Zetterling, Herbert Lom—2.

1:05 a.m.—Iron Glove (shabby 1954 costume epic), Robert Stack, Ursula Thiess—5.

Thursday Radio

International Piano Competitions highlights, part one, conclude today at 1 and 8 p.m.—CBU-FM (105.7).

7:00 p.m.—Bright Lights examines music written for western movies. Aaron Copland is one name—CNU (690).

8:03—A recital of music by Liszt and Chopin, by pianist Marek Jablonski—CBU.

8:05—Rudy Hartman's choices for tonight include Bach's Concerto No. 5, by Glenn Gould—CFMS (98.5).

★—Recommended; C—Color.

No Bare Feet in Parliament Halls

Hippie Waves Warned: Shape Up in Ottawa

By RICHARD JACKSON
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Your town got hippies in its hair? Is "hippie heaven."

You should see your national capital. This summer, this

Thousands — published forecasts have ranged as high as 100,000 — of hippies supposedly are heading from all points of the continental compass to make the capital the "in" place.

Scores already are here, promenading the city's landscaped pedestrian shopping mall.

This, then, could be the national "pilot project" in how — or how not — to welcome the far-outs.

Two Styles

Fort here they are getting two quite different receptions.

In the city itself, plans are being made by the "mayor's committee" to provide food and shelter and arrange jobs for at least some of them — which conceivably could put the hippies in direct competition with local job-hunting collegiate and university students.

On The Hill, other plans are being made to require them to "shape up," as officials put it, or get off.

Already there are two clear signals that hippies can expect no special treatment or concessions on The Hill.

Obey, or Else

They will obey the rules and observe the ordinarily accepted standards of dress and personal hygiene, or they will be escorted off the federal premises.

With the hippie pilgrimage to the capital only beginning, four of the sandalled and hairy set have been shown the door.

Two were escorted out of the Centre Block.

Two others were removed from The Hill itself.

There have been numerous complaints," say officials, about the conduct of the hippies, but up to now action has been taken only twice. Once by the RCMP, the second time by the Commons protective staff. (Downtown, the city police do nothing.)

The two hippies "shown the gate" by the RCMP were invited to leave when they were found bedded down in sleeping bags on the lawn at 9:30 in the morning.

Not a Pad

They were told, says an RCMP officer, that "Parliament Hill is not to be considered a pad."

The other two hippies "shown the door" by the Commons protective staff, were asked to leave when they entered the Centre Block in bare feet, then returned in sandals. Spoke from an escorted party of visitors touring the building, and made for the tunnel to the West Block.

Their expulsion happened to be recorded by a Canadian Press photographer, raising the question among those sympathetic to hippies as to whether they were being discriminated against.

An official inquiry was made.

Real Story

And this, according to Lt.-Col. David Currie and Deputy Chief L. G. Syms of the Commons protective staff, is what happened:

"The two hippies, both in bare feet, entered the building and were informed that dress that informal simply wasn't acceptable.

"They were filthy. Dirty uncut hair. Soiled clothes. But it was for their bare feet they were told to get out.

"Two minutes later they returned with sandals of a sort.

"Now where did they get sandals so quickly? From a fellow-hippie outside? Had they attempted to enter the building bare-foot to create an incident, draw attention to themselves and solicit the sympathy of those who plead the hippie cause?

Standard Tour

"With a group of visitors they were taken on the standard tour of the building.

"But on descending from the Peace Tower and coming out of the Memorial Chamber they broke from the party, ran down the stairs to the lower floor and made for the West Block tunnel, ignoring all the 'off limits' signs and disregarding the calls of our officers.

"People are not allowed to roam the buildings at will.

"Why should they when you recall how close the 'mad bomber' came to blowing up the House of Commons?

"So we pursued, apprehended and ejected them.

"And we are announcing here and now that regardless of possibly different attitude in some sections of the capital, hippies will not be allowed to take over the Centre Block, following their own code of conduct and making their own rules."

Col Currie recalled that "genuine tourists," visiting Americans with "real interest in seeing our historic corridors" are not permitted into the galleries of Parliament if they are as unorthodox of dress as to be even wearing shorts.

The rule applies equally to men and women.

"So why, if we demand a certain level of acceptability in dress and conduct of holidaying tourists and visiting Canadian taxpayers, should we permit hippies to write their own ticket?" asks Col. Currie.

But where is the line of "acceptability" to be drawn?

"That," says Col Currie, "is a matter of discretion, to be drawn by those officials responsible for maintaining only quite ordinary standards of conduct on these premises."

Deputy chief Syms had more information.

Black Feet

"The bare feet of those two hippies weren't merely dirty — they were as black as this phone.

"The pair of them smelled to high heaven.

"Their condition was an affront to other visitors who shouldn't have to put up with that sort of thing — and we're here to see they don't have to."

Both Col. Currie and the deputy chief made it very clear there is no rule as such barring hippies — but the doors are to remain shut to those whose "lack of decent standards of personal hygiene makes them odorously offensive, whose disarray of clothing is objectionable and whose code of conduct is unacceptable."

Johnson Proposes Dial-a-Bus Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson proposed Wednesday that the government begin developing a futuristic new era for the nation's commuters that would include "dial-a-bus" and electronically-guided vehicles for getting them to and from work.

These were among the devices Johnson envisioned in a report to Congress on research and development ideas developed by the Housing and Urban Development department.

HUD officials estimated the development program over the next five to ten years would cost about $360,000,000 from private and public sources. Johnson has asked $25,000,000 in federal funds to maintain the momentum of urban mass transportation in the next fiscal year.

A summary of the lengthy HUD study included such "promising new systems" as:

Dial-a-bus: A bus type of system activated on demand of the potential passengers, possibly by telephone. A computer would log telephone calls, their origin and requested destination, location of available vehicles and number of passengers. The computer would then select an available bus and dispatch it to the telephone callers.

Convict Drags Guard In Hospital Escape

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul Mikulus, 26-year-old convicted armed bandit who had escaped from a provincial jail in Quebec City in 1966, kidnapped a guard handcuffed to him Wednesday and fled a Montreal hospital grounds where he was driven following an injury at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary.

A penitentiary spokesman said a masked gunman provoked the escape by firing a shot at the car transporting Mikulus and guards Gilbert Houle and J. P. Belanger.

The spokesman said Mikulus, handcuffed to Houle, dragged the guard and escaped with the gunman.

Belanger had not wanted to use his gun for fear of injuring Houle.

Mikulus was being taken to Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital for treatment of what the penitentiary spokesman said could be the loss of two fingers on his left hand

He had injured the fingers while operating a sheet metal machine in the prison shop at St. Vincent de Paul. The spokesman believed the injury was deliberate.

Mikulus, a native of Montreal, was sentenced in January, 1966, to 15 years for armed robbery, escaped from the Quebec jail in March and was captured shortly afterwards. He got an additional three years.

The spokesman said Mikulus' fingers were simply "hanging" after the incident—they had been cut through the bone. Mikulus was given emergency treatment at the penitentiary, then rushed to the hospital.

Defector Returns on Innertubes

U.S., Cuba Didn't Help Him

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — William Henry Nelson, a Negro who defected to Cuba in 1963 claiming that America "never did anything for me," floated back to the United States on an innertube raft Wednesday because "Cuba didn't do anything for me either."

Nelson was rescued with two other Cuban refugees in the Florida Straits early Wednesday.

Nelson, a 24-year-old native of Philadelphia, defected in July, 1963, in a stolen shrimp boat.

He is the first American defector to Fidel Castro's island to return to the United States.

SKIMPY RAFT

Nelson was picked up with two other refugees — one white and one Negro — on an innertube and canvas raft off Cay Sal by a coast guard cutter and brought here for questioning by the FBI and immigration agents.

He was charged by the FBI with interstate transportation of stolen property and was to be given a hearing later before a U.S. commissioner.

Nelson was also charged by the Monroe County sheriff's department with grand larceny.

Sheriff Reece Thompson said Nelson worked for the Southern Sea Food Co. here for about a month before stealing the 48-foot shrimp trawler Euna Mae from its dock here on July 26, 1963, and fleeing alone to Cuba.

Thompson said Nelson wrecked the $18,000 trawler on a reef off Cuba, but was rescued by Cuban seamen and taken to Havana.

Nelson told authorities he had worked all over the Cuban island as a field hand and laborer.

He said he "got fed up with life under Castro because Cuba didn't do anything for me either" and plotted with two friends to flee the island.

Sex and the Tomato

By M. V. CHESNUT

In a recent article I discussed sex in plants, pointing out that some kinds come in separate male and female plants, some have separate male and female blossoms on the same plant, and some — the majority — have both male and female organs in the one blossom. The tomato plant falls in the latter class — its sex life is not at all complicated.

With male and female organs in each blossom, pollination can be achieved by the transfer of pollen from the male anthers to the female stigma, just a fraction of an inch away. Given ideal atmospheric conditions, the pollen may even fall from another to stigma, without benefit of insects.

This being the case, it is hard to understand why it is so difficult to get the first clusters of blossoms to set. The later clusters seem to make fruit fairly readily, but only too often the first blossoms are aborted — they dry up and fall to the ground leaving no little green tomatoes behind them.

I have never understood to my complete satisfaction why this should be so. Could be cool nights, poor weather conditions at the time of the first blossoms, a lack of vitality in the plant, or simply because the first blossoms come along at a time when the plant is still in a state of shock after being transplanted to the open garden.

In any case, I can't see any point in leaving matters to chance, for while the subsequent blossom clusters are sure to set fruit, the loss of the first clusters makes your tomatoes that much later in ripening.

The thing to do is to make absolutely sure those first blossoms turn themselves into tomatoes by spraying them with a fruit-setting hormone. This causes seedless tomatoes to form even when weather and atmospheric conditions are all against natural pollination.

★ ★ ★

Actually, I think it pays to use the stuff throughout the growing season, on every cluster of blossoms, early and late, as they come along. It is just plain good insurance, making sure tomatoes will form whether or not the blossoms are pollinated.

Besides, in my opinion the artificially-stimulated tomatoes make better eating than the naturally pollinated, with meatier, more solid flesh, fewer seeds and less watery pulp.

These tomato-setting sprays are not at all hard to come by — they are stocked by practically every garden shop — and are sold under such names as Tomato-Fix, Blossom-Set, Seed-Less-Set and Fixit.

Nor are these sprays expensive. A one-ounce bottle of Seed-Less-Set costs 65 cents — this is enough to make a quart of spray. An aerosol bomb of Fixit sells for $1.29 and slightly larger aerosol of Thompson's Tomato-Fix costs $1.45. A bottle of 30 tablets of Tomato-Fix is priced at 65 cents, and this is enough to do the average garden for five years!

Don't spray too soon but wait until every blossom in the cluster if fully open. Spray the blossoms only, not the whole plant, shooting at a slight upward angle so the spray hits the undersides of the blossoms as well as the centre organs. The little green tomatoes should start to form within a week after spraying.

The aerosol bomb is the easiest and most convenient way to apply the spray as there is no mixing or filling to do — just push the button on top and you're in business. If you mix your own, though, you'll find the regular garden sprayer is far too big and clumsy — you can't spray the blossom clusters without wetting the whole plant.

★ ★ ★

The inexpensive Jet sprayer is very good for this job. An old perfume atomizer works well, or a nasal spray, while one gardener of my acquaintance does all his hormone blossom spraying with a little plastic squeeze bottle that originally contained an underarm deodorant spray!

These fruit-setting sprays, while formulated especially for tomatoes, do a good job on peppers, too, and I have used them successfully on cucumbers, marrow and squash. Even a hormone spray, though, won't make fruits come on the male blossoms of these plants.

ART BUCHWALD—and the Committee on Violence

Blind Leading the Blind

WASHINGTON — "The subcommittee on violence will come to order. Will someone please turn off that television set?"

"Sorry, I was fascinated by a commercial of two people kidnapping a car dealer and stealing the car. It's rather an extraordinary way to sell cars."

"Well, we don't have time to discuss that now. We have to get down to the business of violence. Senator, do you mind putting down that magazine. We're ready to begin the meeting. Senator . . ."

★ ★ ★

"Huh? Oh — excuse me. Look at this. Here is a carbine for sale by mail for only $26.00. How the blazes do they do it?"

"Probably some foreign make. My constituents are furious at the flood of foreign guns coming into this country."

"I don't blame them. If you're an American gun lover, the least you can do is buy American."

"Gentlemen, can we call this meeting to order. We're trying to get to the causes of violence and . . ."

"Listen, before we start, I saw a movie the other night and found it damned interesting. It was a cowboy picture and it may have had a little too much blood for everybody's taste, but I never saw anything so realistic."

★ ★ ★

"Talk about realism. Did you see that shot of the soldier on the news last night on TV just as he got hit and . . ."

"This meeting must come to order immediately. We are here today to discuss the causes of violence in the United States."

"May I ask a question? Will we be done by four? If I don't get home early my wife will kill me."

"Knowing your wife, she would, too."

"May I repeat, gentlemen, we're here to discuss violence. Let's not get off the track."

"Well can we get on with it? I've got an election coming up, and if I don't murder my opponent in the primary, I'm a dead duck."

★ ★ ★

"Let's not talk politics now. We have to think of witnesses we want to call."

"I hope we come up with something concrete because I have to give a graduation speech and I've been beating by brains out trying to think of something to say."

"If you don't beat your brains out, the students will do it for you."

"Very funny."

"We're getting off the subject again, gentlemen."

"I'd like to say one thing before we get started. We can't keep the secretaries on the committee late unless we can escort them home by the police."

"I'm not sure the police will agree to that."

"But how are we going to get the report out on time?"

"We could work Saturdays."

"That's no good. I'm going hunting on Saturday."

"We'll face that problem when we come to it."

"I believe that the first thing we should do is write a preface to the report deploring violence."

"That's a stupid idea."

"Don't call me stupid unless you want to step outside."

"Order, order. Can't we keep our feelings under control?"

★ ★ ★

"If I'm going to work on this committee, I demand respect."

"Drop dead."

"It looks as if we're not going to get anywhere today. Let's adjourn until tomorrow."

"Good idea. It will give us a chance to read up on why people are always resorting to violence."

Warren Anchored

SHEILAH GRAHAM

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — There was Warren Beatty in the lobby of the Wilshire Hotel, ready to dash up to his top-floor penthouse where Julie Christie was waiting for him. He was not wearing his glasses, and looked like a strayed wolf. Warren and Julie have stayed put in Hollywood ever since she arrived here to be with him for the Oscar awards early in April. When I asked him: "Are you planning anything in the way of marriage?" he made his usual non-conversation. So it's anyone's guess.

★ ★ ★

But in the years I have known him, I have never known him to stay so long in one place. When I mentioned this he seemed a bit disturbed and said, "Yeah, I ought to be moving on," but the old wanderlust was not there.

Warren's next film? He still isn't sure about The Ski Bum, he said. "I'll have to see the script. Who told you" he asked, changing the conversation. "that Fay Dunaway took a cut in salary to have her name above the title?" Well," I said, "we never reveal our sources." "It wasn't so," he replied, "It was my idea to give her equal billing with me above the title, but I didn't charge her for it. Also she had signed for some more pictures with me, but I let her out of the deal. That was nice, wasn't it?"

It was. The gesture cost him about a million dollars. Otto Preminger who also had some deals with Faye to follow their Hurry Sundown disaster, is getting something near a half-million dollars for cancelling out their contract. Warren in fact is the only person I have ever known to relinquish film rights for nothing. Even an actor, Burt Lancaster, made Ernie Borgnine pay when he released him from his deal with Hecht-Lancaster. And Paul Newman had to pay $500,000 when he bought his way out of his old contract at Warner Brothers.

★ ★ ★

Harry Saltzman plays it smarter with Michael Caine. He gives him a share of what he gets for Michael's loan-outs. And he also helps him invest his money. They have a company in Switzerland, I believe . . . Bill Graf who produced A Man for All Seasons had no sooner left his lovely apartment in Grosvenor Square — where Mia Farrow is currently living in Frank Sinatra's penthouse opposite — than a jewel thief moved in and took most of Mrs. Graf's gems. Like I told you, London is the robbingest town.

★ ★ ★

Mia Farrow would really be good as Peter Pan on the screen and this is what Mel Ferrer, who now owns the screen rights to the Barrie fantasy, is aiming to have happen. Mia looks like a boy with her skinny figure. Anyone who plays Peter cannot look like Sophia Loren.

Fear Excuse to Laze

"Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die!"

These sentiments, we are told, are the morbid roots of our youth's frantic antics, their irrepressible promiscuities, the moral and physical debasements of a generation that knows that it is going nowhere.

The fears of he younger ones, who should be fearless, are said to be at the root of their manifest troubles — cheating in school, the rising tide of sexual aberration, the growing use of narcotics, the criminality of anti-social teenagers.

Fears of atomic destruction, so the theory goes, have made the new generation callous toward planning careers and indifferent to all standards of morality.

And coupled to this terror of the bomb is the widespread notion that society has been so dehumanized by our machines that life has little meaning anymore.

Actors meander from one stage to another, in theatre after theatre, wailing lines the playwrights seemed to have bought at the same factory: society is decadent and not worth saving, and the only intelligent thing for a young person to do is to reject the whole unhappy mess and to have no part in it.

★ ★ ★

And why this? No persons exist anymore, anyway, they say — modern man has become a tiny number in a giant IBM computer, depersonalized in the mighty mangles of the machine age.

Why bother, then, about goals, values, standards, or ethics?

It is probably true that no generation before us has been faced with the threat of mass destruction on a global scale. But such a threat produces visceral fears — fears for ourselves and our immediate kin — not social frights.

Few lie awake nights worrying about the future of the world: if they are sleepless at all, it is probably because they are freting over themselves.

What is more, no age has survived its time without the presence of fears of all forms: plague, disease, war and poverty have not been absent in the life of any previous generation.

Men were always obliged to recognize that life was an obstacle course and that, in Job's words, "man was born to trouble as the sparks fly upward."

Fears of total destruction spawned by an atomic age excuse on the part of lazy men to stand up to the only age they will ever live in — their own.

★ ★ ★

Nor are the terrors of the machine age any the more genuine. They too provide immoral flounderers with an alibi for their own aimlessness. Materially, no previous generation has had it so good.

And spiritually, too, the industrial age has brought the cultural riches of the past and present to our very doorsteps — if we would get ourselves off of our hands to reach out for them.

We excuse our shortsightedness by ascribing machine. For those who would be free the machine can emancipate. Those who have nothing to say are not even helped by the telephone.

They who eat, drink and make merry are those who would do just these things, in any case — dying now, tomorrow, or the day after has nothing to do with the case.

Others who face the world instead of fleeing it, eat and drink, too. But they know the difference between means and ends.

And there's a very special merriment in this.

Young Mountie's Eyes Spotted Ray's File

OTTAWA (CP) — The painstaking RCMP search of passport application files that led to the arrest of James Earl Ray in London last Saturday began one week after he left Canada May 6 for England.

Ray, wanted in Tennessee for the shooting of Martin Luther King, also was well ahead of the authorities in getting into Canada.

An FBI photo of him went to officers at 131 Canadian points of entry April 22, some time after he arrived in Canada. Police believe he came to Toronto shortly after Dr. King was shot April 4 in Memphis.

With the FBI photo came news that Ray had lived in Montreal last summer after escaping from a Missouri prison in April, 1967.

Ray's Canadian connections now are the subject of an intensive investigation by RCMP and FBI agents, who were reported to be scouring Montreal Wednesday for information on his movements there.

Except for the RCMP search of passport files, he might still be at large.

He obtained a passport under the alias Ramon George Sneyd April 25 and flew to London from Toronto May 6.

A few days later RCMP were given permission by the external affairs department to search the passport application files here.

NIGHT TASK

A dozen Mounties under the command of a corporal trooped into the passport office after closing hours May 13 and scanned nearly 250,000 files in 20 nights.

They worked at night to avoid upsetting routine in the office—218,000 passports were issued last year—and to avoid stirring gossip that might tip their hand if Ray was in the country.

They began looking at applications since late April, 1967, when Ray escaped from prison in the U.S.

SUCCESS JUNE 1

A young constable matched the FBI photo of Ray against the passport photo of Ramon George Sneyd June 1, touching off a standard police check that had exciting results.

The application listed a transient Toronto address, gave the name of a travel agency and allowed RCMP to find out quickly when Ray had left the country. A week later Scotland Yard had arrested him in London as he was about to board a plane for Belgium.

BACK ON DUTY

The force itself is hewing to a tradition of "upholding the law" anonymously and has refused to divulge the name of the constable, now back on regular duty, who spotted the Sneyd photo.

Ray's regular features were similar to those on a dozen passport photos and set off a number of routine checks before the Sneyd file turned up.

MORE SEARCHING

The telling features were the shape of his chin, the set of his ears and his hairline. He had disguised himself slightly by wearing heavy-rimmed glasses and tightening his mouth.

The Mounties now are quietly trying to find out how he assumed the name of four Toronto men, how he got the passport, and what connections, if any, he had in this country.

How's That?

Officials had explanation Tuesday for Debby Grossman, 19, and others mystified by sign near Baltimore zoo. They said they had no sign in which letters were right side up if arrow pointed to left, so they used this one, which would be all right if zoo were in other direction. That's what they said.—(AP)

Sharp:

Canadian Passport Not Easy

REGINA (CP) — Procedures for obtaining Canadian passports may have to be tightened in some areas, External Affairs Minister Sharp said Wednesday, "but we don't want a police state."

Sharp, on an election campaign trip to Regina and southeastern Saskatchewan, said at a press conference that there is no substance to claims in some U.S. publications that Canadian passports are "ridiculously easy" to obtain.

REPORT SOON

He said he hopes to have a report when he returns to Ottawa on an inquiry into how James Earl Ray obtained two Canadian passports.

Sharp said, "We have to make sure criminals don't get passports, but we don't want a police state. We don't want to interfere with the free movement of Canadians about the world."

He said a study of passport regulations may involve the provinces, since it is possible for some people to write to provincial governments and obtain birth certificates.

BALANCE NEEDED

"The problem is how to tighten (regulations) without doing a disservice to Canadians," he said.

"We have to strike a balance. Most people are honest and it is important they be able to get a passport without too much trouble. We are a free and open society. This is a characteristic of Canada and I believe that is the kind of society we want to preserve."

Long Climb Follows Mine Fire

WINNIPEG (CP) — Eight miners were forced to climb ladders 1,000 feet to the surface at Bissett, Man., after fire destroyed a mine's hoist on the surface.

Company officials said none of the men was hurt in the climb from the 10th level of the gold mine which is operated by San Antonio Gold Mines. Bissett is about 100 miles northeast of Winnipeg.

Nevada

Gunman Wakes Leader

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)— A prowler exchanged gunshots with police early Wednesday in the yard of the Nevada governor's mansion and then fled. No one was injured.

Governor Paul Laxalt, his wife and six children were asleep at the time. Laxalt said he did not believe it was an attempt to harm him or his family but merely a burglar.

MAN SPOTTED

Police officer Jack Jordan said he pulled into the driveway of the mansion shortly after 4 a.m. At the rear of the house, he said he saw a "well built" man and "at first I thought he was the gardener."

The prowler triggered off a shot which crashed through the windshield, missing Jordan by inches. The officer tried to put the car in reverse but the motor stalled.

MORE SHOTS

Jordan then jumped out and fired as the prowler dashed behind a garage. The prowler returned the fire and seconds later fled into the surrounding residential district.

"It was highly improbable someone was lying in wait all night long for me," said Laxalt. "I hope they catch this man quickly so the air of mystery around this can be cleared up."

FEW DAYS

Laxalt said his family was "badly frightened" by the gunfire. He ordered guards posted at the mansion for the next few days with all children confined to the grounds except his oldest daughter, Gail, who works in the downtown area six blocks away.

Laxalt, a former district attorney, said he has received no threats recently. He called the suspect a "highly dangerous person . . . he immediately opened fire and that wouldn't be the conduct of an ordinary prowler type."

Grand Idea

Flag Plus Paid

SPRINGSVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Flat tires and temperamental engines were a way of life in 1908 when George Schuster chugged 13,000 miles across the United States, Siberia and Europe to win the New York-to-Paris automobile race.

Schuster drove his 1907 Thomas Flyer across the finish line at Paris in first place for a promised prize of $1,000 and an American flag, but all he ever got was the flag. His sponsors never came up with the $1,000.

★ ★ ★

The New York Times said Tuesday that Schuster, now 95 and nearly blind, will get his $1,000 June 18 in Buffalo during the New York-to-San Francisco antique car race to be held June 16 to July 13.

The Times said it will give the elderly Springville resident the $1,000 because one of its reporters travelled with Schuster on the trans-America portion of the 1908 race.

This summer, 45 vintage cars, none made after 1914, will wheeze their way across the country in a race co-sponsored by The Times and the Veteran Motor Car Club of America.

Schuster's 1907 Thomas Flyer will be exhibited at stops along the way.

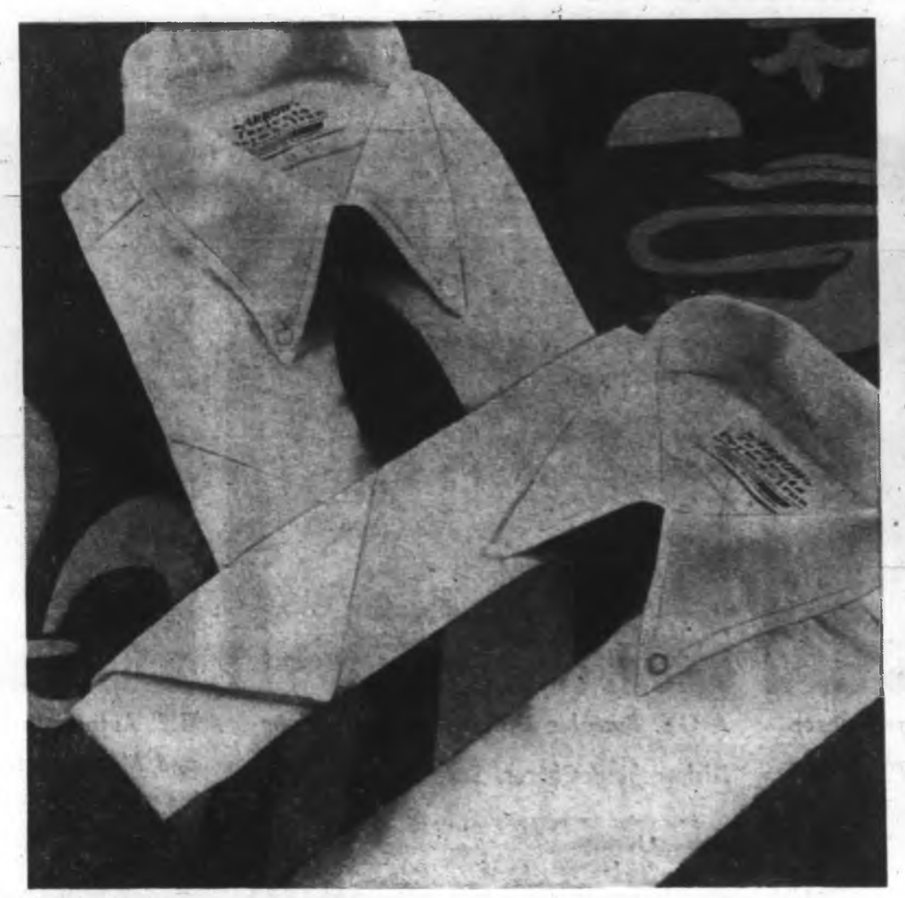

He was a car mechanic for the Thomas Automobile Co. in Buffalo until it closed in 1913.

Stanfield May Bare Shipyard Policy

Chief in Vancouver

By IAN STREET
Colonist Reporter

VANCOUVER — The crisis in the West Coast shipbuilding industry is likely to be the prime topic when Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield addresses an election rally in Memorial Arena at 8:30 p.m. today.

When the Tory leader came to Vancouver Wednesday morning from Edmonton he was greeted at Kerrisdale Arena by about a dozen pickets carrying signs protesting building of ships overseas while hundreds of B.C. shipyard workers are jobless.

Youthful party workers carrying Stanfield signs jostled elbow to elbow with picketers who identified themselves as representatives of maritime and shipyard unions affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labor.

The picketers' signs called for immediate establishment of a Canadian merchant marine and protested the building in Japan recently of two lumber carriers by MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.

When Mr. Stanfield stepped from his open car after travelling from Vancouver International Airport a party official using a bull horn led mini-skirted cheerleaders in a chant of "Go, Bob, Go."

The pickets, who all claimed to be unemployed seamen and shipyard workers from the Lower Mainland, brandished their signs and shouted: "Can-

Wives, Politicians Can't Visit Quebec Yard Campers

QUEBEC (CP) — Outsiders including politicians and reporters Wednesday were refused access to the George T. Davie Co. shipyards in nearby Lauzon where 33 workers have been camping in tents since last week to protest the closing down of the shipyards.

Richard Milhomme, chairman of an emergency committee set up by the shipyard workers' union to look after the campers' welfare, said in an interview it now is impossible to get on the site.

The workers set up tents before the shipyards closed down Saturday, protesting that 1,000 men would lose their jobs because the Canadian Vickers Co. Ltd. had decided to sell the Davie Co. and discontinue its Lauzon operations.

"One camper's wife was ordered off the site by harbor police," Milhomme said, "and a CBC reporter had to conduct an interview across a fence because he was refused permission to enter the grounds."

Two candidates in the June 25 federal election—Raymond Gay, Liberal candidate in Levis and Paul Emile Dube, his Progressive Conservative opponent—were refused access to the camping grounds.

Up-Island Cities See Him First

VANCOUVER (SPECIAL) — Conservative leader Robert Stanfield will be campaigning in three up-Island centres today before flying to Victoria for an evening rally in Memorial Arena.

He is scheduled to land at Cassidy Airport at 10:45 a.m. and drive into Nanaimo where he is expected to arrive at Harbor Park shopping centre about 11:15 a.m.

The Tory leader will be greeted by Mayor Frank Ney and Conservative candidate Jeffrey Brock. After a luncheon reception at noon in the Tallyho Inn the official party will depart by air for Comox.

At 2:35 p.m. Mayor Ron Ellis and Conservative candidate Blair McLean will welcome Mr. Stanfield at the Comox Shopping Plaza. He will spend about half an hour there before driving to Courtenay. There he will be met by Mayor George Hobson of Courtenay, Mayor Bill Henderson of Cumberland and former Conservative member of Parliament Harry McQuillan.

The party is scheduled to leave Comox airport at 4:10 p.m. arriving at Patricia Bay about 5 p.m. where he will be met by George Chatterton, Conservative candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich, and Victoria candidate Eric Charman.

Mr. Stanfield and his party will stay in the Empress Hotel overnight following the 8:30 p.m. meeting in Memorial Arena. He is scheduled to leave by air early Friday for Moose Jaw.

Six of 63 Killed In Crash of Jet

NEW DELHI (AP) — A Pan American Airways Boeing 707 jetliner groping its way in for a landing in a rainstorm caught fire and burned today at Calcutta's Dum Dum airport. First reports said six of the 63 persons aboard died.

All India Radio said the rear end of the plane —inbound from Bangkok—broke out in flames about the same time as it landed.

Allies Denounce Threat to Berlin

Bonn Will Hike Aid to Enclave

LONDON (AP) — Britain, the United States and France denounced Wednesday night East Germany's new taxes and restrictions on West German travel and commerce links with West Berlin. They said they will take up the matter with the Soviet Union.

In Bonn, the West German cabinet decided to increase subsidies to the isolated city and make up any economic losses it suffers from what some Germans considered the biggest threat to the city's economy since the 11-month Berlin blockade in 1948-49.

The East German measures, apparently approved by the Soviet Union, drew protests from both leftist and conservative students in West Berlin.

Red flag-waving leftists were turned back by East Berlin border guards when they tried to deliver a note to communist officials, accusing them of replacing "socialist politics with bureaucratic stipulations."

DEEPEN DIVISION

Some 2,500 conservative students marched on the four-power Air Safety Control Centre with a resolution demanding "decisive steps for the maintenance of our freedom" from the Western Allies.

The allies called the East German measures "contrary to long standing international agreements and practice" and tending to "deepen the division of Germany and of Europe."

WILL APPROACH SOVIETS

Britain's foreign office said the three will make "any appropriate representations to the Soviet government, which shares with them the responsibility not only for unhindered Berlin access but also for an ultimate solution of the German problem." A similar statement was issued in Washington.

Earlier, Chancellor Kurt George Kiesinger of West Germany met in Bonn with the U.S., British and French ambassadors to discuss a unified political approach toward the measures, announced 24 hours before by East Germany.

The regulations require for the first time that West Germans hold passports and visas

De Gaulle Clampdown Defied

PARIS — Thousands of French people, called out by students and trade unions, demonstrated peacefully throughout the country Wednesday night in defiance of a government ban on demonstrations.

The only report of violence came from Strasbourg where university students fought with riot police. Police tried to storm Strasbourg University but were repelled after a battle with students wielding chairs and pieces of table.

At other provincial centres demonstrations, technically illegal after the government invoked a 1936 law Wednesday, passed off without incident.

★ ★ ★

The largest took place in the large southern seaport of Marseilles where about 3,000 students marched through the streets, watched silently by police.

In Paris, several hundred students waving red communist and black anarchist flags marched around the Cite Universitaire, a suburban block of buildings which houses foreign students.

★ ★ ★

Meeting after a wild night of violence in Paris and elsewhere, the cabinet Wednesday decided on a series of tough measures in an attempt to restore order for general elections June 23 and 30.

President de Gaulle's government also ordered seven extremist student groups dissolved.

Striking employees of the state-run radio and television networks called off a proposed peaceful rally of listeners and viewers they had scheduled to support their demands for news reporting without government interference.

The wave of social unrest claimed its fifth fatality. A 49-year-old worker died from a fratcured skull suffered during a pitched battle Tuesday between police and strikers at the Peugeot car works at Sochaux, 220 miles southeast of Paris.

Hippies Fear Catastrophe Heading for the Hills

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Among a few of the mystically minded flower children of the Haight-Ashbury set, the word is out: the sky is falling.

The great event takes place Friday when a jagged piece of rock, technically known as the asteroid Icarus, passes within 4,000,000 miles of earth.

★ ★ ★

Some concerned hippies, confusing their astronomy and astrology, have fled to Boulder, Colo., because they believe the high retreats to be safe from destruction Icarus will wreak. (See also Page 47.)

"Many of the kids tell us they're splitting the city," said a worker at the Haight-Ashbury medical clinic for hippies. "They want to know whether we're splitting, too, because they think the San Andreas (earthquake) fault is going to open up. We tell them we're staying right here."

★ ★ ★

The citizens of Boulder fear the influx of hippies more than they do Icarus. Vigilantes committees have been formed and there are reports that two loiterers were fired upon.

"We've come up here because this is the safest place in the world to be if it happens — here and Tibet," said one shaggy-haired native of Miami.

Chicken Little and more modern astrology students not withstanding, there is no truth, experts say, to rumors Icarus will hit the earth or pass so close that continents will sink, the lost island of Atlantis will rise and all of California will be inundated by a tidal wave.

Actually, Icarus probably won't even disturb the leaves in a gypsy teacup when it sweeps along its looping solar orbit and passes about 3,950,000 miles from earth. And it most assuredly will not change the tides, alter the weather or touch off an earthquake.

★ ★ ★

Icarus, which is about six-tenths of a mile in diameter, won't even reflect enough sunlight to be observed by the naked eye. But it will be studied with interest by astronomers as a further check on Einstein's general theory of relativity.

Nuclear Check

Treaty Wins UN Stamp

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The General Assembly gave overwhelming endorsement Wednesday to a draft treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons and heard President Johnson pledge the United States to press all efforts to end the nuclear arms race.

The vote on a resolution commending the treaty — soon to be opened for signatures — was 95 to 4 with 21 abstentions. This was an improvement over the vote in the main political committee Monday on the same resolution. On that occasion, it was approved 92 to 4, with 22 abstentions.

Little Chad switched from the abstention column to the affirmative, and Costa Rica and Cameroon, among four absentees Monday, voted in favor this time around.

The United States president, closely guarded, arrived at the UN building just after the vote. He called the non-proliferation treaty "the most important international agreement in the field of disarmament since the nuclear age began" at the end of the Second World War.

The treaty, jointly sponsored by the United States and the Soviet Union in a rare showing of East-West accord, also has the backing of Britain among the world's five nuclear-weapons powers. The other two, France and mainland China, have said they will not sign it.

France said it would adhere to the treaty in exactly the same fashion as the U.S., U.S.S.R. and Britain. France's complaint was that the Geneva discussions had not resulted in any reduction of armaments.

British Speeding Up Extradition Moves

● Anonymous young Mountie spotted Ray in passport files. Page 50.

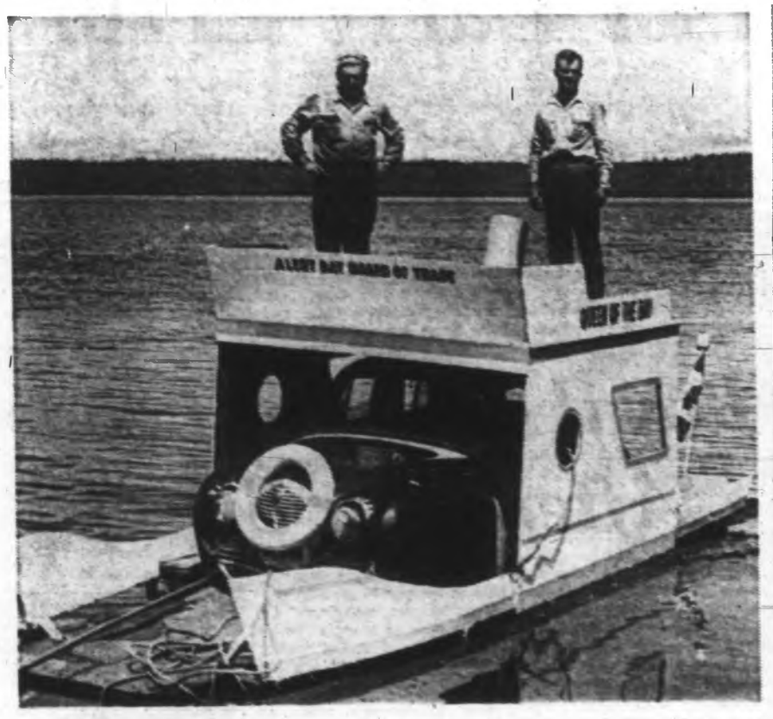

LONDON (AP) — The British government started speedy official action Wednesday on a formal U.S. request for the extradition of James Earl Ray to stand trial for the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

But court formalities and appeals, if the 40-year-old escaped convict chooses to use them, could delay Ray's return to the U.S. up to six weeks.

He is being held under British charges of carrying a forged Canadian passport.

Within hours after receiving the U.S. petition, the foreign office certified that the request fell within the terms of the 1931

CAR FERRY is tested by A. G. Clelland, board of trade president, and member Dave Schellenberg, right.—(Jack Myers)

For Ferry

Cars Start Bid

ALERT BAY—Cars from this area will be taking part in a race with a difference on July 1—the course is across a 10-mile stretch of water.

Competitors will be making for Port McNeill via Sointula.

The race is the beginning of an intensive campaign to persuade the provincial government to provide the three communities with a ferry service.

Included on the invitation list to attend the race are government leaders.

"The provincial government hasn't sent us a ferry to service the three communities, which are on three separate islands. So we are running this race, and having a ball doing it, to emphasize the need for an auto ferry," says the board of trade.

"Efforts to get a ferry have been going on for three years that I know of," said Jack Myers, publicity chairman, on Wednesday.

"Of course it has been going on for a lot longer than that. But this is the first concerted effort to attract the provincial government's attention.

"At present the only car ferry which we have is Coast Ferries' Island Princess which goes to Kelsey Bay, Beaver Cove, and then to Alert Bay and Sointula. It does not touch Port McNeill.

"The only passenger ferry is the school ferry which only serves Port McNeill, Sointula and Alert Bay. This means we don't have a ferry link with Vancouver Island."

Mr. Myers said the idea occurred to him when he was working in Port McNeill.

"I was tired of not being able to get home to see my family," he said. "The only way I could do it was take the water taxi if I finished by 5 p.m. which was rather expensive or if I missed that, I would have to take a charter. So I had to stay in an apartment."

★ ★ ★

Mr. Myers pointed out that there is no ferry to serve Cormorant Island, with a population of about 2,000, yet Quadra Island, which has a smaller population has a ferry service.

"This end of the Island has grown tremendously in population in the last two years yet the provincial government said recently that the 20 miles of road from Beaver Cove to Port McNeill would be paved.

"I suppose the idea will be to carry it up to Port Hardy."

So far eight entries have been received for the race. All the ferries will be made by competitors.

A dance is planned for the day before the race. At Port McNeill, the finishing line, presentations will be tied in with July 1 festivities.

Campbell River

Youth Centre Plea Tabled

CAMPBELL RIVER — Forty teenagers turned up to this week's council meeting when aldermen tabled their request for help in connection with a teen centre.

The young people hope to obtain a building in the area which they can use for youth activities.

Ald. Herb Osing said the parks and recreation commission had met a group of young people. A questionnaire circulated to 1,450 teenagers showed that 98 per cent liked the idea for a centre, 86 per cent said they would take part in centre activities and 71 per cent offered to help with the project.

LAND PROPOSAL

Ald. Osing recommended that because of legal requirements any centre should be supervised by the commission. He suggested that a piece of ground, owned by the municipality at Second and Dogwood could be used.

He moved that council donate $20,000 towards a building.

He thought that amount would be sufficient to build a centre large enough for the purpose and with adequate facilities. The young people would have to finish the interior.

Mayor Skip McDonald said he had discussed the matter with the school board chairman who suggested the board might be able to make a gymnasium available.

He thought the use of a gymnasium met the council's obligation to find a frame building for the teenagers and that the municipality could assume some of the cost or responsibility for janitorial service.

As the school board was in special session that evening to discuss the matter, council tabled Ald. Osing's motion until the board gave their decision.

When trustees later told council they had "grave misgivings" about turning over their facilities to an unsupervised group, Ald. Osing's proposal remained tabled.

The school board said it would consider any suggestion as to the use of school buildings for that purpose.

Mayor McDonald reported that the new postal service would be inaugurated July 6. The first delivery will be on July 8.

He said there would be ceremonies at the post office with a band if one could be obtained.

Aldermen were told that $25.85 had been stolen from the local swimming pool on June 10. The treasurer reported that leaving money in the building was contrary to his instructions.

Council asked for a report on the incident for its next meeting.

Artist Shows Work

DUNCAN — Maple Bay artist Juli Porter will be in the limelight this weekend.

She will be one of three exhibitors showing her latest work done in various media at the Silverbridge Inn Saturday.

The same day she and fellow artists from her Maple Bay sketch club as well as members of the Cowichan Valley potters will have a one-day show at St. Peter's church hall, Maple Bay.

Mrs. Porter, who has lived in this area for many years has made a name for herself as a painter, writer and photographer.

Report Ordered About Wagon

CAMPBELL RIVER—Purchase of a stationwagon for the works department surprised aldermen at this week's council meeting.

Ald. Isobel Sandberg said: "There are too many of these things happening and I am not happy about it. I say this is a defience of council's instructions. We discussed this in the budget meetings and this item was deleted and the staff instructed not to purchase it."

Mayor Skip McDonald told aldermen that although they had opposed the purchase at the original study of the budget, they had subsequently approved it.

A motion by Ald. Sandberg that the administrator should provide a report about the stationwagon was approved. Council passed the finance warrant with the exception of that item.

Readers Win Praise

DUNCAN — Ald. Rois Harder told city council Monday night that no Vancouver Island regional library board meeting passes without comments from board members about the enthusiastic readership here.

"It is quite obvious Duncan is a good reading area and people at the board meetings always comment on this," said Ald. Harder.

He also made reference to the excellently run library branch on Kenneth Street and the light and clean facilities which are used by people from all walks of life, including many students.

In his monthly report on social assistance, Ald. John Getz said: "The city office paid out a total of $7,852 during May and the list of recipients consisted of 39 families with 109 dependents ($5,971), 21 single men ($1,026), 14 single women ($855), and one child placed with relatives ($45)."

Building permits during the past month represented a total value of $44,775, said Ald. Dick Beauies.

He added building permits during the same period last year amounted to $21,600.

Five-month totals for 1967 and 1968 were $331,745 and $358,825.

Lighting Passed

LAKE COWICHAN—The 1968 street lighting program was approved by council Tuesday.

The program is designed to add a certain number of lights to village streets each year.

Village clerk Bill Chappell said eight 300-watt mercury vapor lights will be installed on North Shore road to complete a section between the CNR tracks and the theatre.

The lights taken from that area will be installed on the darker streets in the village including three on Beaver Road, and one each on McDonald, Neva and Darnell roads, Somenos and Cottonwood streets.

Duncan Chamber Told

Tourists Flock to Bureau

DUNCAN — A total of 214 tourists visited the information bureau during May, Mrs. Alison Bonn told Duncan Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday.

Mrs. Bonn, bureau officer, said she also answered more than 60 telephone queries during the month.

"The number of visitors and telephone calls certainly shows there is a need for the tourist bureau to be open," she said.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Bonn announced that Mrs. Vivian Purney, of Cowichan Bay will be employed on a part-time basis from July to the Labor Day weekend.

During the summer, the information bureau hours will be extended. It will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays, and at least from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Mrs. Bonn said, "We are also making plans to have group displays in the bureau to draw to the attention of visitors, and potential residents, the many facilities and items of interest in the area. These will probably be set up on the weekends.

She said the first display will be of Indian crafts including the world-famous Cowichan Indian sweaters. She hopes to have an active display of women knitting and weaving them.

There are also tentative plans for a rockhound display, fishing display (mooching techniques), and an industrial display.

Arrangements have also been made for the use of a bulletin board which will give information on accommodation in the district.

Chamber President Fred Aspin reported that a special committee has been formed to investigate the proposed incorporation of the Duncan-Cowichan chamber of Commerce through the Board of Trade Act.

He said: "This has been recommended by the Canadian Chamber, but we have found we will have to up-date our constitution first.

"A committee has been set up to draft the constitution, and we will then follow the recommendation of the Canadian Chamber to incorporate."

Nanaimo Visitor:

Canada Needs Majority Rule

NANAIMO — An international political figure, currently living in exile in the United Kingdom, believes the main issue in Canada's current federal election campaign is the return of a majority government.

Dr. Juraj Krnjevic, 72, president of the Croatian Peasant Party of Yugoslavia, claims people in other parts of the world see "the weakening of Canada in her lack of a workable and stable parliamentary majority."

"In my opinion the main issue of the present federal election is that the nation should have a workable and strong majority government where the ruling party does not have to depend on the goodwill and support of some small and insignificant political groups when making their most important decisions."

"Canada is on the way to becoming a great power and is progressing in many respects, especially economically. But in the last few years her authority in international relationships has been deteriorating.

"Canada is faced at the present time with some great decisions and it must have a government which can face them with full authority."

Dr. Krnjevic, who was also vice-president of the wartime government of Yugoslavia, has toured Canada to speak to Croatian groups. He is currently observing the political campaign of his long-time friend, Mladin Zorkin, Liberal candidate for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands.

Fares Cut

PORT ALBERNI — W. L. Gillespie, president of B.C. Airlines, has announced a new excursion service between the valley and the Vancouver Airport. It will start June 29.

Mr. Gillespie was the guest speaker at the Port Alberni chamber of commerce luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Barclay Hotel.

Starting at the end of the month, travelers will be offered a three-day excursion fare between the two cities.

Rates have been set at $20 for the round trip.

Timber Wolf Killed

SAYWARD — For the first time for many years wolves have been seen in the Sayward area.

A large timber wolf was shot by Andy Zaplotiski when the animal entered his yard on Monday.

The first wolf, which had different coloring, was seen in the garden of Henry Olson about three weeks ago. Residents suspect there is a den near the community and that there are also cubs with the adults.

A big black bear was shot recently in a new subdivision in Sayward.

Ambulance Society

Fast Action Promised On New Quarters

DUNCAN — Directors of the Cowichan Valley regional district board were warned Wednesday night that more ambulance drivers at Duncan may quit because of "totally inadequate facilities."

The board promised action as soon as possible.

Bill Burak of the Duncan Kiwanis Ambulance Society complained about the board's lack of action in the past few months.

★ ★ ★

He said his organization has a good staff of drivers but they will not stay unless better quarters are provided.

All drivers are volunteers and some already quit.

Mr. Burak said, "We have to get the building up.

"The total cost is $25,707 less the property if the city donates it. "The Kiwanis are putting up $5,000 and only a measly $20,000 is left. "We don't need all the red tape otherwise we shall not have any drivers left.

"This thing has been going on for five months."

Director Bruce Devitt said that the regional district board, which only began operating some months ago, cannot be expected "to fix what this area has been lacking for the past 10 years."

★ ★ ★

Mr. Burak agreed, but warned the problem must be solved promptly.

He said the present ambulance quarters has a leaking roof, there are no heating or toilet facilities, no plumbing and dirt blows through the cracks in the walls.

Another step ahead to provide new recreational facilities in the Duncan area was made after board representatives from Glenora, Cobble Hill and Cowichan Bay said they would be in favor of holding a plebiscite in their areas.

Residents will be asked whether they would be in favor of participating in building a covered swimming pool and a community centre at Duncan.

Already committed to hold a money bylaw for about $800,000 in September are North Cowichan municipality and Duncan councils.

★ ★ ★

Unorganized areas south of Duncan which are in favor would also hold a bylaw this fall. The regional board will meet in two weeks to make further preparations for the plebiscite in the three unorganized areas.

Board directors representing Shawnigan Lake, Mill Bay and Lake Cowichan said their areas would not be interested in taking part.

Logger Dies

CAMPBELL RIVER—Logger Robert Lorne Duff, 20, was killed when crushed by a rolling log Wednesday at a lumber camp at Kelsey Bay.

Young Players Receive Hockey Awards

By BEA HAMILTON

FULFORD — The annual roller hockey league awards have been presented.

Cpl. Fred Rhodes introduced Dr. Gerry Nestman of Rainbow Road, Ganges, during the prize giving. He is the physician who travelled with the Canadian Olympic team through Europe as assistance manager.

Dr. Nestman, describing his experiences with the team, said it was a great privilege to work with the young people. "You meet the finest of university men in the Olympic league games," he said.

★ ★ ★

He said he was honored to speak to the hockey league members and pictures them as possible Olympic players.

Dr. Nestman said he liked their clean sport.

A tribute was paid to an absent member, Norman Stevens, who has been in Vancouver general hospital for some time. He won the award for the most valuable player for two years before becoming seriously ill.

The boys gave him a rousing cheer when he was mentioned by Mike Byron, chairman.

Honored at the head table were coaches, referees and many who had given considerable time to helping the boys. May Queen Carol Moulton presented the awards. She was assisted by her princesses, Leslie Barnes and Ginny Horel.

★ ★ ★

This year the Fulford teams won all the championship playoffs and league championships.

Most sportsmanlike awards went to Wayne Taylor, seniors, donated by Bob Akerman; Jay McManus, intermediates, donated by Mouat Brothers of Ganges; and Michael Rhodes, Pee Wee, donated by Bob Akerman.

Pee Wee League awards were: best goaltender award, donated by Max Allard, Dick Eng; award for play-off championships, donated by Fernwood Store, Top Cats; league championships, donated by Douglas Hawkes, Top Cats; most valuable player, donated by Ron Pappenburger, Tom Langdon and most improved player, Gordon Lee.

★ ★ ★

Intermediate: goaltender award, donated by Cruickshank Construction, Doug Stewart; most valuable player, donated by the Lion's Club, Paddy Akerman and Larry Townley; playoff championship award, donated by Gar Taylor Trophies; most improved player award, Jimmy Moulton; league championships award, donated by Leisure Lanes, Fulford.

Senior: best goalie award, donated by Don Lawley, Fergie Foulis; most valuable player donated by Driftwood, Pat Slingsby; most improved player, Mike Alexander, and Rick Kyler; senior league championship, donated by Fulford Athletic Club, Fulford; senior playoff championships, donated by Jack Roland, Fulford Barons.

★ ★ ★

The player appreciation award went to Rick Saunders for his willingness to help out as referee and in any other capacity when help was needed.

Cpl. Fred Rhodes was main referee for the league games.

Nanaimo

Parties' Talk Packs Forum

NANAIMO — The Junior Chamber of Commerce all-candidate political forum at the Shoreline Hotel ballroom Tuesday was packed, with people standing in the corridors.

Conservative candidate Jeffrey Brock spoke first and reiterated policies he had made earlier that day during a Kiwanis luncheon.

"All we've been getting from the government in power is a cry about the spiralling costs," Mr. Brock said.

★ ★ ★

He said Canada has been suffering shrinking confidence in her abilities as a country, both internationally and within, by the young people.

He warned that people should beware of "those who represent a party with little chance of being elected . . . to promise pie in the sky."

He said forums, radio broadcasts and TV coverage of politicans carries with it the danger of these politicians making rash promises and claims.

Liberal, Mladin Zorkin, last to speak, said he would prefer to see all civic, provincial and federal meetings covered by modern mass media.

"Everyone has a right to hear," he maintained.

"If we are going to live in the 20th century, we must learn to use the mass media of the 20th century.

★ ★ ★

He said claims that the economy is facing, and has been experiencing, difficult days is wrong.

He said the past five years have shown a steadily increasing economy.

He said the cry to rid Canada of American financial interest is, in effect, a cry for a lower standard of living.

He said in the Nanaimo area alone, U.S. capital represents a 40 per cent investment.

"We are using American capital, and drawing wages out of it," Mr. Zorkin said.

Colin Cameron, NDP, said when civilization faced extinction under Hitler's war, Canada had found solutions within her borders.

★ ★ ★

The country at that time could not depend upon external funds for loans, and had instituted policies, relying upon her own wealth.

This, he said, is the same program Canada should adopt now.

He attacked both Liberal and Conservative leaders for not specifically outlining policies.

Referring to the Carter Commission report, he said the NDP party has "been pounding in season and out of season, for the right of the logger to deduct costs of his equipment."

He said under present taxation systems, large companies may deduct money spent to purchase equipment, but the private individual cannot.

He said, of the present government, "are they going to continue to give tax concessions to mining companies?"

Lorne Lee, Social Credit, said he did not know all the answers, "because I've never been to Ottawa, except on a visit.

"However, I do know these answers have to be found.

"I do know the problems that face us, mostly from experience."

★ ★ ★

He said one of the main problems in B.C. is the lack of aid to agriculture, "one of our greatest industries, if handled properly."

He said homesteaders having filed on land, and applied for grants to clear it, found they could not harvest and sell crops.

"They're sitting on good land that should be productive, while we bring in food from other countries.

Costs Fly Higher With Each Pound

DUNCAN — Local residents who want to see the Cowichan valley from the air had better go on a strict diet because flights will cost two cents a pound during the second annual fly-in of Duncan Flying Club on Saturday and Sunday.

The club has soared to wide popularity during its 1½ years of operation. Last year during the club's first fly-in pilots from various parts of the continent descended on Duncan.

This year's event includes comedy flying acts, flower bombing, glider display, formation flying and a static display.

Co-ordinator Named For TV in Schools

PORT ALBERNI — The school board here has announced the appointment of Robinson Mah as audio-visual co-ordinator in a plan to institute educational TV in local schools.

★ ★ ★

During the first year, Mr. Mah will be chiefly concerned with introducing education television in the district's two largest schools — Alberni district secondary school and Eighth Avenue elementary school. Long range plans call for provision of a central audio-visual service for all schools.

"Mr. Mah's duties will be that of an educator rather than a technician" the board stated.

"He will determine what materials are to be taped or purchased and what equipment is to be acquired. His duties will include the building and administration of a library of audio-visual materials.

★ ★ ★

"As co-ordinator Mr. Mah will assist teachers and principals with their problems in presenting instructional materials."

Mr. Mah attended local schools and graduated from Vancouver Technical and Vancouver Normal School.

Labor Supports Psychiatric Plan

PORT ALBERNI — The Alberni and District Labor Council is backing efforts by the recently-formed Committee for Social Action to provide psychiatric service in the Alberni valley.

The council has also expressed the hope that the committee would be able to branch out into other fields of service badly needed in the community.

Arrival of a psychiatrist would enable help to be given in family guidance and counselling, as well as treating emotionally disturbed children and adults, the committee has pointed out.

The council has endorsed the effort of the group which has approached the school board and hospital board in its attempt to provide support for a psychiatrist.

A long discussion also took place over the coming federal election. The council has taken the position that it supports the New Democratic Party's program on such matters as increased public and low-rental housing, and an equitable taxation system based on the Carter report.

Stanfield May Bare Shipyard Policy

Chief in Vancouver

By IAN STREET
Colonist Reporter

VANCOUVER — The crisis in the West Coast shipbuilding industry is likely to be the prime topic when Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield addresses an election rally in Memorial Arena at 8:30 p.m. today.

When the Tory leader came to Vancouver Wednesday morning from Edmonton he was greeted at Kerrisdale Arena by about a dozen pickets carrying signs protesting building of ships overseas while hundreds of B.C. shipyard workers are jobless.

Youthful party workers carrying Stanfield signs jostled elbow to elbow with picketers who identified themselves as representatives of maritime and shipyard unions affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labor.

The picketers' signs called for immediate establishment of a Canadian merchant marine and protested the building in Japan recently of two lumber carriers by MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.

When Mr. Stanfield stepped from his open car after travelling from Vancouver International Airport a party official using a bull horn led mini-skirted cheerleaders in a chant of "Go, Bob, Go."

The pickets, who all claimed to be unemployed seamen and shipyard workers from the Lower Mainland, brandished their signs and shouted: "Can-

Wives, Politicians Can't Visit Quebec Yard Campers

QUEBEC (CP) — Outsiders including politicians and reporters Wednesday were refused access to the George T. Davie Co. shipyards in nearby Lauzon where 33 workers have been camping in tents since last week to protest the closing down of the shipyards.

Richard Milhomme, chairman of an emergency committee set up by the shipyard workers' union to look after the campers' welfare, said in an interview it now is impossible to get on the site.

The workers set up tents before the shipyards closed down Saturday, protesting that 1,000 men would lose their jobs because the Canadian Vickers Co. Ltd. had decided to sell the Davie Co. and discontinue its Lauzon operations.

"One camper's wife was ordered off the site by harbor police," Milhomme said, "and a CBC reporter had to conduct an interview across a fence because he was refused permission to enter the grounds."

Two candidates in the June 25 federal election—Raymond Gay, Liberal candidate in Levis and Paul Emile Dube, his Progressive Conservative opponent—were refused access to the camping grounds.

Up-Island Cities See Him First

VANCOUVER (Special) — Conservative leader Robert Stanfield will be campaigning in three up-Island centres today before flying to Victoria for an evening rally in Memorial Arena.

He is scheduled to land at Cassidy Airport at 10:45 a.m. and drive into Nanaimo where he is expected to arrive at Harbor Park shopping centre about 11:15 a.m.

The Tory leader will be greeted by Mayor Frank Ney and Conservative candidate Jeffrey Brock. After a luncheon reception at noon in the Tallyho Inn the official party will depart by air for Comox.

At 2:35 p.m. Mayor Ron Ellis and Conservative candidate Blair McLean will welcome Mr. Stanfield at the Comox Shopping Plaza. He will spend about half an hour there before driving to Courtenay. There he will be met by Mayor George Hobson of Courtenay, Mayor Bill Henderson of Cumberland and former Conservative member of Parliament Harry McQuillan.

The party is scheduled to leave Comox airport at 4:10 p.m. arriving at Patricia Bay about 5 p.m. where he will be met by George Chatterton, Conservative candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich, and Victoria candidate Eric Charman.

Mr. Stanfield and his party will stay in the Empress Hotel overnight following the 8:30 p.m. meeting in Memorial Arena. He is scheduled to leave by air early Friday for Moose Jaw.

Six of 63 Killed In Crash of Jet

NEW DELHI (AP) — A Pan American Airways Boeing 707 jetliner groping its way in for a landing in a rainstorm caught fire and burned today at Calcutta's Dum Dum airport. First reports said six of the 63 persons aboard died.

All India Radio said the rear end of the plane —inbound from Bangkok—broke out in flames about the same time as it landed.

ALLIES DENOUNCE THREAT TO BERLIN

Bonn Will Hike Aid to Enclave

LONDON (AP) — Britain, the United States and France denounced Wednesday night East Germany's new taxes and restrictions on West German travel and commerce links with West Berlin. They said they will take up the matter with the Soviet Union.

In Bonn, the West German cabinet decided to increase subsidies to the isolated city and make up any economic losses it suffers from what some Germans considered the biggest threat to the city's economy since the 11-month Berlin blockade in 1948-49.

The East German measures, apparently approved by the Soviet Union, drew protests from both leftist and conservative students in West Berlin.

Red flag-waving leftists were turned back by East Berlin border guards when they tried to deliver a note to communist officials, accusing them of repeating "socialist politics with bureaucratic stipulations."

DEEPEN DIVISION

Some 2,500 conservative students marched on the four-power Air Safety Control Centre with a resolution demanding "decisive steps for the maintenance of our freedom" from the Western Allies.

The allies called the East German measures "contrary to long standing international agreements and practice" and tending to "deepen the division of Germany and of Europe."

WILL APPROACH SOVIETS

Britain's foreign office said the three will make "any appropriate representations to the Soviet government, which shares with them the responsibility not only for unhindered Berlin access but also for an ultimate solution of the German problem." A similar statement was issued in Washington.

Earlier, Chancellor Kurt George Kiesinger of West Germany met in Bonn with the U.S., British and French ambassadors to discuss a unified political approach toward the measures, announced 24 hours before by East Germany.

The regulations require for the first time that West Germans hold passports and visas

PARIS — Thousands of French people, called out by students and trade unions, demonstrated peacefully throughout the country Wednesday night in defiance of a government ban on demonstrations.

The only report of violence came from Strasbourg where university students fought with riot police. Police tried to storm Strasbourg University but were repelled after a battle with students wielding chairs and pieces of table.

At other provincial centres demonstrations, technically illegal after the government invoked a 1936 law Wednesday, passed off without incident.

★ ★ ★

The largest took place in the large southern seaport of Marseilles where about 3,000 students marched through the streets, watched silently by police.

In Paris, several hundred students waving red communist and black anarchist flags marched around the Cite Universitaire, a suburban block of buildings which houses foreign students.

★ ★ ★

Meeting after a wild night of violence in Paris and elsewhere, the cabinet Wednesday decided on a series of tough measures in an attempt to restore order for general elections June 23 and 30.

President de Gaulle's government also ordered seven extremist student groups dissolved.

Striking employees of the state-run radio and television networks called off a proposed peaceful rally of listeners and viewers they had scheduled to support their demands for news reporting without government interference.

The wave of social unrest claimed its fifth fatality. A 49-year-old worker died from a fractured skull suffered during a pitched battle Tuesday between police and strikers at the Peugeot car works at Sochaux, 220 miles southeast of Paris.

Nuclear Check

Treaty Wins UN Stamp

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The General Assembly gave overwhelming endorsement Wednesday to a draft treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons and heard President Johnson pledge the United States to press all efforts to end the nuclear arms race.

The vote on a resolution commending the treaty — soon to be opened for signatures — was 95 to 4 with 21 abstentions. This was an improvement over the vote in the main political committee Monday on the same resolution. On that occasion, it was approved 92 to 4, with 22 abstentions.

Little Chad switched from the abstention column to the affirmative, and Costa Rica and Cameroon, among four absentees Monday, voted in favor this time around.

The United States president, closely guarded, arrived at the UN building just after the vote. He called the non-proliferation treaty "the most important international agreement in the field of disarmament since the nuclear age began" at the end of the Second World War.

The treaty, jointly sponsored by the United States and the Soviet Union in a rare showing of East-West accord, also has the backing of Britain among the world's five nuclear-weapons powers. The other two, France and mainland China, have said they will not sign it.

France said it would adhere to the treaty in exactly the same fashion as the U.S., U.S.S.R. and Britain. France's complaint was that the Geneva discussions had not resulted in any reduction of armaments.

Hippies Fear Catastrophe Heading for the Hills

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Among a few of the mystically minded flower children of the Haight-Ashbury set, the word is out: the sky is falling.

The great event takes place Friday when a jagged piece of rock, technically known as the asteroid Icarus, passes within 4,000,000 miles of earth.

★ ★ ★

Some concerned hippies, confusing their astronomy and astrology, have fled to Boulder, Colo., because they believe the high retreats to be safe from destruction Icarus will wreak. (See also Page 47.)

"Many of the kids tell us they're splitting the city," said a worker at the Haight-Ashbury medical clinic for hippies. "They want to know whether we're splitting, too, because they think the San Andreas (earthquake) fault is going to open up. We tell them we're staying right here."

★ ★ ★

The citizens of Boulder fear the influx of hippies more than they do Icarus. Vigilantes committees have been formed and there are reports that two loiterers were fired upon.

"We've come up here because this is the safest place in the world to be if it happens — here and Tibet," said one shaggy-haired native of Miami.

Chicken Little and more modern astrology students not withstanding, there is no truth, experts say, to rumors Icarus will hit the earth or pass so close that continents will sink, the lost island of Atlantis will rise and all of California will be inundated by a tidal wave.

Actually, Icarus probably won't even disturb the leaves in a gypsy teacup when it sweeps along its looping solar orbit and passes about 3,950,000 miles from earth. And it most assuredly will not change the tides, alter the weather or touch off an earthquake.

★ ★ ★

Icarus, which is about six-tenths of a mile in diameter, won't even reflect enough sunlight to be observed by the naked eye. But it will be studied with interest by astronomers as a further check on Einstein's general theory of relativity.

British Speeding Up Extradition Moves

● Anonymous young Mountie spotted Ray in passport files. Page 50.

LONDON (AP) — The British government started speedy official action Wednesday on a formal U.S. request for the extradition of James Earl Ray to stand trial for the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

But court formalities and appeals, if the 40-year-old escaped convict chooses to use them, could delay Ray's return to the U.S. up to six weeks.

He is being held under British charges of carrying a forged Canadian passport.

Within hours after receiving the U.S. petition, the foreign office certified that the request fell within the terms of the 1931

How Will We Vote?

Countdown Days Show Little Is Certain

By JOHN MATTERS

Twelve days before election day, Victorians appear to be an unsettled political crowd whose votes to a large degree will respond to the persuasive powers of the string of national leaders who will be here before June 25.

As a result, it is impossible to forecast the results in Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich with any degree of accuracy.

One or two groups have been making refined studies of attitudes, mainly in the city, but the results have not been the unexpected: an NDP stronghold in James Bay, a Liberal and Conservative patchwork elsewhere with an uncommitted Social Credit vote which, in the past, has been interpreted only as a protest voice on the federal scene.

★ ★ ★

A complicating factor this week has been the announcement of a provincial by-election in Oak Bay July 15.

Election and party officials report a large number of telephone calls confusing the byelection with the general election. If many go to the polls June 25 under the impression that it is a provincial contest, on B.C. issues, the outcome could be bizarre.

The Oak Bay provincial constituency straddles both federal ridings, only one of which, Esquimalt-Saanich, has a Social Credit candidate.

And by the time the date of the byelection rolls around, voters may be just a little fatigued by politics. It is hard to say how they will feel when they will have to go to the polls later this year to vote in a hospital referendum and, in December, the municipal elections.

However, in the next few days, if anything will catch their ears it will be the national leaders — Robert Stanfield, Pierre Trudeau or T. C. Douglas, who are coming to Victoria in that order.

Mr. Stanfield's rally is tonight at Memorial Arena while Mr. Trudeau will meet the people at Beacon Hill Park and at stops on his way to the airport Monday night.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Douglas, whom the polls show has catapulted into national interest by last Sunday's TV "debate," will be here June 23, only two days before the election.

In Victoria, Conservative Eric Charman appears to be the most vigorous campaigner, handing out his cards and shaking hands since that night in late April when the election was announced.

★ ★ ★

His campaign style, however, is a contrast to that of David Groos, who is seeking re-election. He has a campaign crew of Liberal strategists who have been through many elections and, this time, are involving a lot of young people.

The two NDP candidates in this area — Dr. Harvey Richardson in Victoria and Donald Johannessen in Esquimalt-Saanich — have been exploiting the personal, door-to-door approach possibly more than any of their rivals.

★ ★ ★

George Burnham, the independent, has been turning up at every possible public platform. Last week, he was at an "open house" at Mr. Groos' headquarters and on Tuesday night was handing out his literature after the Social Credit nominating convention in Oak Bay.

The needle of the balance keeps swinging from one side to the other in Esquimalt-Saanich, which one national analyst says is the safest Conservative seat in B.C.

George Chatterton, the former reeve of Saanich with seven years experience in Ottawa, has been doing a lot of spadework and probably knows more constituents by their first names than any other politician in this area.

However, the social characteristics of Saanich Peninsula have changed considerably in the past two or three years — there has been an influx of young and professional people who may tend to respond to Liberal David Anderson.

The Chatterton campaign may be overlooking the fact that Mr. Anderson was born and raised here and knows many of those newcomers to the peninsula.

★ ★ ★

Roy Overton, the Social Credit candidate, has admitted that he's running for the sake of having the party on the ballot paper. He will get the diedlehards and those who think it's a provincial election.

Report's Value:

Invitation To Invest

Principal value of the Wharf Street waterfront report, submitted Tuesday to city council, is that it points the way for the introduction of $26,000,000 in private money into a blighted area, according to Mayor Hugh Stephen.

Most aldermen who could be reached Wednesday concurred with the mayor, and the management of one major downtown business thought the 90-page document could herald complete revitalization of the city's business core.

Reginald W. Hind, manager of the Victoria branch of Eaton's of Canada, welcomed the proposals in the report as an imaginative step forward and said that his company would like to confirm its faith in the downtown area and its determination to remain in its present location.

Ald. Percy Frampton was the only member of city council who voiced reservations about the report.

"I can't say that I am overly enthusiastic," Ald. Frampton said Wednesday. "It seems to me that a good deal of the information it contained we already had, and that it is not a definite document. Rather it is an indicator that we will have to do a lot more study and research before we can come up with any positive answers, and this is going to cost the city a lot more money.

"We all knew we were going to have to do something about this area and this, it seems to me, is just about what the report states," Ald. Frampton said.

Purpose Achieved

Mayor Stephen said he felt that if the report did nothing but provide a broad outline of what needed to be done and some well-thought-out cost estimates, it would have achieved its purpose.

The mayor stressed that the feasibility report did not cost the city $70,000, as stated, but rather about half that amount.

He pointed out that a good deal of the initiative for development of the depressed area would not lie in the hands of the city, and he expected that work would start at once on the preparation of plans for action.

The waterfront survey, prepared by the Vancouver firm, Acres Western Ltd., over a period of seven months, envisaged a high-density apartment, marine, hotel area in the 52 acres under study, with pedestrian walkways, malls and an improved traffic arterial system.

It saw the developed area as a good site for a municipal convention centre.

Ald. Ian Stewart agreed with an observation made earlier by Mayor Stephen that expert opinion, no matter what it cost, was cheap for a municipality.

Two More Partners

The mayor added that it was particularly important in an urban renewal project such as that projected, because there were two other partners, the federal and provincial governments, and it was vital that the city, which was the chief beneficiary, present an unbiased picture.

Ald. Robert Baird said he also believed the survey to be a good one. It was evident, he said, that the district would develop as a high-density area of the city, and while there would be a certain risk involved in implementing such development, it was minimized by the use of a report such as that prepared by Acres Western.

The whole development, the alderman added, hinged on the city's ability to attract private money, and if it took a municipal expenditure of $1,000,000 or more to do this, it was well worth it.

The report saw the city spending an initial $1,200,000 to get the plan in motion, and this amount would increase to $2,000,000 or more with interest charges.

However, it was expected that this expenditure would draw about $26,000,000 in private capital into the district by 1981, and this would in turn, bring more than $500,000 a year to the city in tax revenue.

'We Shall Return' To Closing College

"We shall return," St. Louis College principal Kevin Molloy pledged Wednesday in an emotional graduation ceremony marking closure of the 104-year-old school for boys.

Brother Molloy, voice husky with emotion, raised the hope of resurrecting the school before nearly 500 students, parents, alumni and friends.

★ ★ ★

So did Bishop Remi de Roo, spiritual head of all Island Catholics, as he praised the work of the school's teaching staff, the Christian Brothers of Ireland.

"... I look forward to the day when we can welcome them back to Victoria," said the bishop.

Final graduation exercise was held in the lofty First United Church Fellowship Hall.

Brother Molloy, soon to take up a new post in Newfoundland, recalled the founding of the school in 1864 by the Oblate Fathers. It is the second-oldest in B.C.

★ ★ ★

"My correspondence over the past several weeks from people of all faiths and from different parts of the world certainly proves the respect the school enjoyed and only sharpens the pain of its needless demise," he said.

(Failure of a fund drive for renovation and expansion was blamed for the decision.)

Brother Molloy recalled the words of the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur when he was forced to evacuate The Philippines during the Second World War.

★ ★ ★

"Please God, conditions in Victoria will, in God's providence, hold true to my MacArthurian promise: 'We shall return'," said the principal.

Bishop de Roo told the audience that Catholic education remained in crisis.

"I don't know if you realize how profound it (the crisis) is," he said. "It continues to menace our elementary schools as well.

★ ★ ★

"It is part of the wide spread upheaval affecting society throughout North America and around the world."

Bishop de Roo added:

"The crisis we are in surpasses our present understanding and our control. It is a total upheaval of society which will go on for some time."

A special guest was George Burnes, 86, the school's oldest alumnus, son of the builder of Burnes House, recently renovated in Bastion Square. Mr. Burnes, now living at 919 Vancouver, started school in 1892.

Top student award in the graduating class went to Patrick Griffin, son of ex-city alderman Michael Griffin. He took the Brother John E. Ryan Memorial Scholarship, and also spoke as valedictorian.

In addition, Patrick won the class English award.

Other award winners; Denis Flynn, the O'Connel Award; Michael Percy, the Christian Brothers' Bursary; Richard Philion, the Bausch and Lomb Award, and second place in the Christian Brothers' Bursary; Ronald Gaudet, the French Award.

After 104 years of service — an empty stage.

San Juan Ferry Service Soon Three-per-Day

The summer service schedule of three sailings a day from Sidney to the San Juan Islands and Anacortes will go into effect Sunday and last until Sept. 3, Washington State Ferries announced Wednesday.

Daily departure times from Sidney will be 11 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 4:45 p.m.

Tories Charge Word-Twisting

By BILL STAVDAL

Liberal and Conservative candidates crossed swords Wednesday on the question of who has promised what, and where.

Grit and Tory hopefuls in the June 25 federal election accused each other of making concessions to Quebec, of making different promises in different parts of the country, and of twisting each other's words.

The exchange came at the Silver Threads Centre in Centennial Square, where about 150 people gathered to hear all candidates in both Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich ridings. All but Esquimalt-Saanich Socred Roy Overton showed up.

UN FOR QUEBEC

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal David Anderson set the stage with the charge that Conservative promises had encouraged Quebec separatist Marcel Faribault to foresee seating in the UN for Quebec as a sovereign state.

"One thing is being said in the east, and another thing out here," declared Mr. Anderson.

He said he had checked employment figures in Vancouver Island shipyards and discovered there are 2,903 persons employed.

SAME THING

"We have said the same thing in all parts of the country," he said. "I ask you: have our opponents done the same?"

A few minutes later, Victoria Conservative Eric Charman retorted that with HMC Dockyard excluded, the actual employment figure had dropped from 2,500 to 500 in the past five years.

A Conservative government in Ottawa would reintroduce regional considerations in shipbuilding, he said.

TORY POLICY

"We're going to revert back to the Conservative policy that ships for the West Coast will be built on the West Coast," said Mr. Charman.

Mr. Chatterton, Esquimalt-Saanich's incumbent Conservative MP at dissolution, also attacked Mr. Anderson.

"He's twisting the words of Mr. Stanfield," he charged.

Mr. Chatterton also charged that Prime Minister Trudeau has promised a $17,000,000 ferry for the Bay of Fundy, despite his announced intention of making no election promises involving money.

SPECIAL STATUS

In the question period, Mr. Anderson said the Conservative Party accepted the principle of special status for Quebec when it chose a new leader last winter.

"Their own record, at the convention, of accepting special status . . . will lead to the seating of Quebec in the UN as a sovereign nation," said Mr. Anderson.

That brought Mr. Charman to his feet. He said former prime minister Pearson invited special status for Quebec last winter when he called for "a great new act of accommodation."

GROOS HESITANT

David Groos, Victoria's incumbent Liberal in the last Parliament took no part in the exchange. He said a Liberal government would "improve the quality of life in Canada," and called Prime Minister Trudeau "the Sir Wilfred Laurier of his age."

Donald Johannessen, New Democrat seeking the Esquimalt-Saanich seat, said the guaranteed annual income was part of the NDP program.

It could be done by a "negative income tax," he said, which would involve no new bureaucracy. Persons earning less than a certain minimum income would apply for a refund bringing them up to the set level.

Dr. Harvey Richardson, Victoria NDP choice, said some pensioners were living on old and inadequate pensions which are cut if the pensioner accepts the $30 federal supplement.

SOCIAL JUSTICE

"It has been our party which has consistently stood up for social justice," he said.

Victoria's independent, George Burnham, spoke only on the Red Ensign, which he wants to put back on Canadian flagpoles.

Mr. Burnham waved a Bible and cited chapter and verse of the Book of Isaiah in support of his stand.

Chapter 11, verse 12, says: "And he shall set up an ensign for the nations, and shall assemble the outcasts of Israel, and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth."

BIBLE AND HISTORY

Mr. Burnham also said that chapter 32 of Isaiah tells "the history of our Parliament for the past five years."

Verse 5 says: "The vile person shall be no more called liberal, nor the churl said to be bountiful."

Weather Check Calms Liberals

The Liberals have been quite concerned about the possibility of rain Monday, when Prime Minister Trudeau calls in on Victorians. However, David Groos felt better after he had gone over the weather statistics for June 17. "It's like All-Sooke Day—it never rains," he said. Groos addresses the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club at 6:15 p.m. today at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Socred Candidate Signs Tory Pitch

A letter signed by G. P. A. Pollen soliciting money on behalf of the Victoria Conservative Association arrived at the offices of several doctors this week.

Mr. Pollen, a member of the local Conservative executive, was nominated by Social Crediters Tuesday night to contest the July 15 provincial byelection in Oak Bay.

Mr. Pollen's letter says medicare, the Canada Pension Plan, Company of Young Canadians, increased old-age assistance and other welfare measures were paid for in unbalanced budgets, runaway inflation and the loss of faith in Canadian bonds.

"And yet, amidst all this legislation, this debasing of our dollar, this stifling of the individual, this overwhelming obsession for the distribution of the wealth of the country, there has not been a single piece of legislation to encourage individual enterprise or productivity," he adds.

He said he was sure "it must be as obvious to you, as a physician, as it is to me that the country needs a new direction and the elimination of images and personality cults."

Mr. Pollen suggests a strengthened Conservative party would bring about this change—"a strengthening that is possible only through your personal support and financial backing."

Pearkes Singles Out World of Children

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes has proclaimed Saturday World Children's Day. Children and members of organizations responsible for children's welfare have been asked to try to promote friendship and concern for less fortunate people to mark the day.

Chamber Searching For Citizen of Year

The Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce is seeking nominations for its annual award to the Man or Woman of the Year.

Nominations should be sent to the chamber as soon as possible, president William Armstrong said.

The award is presented annually to an outstanding Victorian who has made a definite contribution to the city's betterment.
